

FANEUIL HALL MEETING.

Agreeably to notification, a meeting was held in Faneuil Hall, Boston, on Friday evening...

The meeting was called to order by the Hon. T. H. Perkins. William Barry, Esq. was chosen Moderator, and John Lowell, Jr. Esq. Secretary.

David L. Child, Esq. first addressed the meeting, and moved the following resolutions.

Resolved, That we will, by all fair and honorable means, support the present National and State Administrations.

Resolved, That it is expedient that the City of Boston should be represented by such means as will consult the great interests and welfare of the State and Nation...

Resolved, That a Committee of thirty-six, two to be taken from each Ward, be appointed to select a list of Candidates for Representatives in the next General Court...

Resolved, That a Committee of twelve, one to be taken from each Ward, be appointed to select the Committee provided for in the foregoing resolutions...

Geo. Bond, Esq., Mr. Ebenezer Clough, and Hon. Daniel Webster, successively addressed the meeting...

At the above-mentioned meeting, Mr. W. W. Adams said, that there were many and obvious reasons, why he might have wished to forebear...

The last President, Mr. Monroe, had been elected for his second term of office by a vote almost entirely unanimous. The course of his Administration, generally speaking, was satisfactory...

How was it to be expected of men, who had no more interest than others in the matter, that they would be willing to breast the Opposition with which the Administration was assailed...

It was said to be lawful to learn from an enemy, and the admission might be applicable to the present subject. If Mr. Chairman were to imagine two leading gentlemen in the Opposition...

They who had elected the present President, if they remained united and firm, were capable of sustaining and maintaining him in all just measures. But nothing short of firmness and union could accomplish this object.

Mr. W. said that he wholly abstained from any local subjects with which the ensuing election might be connected, and he purposely forbore, also, from any remarks on particular measures of the General Government...

The President had received the vote of the People of this State, and the vote also of their Representatives in Congress. He had been chosen principally by the Northern and Western States...

If it were the general sentiment, then, as he believed it to be, that the Administration ought to be supported against personal or groundless opposition, the question was, how should that support be rendered?

On what did this distinction of parties rest? They were not distinct orders in the State, with separate and unequal privileges. They were not the Patrician and Popular parties of Rome...

How was it to be expected of men, who had no more interest than others in the matter, that they would be willing to breast the Opposition with which the Administration was assailed...

It was said to be lawful to learn from an enemy, and the admission might be applicable to the present subject. If Mr. Chairman were to imagine two leading gentlemen in the Opposition...

In this state of things he did not know what benefit was proposed by those who were friends to the Administration, by disunion and division.

They who had elected the present President, if they remained united and firm, were capable of sustaining and maintaining him in all just measures. But nothing short of firmness and union could accomplish this object.

Mr. W. said that he wholly abstained from any local subjects with which the ensuing election might be connected, and he purposely forbore, also, from any remarks on particular measures of the General Government...

HEAD'S JOURNEY.

The notice of the U. S. REVIEW and LITERARY GAZETTE of "Head's Journey across the Pampas and Andes," of South America, is an interesting article, and will excite a desire to peruse the work...

The passage of the Andes.

As I was looking up at the region of snow, and as my mule was scrambling along the steep side of the rock, the capataz overtook me; and asked me if I chose to come on, as he was going to look at the Ladera de las Vaccas...

He accordingly trotted on, and in half an hour arrived at the spot. It is the worst pass in the Cordillera. The mountain above appears almost perpendicular, and in one continued slope down to the rapid torrent which is raging underneath.

The surface is covered with loose earth and stones, which have been brought down by the water. The path goes across this slope, and is very bad for about seventy yards, being only a few inches broad; but the point of danger is a spot where the water, which comes down from the top of the mountain, either washes the path away, or covers it over with loose stones.

The charge for the Ferryage, will be sixty cents, and for the conveyance by land, fifty cents. Considering the certainty and safety of this route, compared to the one on the Sound, where head winds, dangerous and boisterous weather, are so frequently experienced, it is believed, when generally known, it will be preferred.

As soon as the leading mule came to the commencement of the pass, he stopped, evidently unwilling to proceed, and of course all the rest stopped also.

He was the finest mule we had, and on that account had twice as much to carry as any of the others; his load had never been relieved, as it consisted of four portmanteaus, two of which belonged to me, and which contained not only a very heavy bag of dollars, but also papers, which were of such consequence that I could hardly continue my journey without them.

the precipice, and the loose stones immediately began to roll away from under them; however, his fore legs were still upon the narrow path; he had no room to put his head there, but he placed his nose on the path on the left, and appeared to hold on by his mouth his perilous fate was soon decided by a loose mule who came and in walking along after him, knocked his comrade's nose off the path, destroyed his balance, and head over heels the poor creature instantly commenced a fall which was really terrific.

