BEAUCHAMP.

With the details of what is usually called the Beauchamp murder, the public is by this time sufficiently disgusted. Last, however, there should still linger some relic of sympathetic sentimentality in the general mind. We will touch upon a volume lately published in Kentucky, containing the confession of Beauchamp. It carries with it marks of authenticity, and we have no doubt of its being genuine. As a specimen of the excessive blood thirstiness of this wretched pair, we give the following passage, which describes their courtship:

"She refused the offer of my hand, but with such a burst of feeling as would have rendered her persisting in that refusal ten fold more painful.

But she told me there was insuperable objections within her own bosom to marriage, but her heart did not find that objection to me. In this she long persisted, but would never tell me what that fatal barrier to my happiness was. At length I resolved to take no denial, but to know the secret objection. She then told me with a firmness which spoke that it was the voice of fate, that the hand which should receive her's would have to revenge the injury a villain had done her. She said her heart could never cease to ache till Col. Sharp should die through her instrumentality; that he had blighted all her happiness; and while he lived, she should feel unworthy of my love. But, she said, she would kiss the hand, and adore the person who would revenge her; but that no one else save myself should do it.

"No conditions, nor any earthly proposition she could have made me, could have filled me with so much delight. Whenever I had contemplated a marriage with her, I had always esteemed the death of Col. Sharp a necessary consequence. I never for a moment could feel, that I could suffer a villain to live who had been the seducer of one I pressed to my bosom as a wife. And to hear her thus require what I had so much calculated on and desired, was peculiarly pleasing to me indeed. These feelings I expressed to her, and told her it had been my firm purpose to take Col. Sharp's life, if I married her."

A marriage which began with such ominous determinations could not fitly end but by suicide or on the scaffold. They practised firing with pistols till Mrs. B. became an expert shot. Her subsequent wish was to kill Col. Sharp with her own hands. He gives an account of a rencontre with Sharp in 1821, when he insulted and struck him with the hope of provoking him to fight a duel, but in vain. Then comes the particulars of the murder, which are horribly offensive. He had with him a mask made by his wife, and a knife, the point of which she had poisoned. The whole book is full of detestable sophistry and revolting details.—Noah.

Horrid Occurrence.—Mr. Jon. Brooks, of Richmond county, Ky. was murdered by one of his negro men on the 30th ult. The wretch killed his master with a hand-spike, and then heaped logs and brush upon him, to which he set fire, and his body was entirely consumed, excepting a few bones. The murderer has been arrested.

Dreadful.—The following are some of the particulars of an uncommon act of murder and suicide which occurred in Pinegrove, Penn. on the 4th ult. The murderer, John Eckel, had evinced strong hatred towards his sister, a woman aged about 24, for upwards of a year, (no doubt occasioned by a diseased mind) the proofs of which were so strong that he was compelled to leave her father's house. Her parents were taken sick last fall with the prevailing fever; upon hearing which, she informed them that if her brother would suffer her to be at peace, she would turn and administer to their wants—this he promised. A few weeks previous to committing the crime, his unnatural hatred returned more formidable than ever. He kept a gun constantly loaded, and carried a butcher's knife about his person. He declared to her the evening previous to committing the act, that they both must die within an hour. He was restless the whole night. At day-break he told her to be at rest, for he would not injure her, and went out of the house; but returned in a short time, picked up an account book and threw it on the floor, stating that there were several entries against persons who owed him money. As the father was in the act of picking it up, the brother seized his gun, and discharged a ball into his sister's breast. She shrieked—her father attempted to catch her in his arms, but she fell streaming with blood, and was a corpse in a few hours. The murderer retreated a short distance from the house, and instantly another shot was heard. He was discovered shortly afterwards about 60 yards from the dwelling, suspended by a rope to the limb of a tree, with his knees nearly touching the ground, part of his jaws and nose were shot away, and throat partially cut. His gun was found re-loaded, leaning against a tree, and his knife, coat and waistcoat, lying on the ground near it.

By Authority.

Laws of the United States, passed at the Second Session of the 19th Congress.

An Act to provide for Reports of the Decisions of the Supreme Courts.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a Reporter shall, from time to time, be appointed by the Supreme Court of the United States, to report its Decisions, who shall be entitled to receive, from the Treasury of the United States, as an annual compensation for his services, the sum of one thousand dollars; Provided, nevertheless, That the said compensation shall not be paid, unless the said Reporter shall print and publish, or cause to be printed and published, the Decisions of the said Court, made during the time he shall act as such Reporter, within six months after such Decisions shall be made; and shall deliver eighty copies of the Decisions, so printed and published, to the Secretary of State, without any expense to the United States; which copies shall be distributed as follows, to wit: to the President of the United States, the Judges of the Supreme Court, the Judges of the District Courts, the Attorney General of the United States, the Secretaries of State, Treasury, War, and Navy, and the Comptrollers of the Treasury, and the Judges of the several Territories of the United States, one copy each; five copies for the use of each House of Congress; and the residue of the copies shall be deposited in the Library of Congress: And provided also, That the said Decisions shall be sold to the public at large at a price not exceeding five dollars a volume.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That in case of the death, resignation, or dismissal from office, of either of the officers before mentioned, the said copies of the Decisions delivered to them, as aforesaid, shall belong, and be delivered over to their successors in said offices.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That this act shall be and continue in force for three years, and no longer.

