CONCERT LAST EVENING AT THE BAPTIST FEMALE SEMINARY,-The concert last evening at the Baptist Female Seminary was a brillant and recherche affair. The beautifully proportioned and spacious school room was filled with an appreciative audience. The music rendered, vocal and instrucandidate. Nothing was said about mental, was of the choicest description, and from the most approved masters. The duet, Directimento Preciosa, Miss Yarbrough and Prof. J. H. Norman, was executed with grace and precision, which harmonized exquisitely with the delightful tone of the instrument The song, "Lo hear the gentle lark" by Miss Pritchard, was the feature of the evening and received a deserved and hearty encore. Her warblings were indeed bird-like and blended with the rich, soft notes of Mr. William Simpson's flute in perfect second. This young lady's vocalistic powers are of the first order; her voice is clear, sweet and under admirable control. Its per time shall give to it the necessary vol- practicable period.

> The song, "The heart bowed down, Prof. J. H. Norman, was splendidly renround of applause.

The exquisite singing of Mrs. Norman, the accomplished wife of Profes sor J. H. Norman, gave to the entertainment one of its greatest charms, Nature and cultivation have combined to give her voice beautiful attributes. Her qualification for office, rendition of Di Tanti Palpiti can only be adequately characterized by the word

We have not space to enumerate all the performances worthy of special mention. All of the young ladies acquitted themselves in a manner slike creditable to them and their efficient instructor. The entertainment was in every respect a charming one, and gave an ample evidence of the thoroughness of the system of instruction pursued at this institution. We congratulate Prof. Hobgood, and his able corps of assistants, upon their success, and have no doubt that the future will realize all of THE STATE CONVENTION. PLATFORM A DOPTED.