With all his baggage firmly lashed to him, he rolled down the deep slope, until he came to the part which was perpendicular, and then seemed to bound off, and turning round in the air, fell into the deep torrent below on his back, and upon his baggage, and instantly disappeared. I thought, of course he was killed; but he rose, looking wild and scared, and immediately endeavoured to stem the torrent which was foaming about him.

With that surprising anxiety which the mules all have to join the troop, or rather the leading mule which carries the bell, he continued his course, and actually walked over the pass without compulsion although certainly with great caution.

Gilmour, the one containing 397 acres, lying on both sides of Dutchman's Branch, joining John Bradford's line. The other Tract contains 177 acres, lying on the south side of Swift Creek, adjoining Wm. Utley. Said Land will be sold low, and some credit given to a responsible purchaser, giving bond and security. Apply to Richard Davison, Esq. Warrington; or to J. Gales, Raleigh. Raleigh April, 24.

NEWMAN'S PATENT GRIST MILL. The Runner at the Bottom. A PATENT having been issued by the President of the United States, to Edward Newman, for his valuable improvement on the Grist Mill, the subscriber is fully authorized and empowered to make sale of Rights for using a Grist Mill, or the Rights for using said Mills in any County, or in any State in the Union, except Louisiana.

Persons wishing to purchase Rights, can direct their letters to Samuel Morehead, Postmaster, Martinville, Guilford, N. C. and they will be immediately attended to. The superior advantages of this Mill, consist in the grinding being done so near the center, where the power is applied—the small size of the stones—and the application of pressure to multiply the absence of weight. The running stone is placed on the spindle, and facing upwards the bed stone, which is permanently fixed. The pressure is applied to the centre of the runner, and the grain introduced into the mill through the eye of the bed or top stone.

The simple construction of this Mill, its great durability and cheapness, and its convenience and usefulness to all persons having large families and stock, and the facility with which animal water power can be applied, have given it the decided preference over all the inventions of this kind, with persons who can judge such things correctly.

NEUSE RIVER.

A Majority of the Stockholders of the Neuse River Navigation Company not being present at the meeting called at the office of the Secretary of State on Monday last, the members present adjourned to the following day. A sufficient number of stockholders not attending at this second meeting, it was agreed to call a meeting at the same place on Saturday the 13th of May (being the first day of the Federal Circuit Court,) at ten o'clock in the forenoon, when it is hoped the Stockholders generally will attend, as at that meeting, besides the annual election of the President and Directors, &c. will be laid before the Stockholders, a communication from the Board for Internal Improvements (which they understand has also been made to the other incorporated Navigation Companies,) calling upon this company for certain information respecting the state of its concerns, and desiring to know on what terms it will be willing to surrender its charter to the State, on which communication it will be proper then to act.

By order, MARK COOK, Clk.

JOS. B. LITTLEJOHN. Granville county, Jan. 28, 1827. 35 tf.

State of North Carolina.

Martin County. Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, March Term, 1827. Justin L. Edwards vs. Hiram G. Barnard. Original attachment. See Biggs summoned as Garnishee.

Appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that Hiram G. Barnard is not an inhabitant of this State, or has absconded so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served on him.—It is therefore ordered by the Court that publication be made for six weeks in the Raleigh Register, and Edenton Gazette, that the said Hiram G. Barnard, either by himself or his agent, appear within the time prescribed by law, and reply, plead or demur, or final judgment will be had against him, and the property attached will be condemned and sold agreeably to the act of Assembly in such cases made and provided. Witness-T. W. WATTS, Clerk of our said Court, at Williamston, on the second Monday in March, A. D. 1827, and in the 51st year of our Independence. T. W. WATTS, C. C. C.

$25 Reward.

RUNAWAY from the subscriber on the 14th ult. a negro fellow named Armstead. He is very tall being six feet high or the rise, very black, well framed, and from 22 to 25 years of age, when spoken to has a down look, and a countenance rather serious, has generally but little to say or seems less intelligent than he really is. Having gone off during the night unexpectedly to all and without any cause whatever, it is probable his design is to get back to Virginia, where he was brought from by one Samuel Hobson, of whom I purchased him in November last. The above reward will be given to any one who will secure him in any jail so I can get him, and if delivered to me all reasonable expenses will be additionally paid. Any information of him to the subscriber conveyed by letter or otherwise, will be thankfully received. WILSON BIRD. Shoals of Ogeechee, Warren Co. Ga. 5. March 2, 1827. 46—6Law.

Taken up and Committed

TO the jail of Lincoln County, N. C. as Runaways, two Negro Fellows, who call themselves Billy and Isaac, and say they belong to Wm. Burrows, and runaway from Charles Corner, of Sumpter District, South-Carolina. They are both stout men. Billy is about 35 or 40 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches high, has several scars on his neck, which he says were caused by stabbing himself with a knife. Isaac is about 18 years old, 5 feet 8 inches high, and dark complected. The owner is requested to come forward, prove property, pay charges and take them as the law directs. J. ZIMMERMAN, Jailor. Lincoln, March 10, 1827. pr. adv. $1 50.