Approved 22d Feb. 1827.

An Act to authorize the President of the United States to remove the Land Office in the Choctaw District, in the State of Mississippi.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for the President of the United States, whenever he shall deem it proper, to remove the Land Office, now located at Jackson, in the Choctaw Land District, in the State of Mississippi, and to locate and establish the same at any other convenient and suitable place within the same Land District. And it shall be the duty of the Register and Receiver of said Land Office, so soon as the removal shall be ordered, and such new location made, by the President, to remove all the records, books, and papers appertaining to said Land Office, to the place designated.

Approved 22d Feb. 1827.

An Act concerning the Entry of Vessels at the Port of Fairfield, Connecticut.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be lawful to make entry of any foreign ship or vessel, and of the cargo which may be on board the same, and to unlade such cargo, or any part thereof, at the port of Fairfield, in the State of Connecticut, under the regulations in such cases by law provided.

Approved 22d Feb. 1827.

An Act to exempt Swedish and Norwegian Vessels, and the merchandise imported therein, from the payment of discriminating duties of tonnage and impost, for a limited time, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the date of this act, until the termination of the next session of Congress, vessels truly and wholly belonging to the subjects of the King of Sweden and Norway, arriving in the United States, in ballast or with cargoes, shall be exempted from the payment of any other or higher duties or charges whatsoever, than vessels of the United States are required to pay under like circumstances; that merchandise, the produce and manufacture of the Territories of the King of Sweden and Norway, imported in Swedish or Norwegian vessels, shall not be subjected to any other or higher duties than are levied on the same kinds of merchandise when imported in American vessels; and that the exemption or privilege allowed by this act shall extend to vessels arriving, and merchandise imported, from the Swedish colony of St. Bartholomy: Provided, That the owners of vessels, arriving from said colony, in the United States, shall be inhabitants of that colony, and there established and naturalized, and shall have caused their vessels to be there naturalized.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to cause to be repaid or remitted, all alien or discriminating duties of tonnage or impost, which since the twenty-fifth of September last may have been paid, or secured to be paid, on vessels of the description mentioned in the first section of this act, or on merchandise imported in such vessels, for the purpose of such repayment, any money in the Treasury, not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated.

Approved 22d Feb. 1827.

OFFICE OF THE AMERICAN FARMER,
Baltimore, Friday, Feb. 23, 1827.

WE wish that every friend of this Journal should understand, and that they would have the kindness to make it known, that to any one who will procure four subscribers, and remit on their account $20, we will send a fifth copy of the American Farmer without charge—or, any one who will procure five subscribers, will be allowed to retain $5, on his remitting the remaining $20. We beg also to repeat, that all which is necessary to be done by any one, wishing to subscribe, is to enclose a five dollar note by mail, at the risk of, and addressed to The Editor of the American Farmer, Baltimore—and whether the money be received or not, the paper will be forwarded immediately, and the actual receipt of each number of the volume will be guaranteed by the Editor.

The American Farmer is published weekly, by J. S. Skinner, Postmaster of Baltimore, printed on fine paper, the size of ordinary newspapers, folded so as to make 8 pages; about one-half or four pages, devoted to practical Agriculture; the remainder to Internal Improvements, Rural and Domestic Economy; selections for house-keepers and female readers; and a Natural History and Rural Sports. A minute index and title page to the whole volume is published, and forwarded with last number of each volume. A single number will be sent to any one who may desire to see a specimen of the publication.

The American Farmer is circulated through every state and territory, and is written for by many of the most distinguished practical farmers in the Union.

Williamsboro' Female Academy.

UNDERSTANDING from recent applications from a distance, that it is not generally known that Mrs. O'Brien's School is in operation, we take this method of giving it further publicity. The present Session commenced the 2d Monday of the present month, and will close some time in June, of which timely notice will be given.

Parents and Guardians are apprized, that they will have to pay from the time of entrance only, though it is desirable for many reasons, that they should come in as early as possible.

Terms. For Board and Tuition, including every branch together with the Scientific studies, except Music, Painting and Drawing, $60 per Session. Music $25. Painting and Drawing $15. The pupils will be required to board in our family, as much useful information may be imparted in the intervals of study, independently of the care and attention due to their conversation, manners and morals, which are mostly attended to during those hours.

Each young lady must be provided with a coverlet, blanket, pair of sheets and two towels.

FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.

ABSCONDED on Tuesday night last, from the subscriber, a bright and very likely mulatto woman, named CAROLINE, with her child (a girl, very bright, about 3 years old) formerly the property of Wm. Gilmour, Esq. She is about 20 years of age, slender make, long black hair, which she wears tucked up and with curls; has a smile when speaking, or spoken to—She is a good Seamstress and Nurse, and is at present in a state of pregnancy.

She dresses very neatly and fashionably, and has as good clothing as any lady; all of which she took with her, together with her bedstead, bed and bedding. She will without doubt pass for a free woman, as I am satisfied she was enticed away by some white man, now in this place, who of course would provide her with the necessary papers. She may call herself Caroline Cook, as she is sometimes called so by her companions.

I will give the above reward for the delivery of said negro and child to me in this place, or securing them in any jail, so that I may get them again. If taken without the State of Virginia I will give an additional reward of 25 dollars.
