The civil service was suddenly discovered to stand in need of reform, and Grant reformed it by throwing out all honest men and filling their places with rogues. He is still on the reform.

Judges Wylie and Humphreys, of the District of Columbia, are arraigned as criminals. There is something in the very air of that region that begets scoundrelism. It is a universal contagion.

Either Fred, Douglass has given up trying to lead the colored element, or else the colored element is tired of the lead of a demagogue. Douglass has nothing to say, and we don't see that his silence worries any colored voter.

Condemnation of Grant could hardly be stronger than in the grand reception given the kicked-out postmaster-general, Jewell, the night he reached his home in Hartford. Fireworks, salute, torch-light procession, general illumination and speeches.

We do not consider it necessary at this time to publish anything regarding the new postmaster-general. If he proves to be an honest man, Grant will kick him out within a few weeks, and if he is dishonest a change of administration will do for him.

The stench of Orth's Venezuela rascalities has grown too strong even for Hoosier radical oratories, and their state committee is trying to find somebody to take his place on the ticket for governor. Commissioner Pratt declines the doubtful honor. And Orth is orthodox as a Hayes and Wheeler reformer.

One by one, they drop into the category of criminals. Step by step, Grant's cabinet ministers march toward the penitentiary. Robeson is the last one caught. The naval committee charge him with frauds and thievery, and squanderings of millions upon millions, and recommend his impeachment for high crimes and misdemeanors.

Republican Reform.

The state executive committee of the republican party is announced, and its composition conveys the extent and purpose of republican reform.

Here is the announcement:

As president of the republican convention of North Carolina for 1876, I hereby appoint the following gentlemen members of the republican state executive committee: Messrs. Thos. B. Keogh, chairman; Pinkney Rollins, J. J. Mott, James H. Harris, D. H. Starbuck, C. W. Grandy, J. E. West, Alfred Howe, David A. Phillips and S. F. Phillips, proxy for myself. Signed, S. F. Phillips.

Eight of the above persons are office-holders, the other four have lately been, and hope to be again. So it is practically a committee of office-holders.

Are there none but office-holders and place-hunters in the republican party in this state? If so, is there no one capable of exercising the functions of an executive committee, and if so, why are such appointments so exclusively restricted to place-men?

Samuel F. Phillips is the solicitor general of the United States. He is practically a cabinet officer, for in the absence of the attorney general, we are told, he attends the cabinet consultations of the president. Representing the wishes and reflecting the views of President Grant, he came down here by pre-arrangement to preside over the convention. So apparent was this, that when called upon incidentally to speak, during the temporary organization of the convention, he began by thanking those present for the high honor they had conferred upon him in calling him to preside at their deliberations.

The appointment of the executive committee devolved upon the president of the state convention; and this committee of office-holders is then the product of the solicitor general of the United States, traveling under the orders of his chief at Washington. Even the chairman of the committee is designated by this henchman of Grant.

W. W. Holden, postmaster, and the peculiar protegee of Grant, is brought back into the arena of politics—forced, as it were, from the retirement into which he had gone in pursuit of that peace and consolation which the world, beset by the flesh and the devil, does not afford to mortal man, in his natural and depraved state.

Two revenue collectors, Messrs. Joseph J. Mott and Pinkney Rollins represent western North Carolina in the republican state executive committee. They are doubtless familiar with those appliances of government employed of late years in controlling votes, and were doubtless selected for their known expertness in the use of the revenue rack and political thumb-screw.

D. H. Starbuck, late United States district attorney, may have been appointed a committeeman to refresh his memory respecting some cases of suspended judgment in the federal court during his term of office, and which may be revived, or so threatened, should circumstances render such proceeding advantageous or necessary to the public or party good. In such event there is fitness in having a late district attorney and the solicitor general on the same committee.

Alfred Howe, a colored man, was put on to propitiate the colored voters, and possibly to worry Major Wm. A. Smith, who got mad because Howe received forty odd votes in opposition to him for the nomination of lieutenant-governor. James H. Harris is never left off or out of places of empty honors, and he never seems to get on or into any others. It is interesting to see Harris and Holden harmonize after his denunciation of the postmaster and ex-governor in committee meeting last March.

