

POETRY.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM.

Brighter than the rising day
When the sun in glory shines, Brighter than the diamond's ray Sparkling in Golconda's mines,

When our eyes are dimm'd with tears,
This can light them up again;
Sweet as music to our ears Faintly warbling o'er the plain.

Grief's dark cloud may 'round us roll,
Every heart may sink in woe,
Gloomy conscience rack the soul
And sorrow's tears in torrents flow;

When we cross the roaring wave
That rolls on life's remotest shore,
When we look into the grave
And wander through this world no more;

Let the world be sunk in sorrow,
Not an eye be charm'd or blest;
We see a fair to-morrow
Sailing in the rosy west;

Rules for the Heart & the Understanding.

O son of nature! let self culture be The object of thy earliest toils: as yet Thy lamp burns bright—thy day shines gloriously,

Wouldst thou the Unseen Spirit see:
First know to learn thyself; and He Will then be shadowed forth in thee!

God is a spirit through creation's whole,
As in this mortal tenement—the soul.

The sun that gives the world its fairest light
Is not yon orb welcomed by the morning hour,

And by the eve expelled;—it is the power Of an enlightening conscience pure and bright

Mark where thou standest first: & whence thou'rt come,
And whether goest, and straight speed these home.

The woe to come, the woe that's gone, Philosophy thinks calmly on:
But show me the Philosopher Who calmly bears the woes that are.

How wise is he who marks the fleeting day
By acts of virtue as it rolls away!

Be all thy views right forward, clear, and even:

The straightest line the soonest leads to Heaven.

Thou wouldst count all things, proud Philosophy,
Now measure space and weigh eternity!

First purify thy heart; then light thy mind
With Wisdom's lamp, and thou pure bliss shalt find.

The most perverted spirit has greatness in it,

The very savage bears a heart that's noble.

Virtue, though loveliest of all lovely things,
From modesty apart no more is fair;
And when her graceful veil aside she flings (Like ether opened to th' intrusive air) Loses her sweetest charms and stands a cypher there.

One Hundred & Fifty Dollars
REWARD.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on the 20th of February 1820, his NEGRO MAN SAM, who is 28 or 30 years of age, about six feet high, thin made, remarkably black, and a little marked with the small pox;
has thin whiskers, the hair on his head quite scattering, some places not having any, small red eyes, and a down look when spoken to.

SAM was raised by the subscriber, and is by trade a carpenter; he is also something of a seaman. I have been informed that he has procured a seaman's profession, and obtained forged free papers.— He has, no doubt, gone to some of the Northern seaports.

A reward of One Hundred and Fifty Dollars, if taken out of the state of North-Carolina, will be paid for the apprehension and confinement of Sam in jail, so that I get him again; or, a reward of Seventy-five Dollars, if he is taken and secured within the state.

All persons are forbid harboring or employing said Negro, and masters of vessels from carrying him away.
