ANECDOTE OF GEN. HAMILTON.

During the life time of this distinguished statesman, and while on a journey to Albany, he chanced to put up for the night, at a tavern in one of the small villages on the Hudson river, where a Mountebank had advertised a display of his ingenuity at slight-of-hand, slack-wire, &c. on that evening. Induced by motives of curiosity, and a desire to while away the tedious hours of a winter's evening, the General took a front seat in the apartment allotted for the performances. His keen, piercing eye did not escape the observation of the Juggler, who, stepping up to him, and handing him a silver dollar, volitely re quested but to hold ir until he should call for it, adding, that it might escape his fingers without his knowledge. The General, thinking some harmiess trick was intended, and being desirous of humoring the joke, very readily accepted the dollar, and clenching it fast in his hand, waited in momentary expectation of some attempt being made to extricate it from his grasp, without his privity. The Juggler whenever he attempted to perform a new trick, would fi st cast an enquiring glance at the General, as much as to say. " now look out for the dollar," when the former would immediately look into his hand, to convince himself that he was yet in possession of it. After the performance had ended, the Mountebank requested his dollar of Gen. H. who, on returning it, observed that he could discover no trick in it. "I do, though," replied the Mountebank: " You had not been three minutes in the room, when I perceived that if I did not do semething to divert your attention, you woul detect every trick I attempted, I therefore gave you the dollar to hold, and managed to have it absorb so much of your attention, that I got through the performance much better than I anticipated, when you first fixed your eyes upon me." Gen. H. it is said, was highly amused with this chef d'ouvre of the Juggler, and pronounced it the best "trick" performed that even Schoharie Republican.