But Timothy Lee, the proxy. "Here's richness for you." Late high-sheriff of Wake; and independent candidate for the constitutional convention last year. General disparager of Smith and denouncer of Holden; but son of Coburn the cipher, and brother to Logan the liar.

Samuel F. Phillips, solicitor general of the United States, is no stranger to Timothy F. Lee, or he would never have selected him to be his deputy, substitute, lieutenant and striker. Knowing him as he does, and familiar with his official history as Mr. Phillips is, that selection and recognition, made under the circumstances and over the heads, and against the protest of hundreds of good men of the republican party in the state, marks an event more than ordinary significance in this campaign.

It is snapping the finger of exultant contempt at such as are honest enough themselves, to look and hope for reform at the hands of the republican party. It proclaims that there is no standard of integrity in the minds of the highest republican officials; that there is left in them no sense of propriety that corruption and misgovernment have not perverted, decayed and destroyed; no sentiment whose fountains have not been polluted and poisoned by the foul birds of prey official corruption has hatched, and the cankerous worms and venomous reptiles the personal government of Grant has spawned.

An Appeal to the State.

The political campaign of 1876 has been commenced. Our candidates are in the field and the fight daily increases in interest and vigor. But there is one thing which we cannot realize too quickly nor too thoroughly, and that is that the campaign cannot run itself. If we expect to win the fight, then the central executive committee must be furnished with money sufficient to distribute campaign documents and for the other necessary and proper purposes of the campaign. In the struggle of 1875, the contributions for campaign purposes throughout the state amounted only to fifty-six dollars, and the result is a matter of history.

If this niggardly parsimony is to be repeated this year, the result will be left in serious doubt, our chances of success will be greatly diminished, disaster may be entailed upon the state. Daily applications are being received by the committee for campaign documents to which they are unable to respond for lack of funds. This state of things must not be allowed to continue. We can carry the state, but we cannot do so by lying upon our backs and saying that the republican ticket is made up of weak men and the democratic ticket of strong men. In fact this is but half true. We have a ticket strong in itself and of which we may be proud. If any set of men ever were able to carry an election unaided, it is the democratic nominees. But while this is true, it is no less true that our adversaries have put forward the strongest men in their ranks. We may make witty remarks on Settle's war record, and call Smith "Blow-Your-Horn-Billy," but the fact remains that they are going to receive a large number of votes, and unless we use every means in our power, it is not beyond the range of possibilities that they may receive enough to elect them.

We therefore call upon our people throughout the state to uphold the hands of our committee, for unless we do this, we lay ourselves liable to defeat in November.

A Radical Campaign Dodge.

We learn that some of the republican candidates on the state ticket are already announcing arrangements of a joint canvass with their democratic opponents.

Such announcements are premature, and are made for a purpose. It is expected in this way to draw crowds through the expectation of the people to see and hear a democratic candidate.

Major Smith, we learn, is already at this game, and has advertised at several points in Johnston making appointments for Mr. Jarvis and himself. We warn the people against the trick. All appointments for our canvassers on the state ticket will be duly announced in the Sentinel.

That's True.

The Herald, of Dallas, Texas, says: "Any effort of the administration to overawe the south and drag on public sentiment into a support of Hayes and Wheeler will only make the democracy stand firmer, be more of a unit, and win many of the honest liberal republicans for the Tilden and Hendricks ticket."

That is true, and we think the republican party is keen enough to see it. There is not a man at the north, except some fire-eater, or a newspaper, unless conducted by bigots, that would use a time speak against any attempt to intimidate the electors of the south from voting as their consciences dictate.

The Text.

The Pittsburgh Post is correct when it says that the masses regard the political question as republicanism with all its outrages, thefts, and extravagances, on the one hand; democracy, and a plain, honest, economical government on the other hand. This is the text and the issue. "All the rest," as Pope says, "is leather and prunella."

The Radical Game.

The radical door blowers are just now engaged in drawing crowds of white people under their canvas by announcing the names of distinguished democratic speakers to be present. This game can be easily blocked by democratic papers publishing, by authority, whenever and wherever any of our speakers are to fill an appointment.

Our beloved governor, who was so swift to write to Dr. Sears for facts against Col. Pool, and who unblatantly his shirt-collar for full throat-play in crying "thief" against that gentleman, is affectionately requested to chew on this little quid furnished by the Wilmington Journal:

If Col. Pool is the scoundrel you say he is, how dare you keep him in office? You call him a scoundrel and thief, but you keep him in office! Strange! We demand that you let the man go, Governor Brogden.

If Morton can force Grant to turn out honest men, why could he not force Hayes to do the same thing? One must bend to the influences that controlled the other.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Columbus county has not a pauper. A comfortable daily two-horse hack connects with the train from Reidsville to Leaksville.

New postoffices have been established at Ames' Turn-out, Zoar and Mt. Prospect, all in Union county.

Wilmington had two alarms of fire last Sunday. The lighted stump of a cigar was the cause of one.

The Hickory Press says several republicans up that way have about-faced and marched into the column for Vance and Tilden.

Diphtheria has appeared again in the family of James F. Harrison at Mt. Airy. He lost three children from it last winter.

The Wilmington Journal says North Carolina has begun to compete with the northern product, and is of excellent quality.

Prof. Tallichet, of Wilmington, has accepted a professorship in a high school at Nashville, and will leave for that place in the fall.

The Hickory Press is authority for the statement that in Watauga county, they don't know what a radical is. If you mention one they ask, "Is it a dry land or water animal?" The truth is, they all vote together in Watauga, and always democratic.

It is rumored that Col. Wm. Melroe has been appointed chief superintendent of the Carolina Central railway in place of Col. S. L. Fremont. Col. Melroe is at present superintendent of a road running from Atlanta to Chattanooga.—Charlotte Democrat.

One Pickard who charged in the Wilmington Post the democratic sheriff of Monroe with letting the rats eat up a crazy man in the county jail, now comes out and says it is not so, he was only laboring under an attack of the "rats" when he wrote the piece.

Rev. W. B. Harrell, Baptist preacher in Hillsboro, was recently astonished with a new suit of clothes, in very adroit style, while visiting some of the brethren in Alamance. He went to sleep, leaving the ground window open, and awoke in the morning to find all his clothes gone. The naked truth was hardly upon him before an entirely new suit was thrown in at the window and the good man in a fit of laughter jumped into a new fit of clothes.

A gentleman who has just reached this city, from Columbus, says he was there the other day when the news of the nomination of Settle was received. A former citizen of North Carolina, now a resident of the Palmetto state, upon hearing it, exclaimed: "Well, if Vance don't beat that ticket, I'll be d—d if I'll ever cross the state again! If I have to go north, I'll go first to Charleston and take a steamer!" He need have no fears of having this to do.—Charlotte Observer.

NEWS AND NOTES.

The radical factions in Alabama have united.

Hendricks and Tilden have met, consulted and agreed.

A life of Gov. Tilden will soon be issued by the Appletons.

Walker & Co., of Bradford, England, have failed for $3,250,000.

Grant has not yet pardoned his late whiskey-ring partner, Avery.

Contributions to the Custer monument amounted Sunday to $4,800.

All the leading Maryland independent are out for the St. Louis ticket.

The Louisiana rice-crop employs 30,000 hands and it is worth $3,000,000.

Old Zack Chandler has gone to Michigan to look after the disaffected Germans.

Mullett, Grant's supervising architect spent $227,000 more than the law allowed him.

Arthur Morse, a 27-year-old son of the inventor of telegraphy, was killed by falling from a train of cars, last Tuesday.

A company has been organized in St. Louis to build a new hotel that will cost $2,000,000, contain 2,000 rooms, and accommodate 3,500 guests.

Advices from southern Minnesota indicate that this year's crop of locusts has taken to itself wings and fled away in a northerly direction.

The Cumberland Valley railroad company has generously furnished its four hundred employees with tickets and free transportation to the centennial.

It is estimated that Generals Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse, of the North American aboriginal armies, have 10,000 warriors under their command.

In York county, Pa., July 11, John Scott was out mowing with a machine, and stepped forward and fell over the cutter bar. The horses started off, cutting off one leg and bruising him otherwise.

The Turks are perpetrating hideous atrocities in Serbia and Bosnia. They have butchered hundreds of women and children, cutting many of them to pieces, tossing babes in the air and catching them on their bayonets, and cutting off the heads of the dead and wounded on the battle-field.

South California has three temperance colonies. Two of them are in Los Angeles county, and the third in Santa Barbara county. The colonists are thrifty, quiet and enterprising, and the colonies themselves are in a most flourishing condition, the absence of intoxicating liquor attracting a moral and intelligent class of people.

The anti-Tammany democracy in New York are to have a Tilden and Hendricks ratification meeting the evening of the 24th, and the Tammany will ratify the evening of the 25th. The following speakers are announced to be present at the latter meeting: Hon. Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania; John Hancock, of Texas; J. Proctor Knott, of Kentucky; Charles C. Hooker, of Mississippi; John K. Tarbox, of Massachusetts; J. B. Gordon, of Georgia; and W. P. Whyte, of Maryland.

Discontinuance of the Fast Mails.

[Washington Special to the Baltimore Sun.]

Col. Thomas A. Scott, representing the Pennsylvania line, and Wm. H. Vanderbilt the New York Central, have addressed letters to the postoffice department announcing that as congress, instead of recognizing the value of the fast mail service, which has now been in operation ten months, has even reduced the old, unremunerative rates for mail service, they now advise the department that they cannot continue this class of service. They had hoped that the compensation would have been raised on the demonstration of the value of the service, but it being reduced instead, and the expense to the roads heavy, they have no other alternative. They will take off the special mail service July 22.

The Chicago Times, of July 11, says: Chicago had an election for mayor yesterday. Strangers should understand that it involved about as much attention as an average dog-fight. Heath's election will be crowned over as a republican victory. It is nothing of the kind. It indicates nothing further than that a combination of democrats, republicans and independents, aware of Mr. Heath's experience in the council, voted for him. It was no political fight, and called out but a trifling voting strength.

Cotton Market.

The following are the cotton quotations of yesterday as reported by Lee, Whitaker & Johnson:

Middlings	10 1/2 cents
Low Middlings	10 "
Tinged	9 1/2 "
Stains	8 1/2 @ 9 "
Deep Stains	8 "
Blue	7 @ 7 1/2 "
Market dull. No sales to-day. Giftings very light.

Every moment of our lives, every part of our body is wearing out and is being built up anew. This work is accomplished by the blood, but if the blood does not perform its work properly the system is poisoned. Cleanse the blood by the use of Dr. Bull's vegetable pills. Harmless but efficient.

I can up lift these hands before you, in the presence of my Creator, and say that in all that time of war and public distress, and through all that period of temptation and corruption which followed the war, not one dollar of dishonest money has ever stained their palms; and, hence, I can say that I never had a thought, whereas, self was preferred to the prosperity and honor of my native land.—Vance's speech at the Raleigh Convention.

A NEW THING INDEED.

The undersigned has undertaken the agency for the United States, of a splendid bust of SAMUEL J. TILDEN, the great reform candidate for the presidency.

This bust, which is nearly life size, has been executed by an eminent artist, and faithfully reproduced in plaster, making it a splendid ornament and a most desirable souvenir of the great reform campaign, for the incredibly low sum of five dollars.

Every democratic campaign club ought to have one. Special arrangements made with those who wish to take sub-agencies. This will be the best selling article of the campaign. Address all orders or enquiries to J. B. REAVIS, 117-1 Times Office, St. Louis, Mo.

THE ONLY SURE CURE FOR RUPTURE.—The oldest and best Hernia Surgeons in the world and some of the advantages offered by the Triumph Truss Company, 334 Bowery, N.
