DE WITT CLINTON.

Who would not court death in any garb, however appalling, and with any torments, however severe, if his coming, in all his terrors, would convert the curses of persecuting enemies, into the benedictions of mourning friends? Who would not build for himself that mausoleum which would hide his defects, draw the thick dark veil of oblivion over his faults, and obliterate from every mind the remembrance of his follies and his vices? Every living tongue answers, there are none. What monument, then, shall be reared to him, who, persecuted for a long series of years, by the public press, hunted from office as a wolf in the fold, slandered in politics, and vilified in private life, has descended to the tomb, amidst the loud, spontaneous and undisguised grief of our whole population?—whose bitterest opponents, while living, bless him in his grave, and seek for themselves a temporary notoriety, by writing IMMORTALITY on his tomb? It would be well, or at least excusable, if the policy, or consciousness of having been unjust, which dictate these posthumous and merited praises, could be rendered durable; but party spirit has no memory for benefits, and gratitude is not to be found in its nomenclature of virtues. DE WITT CLINTON, the living politician was corrupt; the living statesman, was imbecile; the living scholar and philanthropist, was a pedant as the one, and denied the homage of the other. DE WITT CLINTON dead, is worthy of all honor! None ever opposed him, but because he was of an opposite party! No acerbity of heart ever mingled its wormwood and gall in the chalice which his opponents commended to his lips! No man questioned his integrity, his talents, his learning, his great moral worth! Is it not sickening to the soul, that the anathemas against the living, should be quoted as having had no intended point, and that we are to be cajoled into the belief that they were blessings in disguise? The last Message of this distinguished individual is replete with biting reproof to those who sacrifice character, even that of females, to party spirit; and should be remembered by all who act as if their party, like the constitutional king of England, can do no wrong.

Party thrust him from power, and the people reinstated him; Party hung on his garments almost to the very chancel, but Party and the people would call him—oh! how gladly—from his sleep. It is in vain to talk of his mistakes of policy, and misconception of our interests—the united voices of the population of the State cry, silence!—and the undissembled homage of our whole country, and of foreign States, will testify to posterity, that he deserved a high niche in the temple of terrestrial immortality. These are not the things created by this occasion only; we gave them in our paper of the 6th instant, in which we alluded to the calumnies against the Father of our Country. If party spirit would perish when one noble victim of its malevolence had ceased to breathe, we might hope for duration for our free institutions and their supporters; but, alas, it is an insatiable Hydra, and the gratified thirst is unnaturally increased in proportion to the depth of the draught.

If we do not pause now, we never will; and the questions of gubernatorial and Presidential supremacy, will be settled in the degraded clubs of political bandits, or the bloodier assemblies of civil war.

There are others yet amongst us, high in favor with one party, and abused by the other, whose turn to receive this doubtful praise of party zealots, may not be far distant. Let the people and their leaders pause, lest republics be charged with hypocritical waiting for the dead, as well as ingratitude to the living.

From the Cape-Fear Recorder.

We publish in the Recorder of this morning, the Address of the Administration Convention in this State, ascribed to the pen of William Gaston, Esq. of Newbern.

The perusal of this address must afford pleasure to every reader of taste; and will no doubt be peculiarly gratifying to the state pride of the citizens of North-Carolina, without distinction of party.

The exordium which is conciliatory in its spirit; and persuasive in the topics it employs, to propitiate the bigotry and to appease the violence of party, is followed by a well drawn and faithful picture of the present state of parties. The address contains two great divisions. In the first, which is the larger division, Mr. Gaston founds his reasoning on the impolicy of changing the administration before the customary period—the end of the second term; and in the course of his reasoning is led to the refutation of some of the principal charges against Mr. Adams, which he does, by alleging facts and adducing arguments, that to us, appear to be unanswerable. Others, however, who are quick-sighted, or who are better logicians than we, may detect fallacies, which have escaped our penetration.—The last division of the address, is occupied by an inquiry into the pretensions of Genl. Jackson, which is prosecuted, we think, with all due respect for the hero, and with ample praise and liberal concession, so far as relates to his military talents and services. Whether or not Mr. Gaston has dealt out an equal measure of equity to both candidates, we do not presume to decide.

The conclusion is modest, solemn and impressive. Its warnings point with warmth and force, to every variety of error, that can warp the judgment; cheat the understanding; or mislead the heart.

On the whole, this address is a fine display of the powers of an accomplished orator. It is a luminous exposition of the subjects, which fall within its range, interspersed with observations just and appropriate, striking and profound; inviting attention by its perspicuity, and enchaining it, by grace and elegance of language and beauty of illustration.

CRUELTY.

The American Quarterly Review has a long article on Gastronomy, (or the science of supplying the belly.) Among the cruelties practised to suit the depraved appetites of epicures, the following are noticed:—
The Germans and others formerly whipped their pigs to death, to make the flesh more tender; the Moors of Barbary, who eat hedgehogs, rub the back of the animal against the ground till it has done squeaking, and then cut its throat; the Romans killed their swine, by thrusting a red hot iron through the body, and they fattened fowls by shutting them up in dark places, cramping them, and stitching up their eyes.
Epicures delight in the artificially enlarged liver of the goose; and in France, especially, the increased liver is in great request, and the providing of them is a considerable branch of business at Strasburg, Metz, &c. These swelled livers are obtained by a most barbarous practice. The goose is placed before a great fire, and crammed with food, but deprived of drink. Her feet is nailed to a board and she is gradually roasted alive in order to enlarge the liver. Pies are made of these livers and sent to Paris, and even to Petersburg. In the west of Scotland, a gentleman constantly exhibits in his kitchen a stick of geese, nailed to the wood by the webs of their feet, and close to fire.

NOTICE.

IN order to relieve our Editors at Bank from their responsibility, to pay our other debts, & close the partnership between us, we hereby offer for sale, the Office and Establishment of the INTELLIGENCER and Petersburg Commercial Advertiser. It is needless to expatiate on the value of this property, to a gentleman of talent and capital, capable of conducting the business to advantage. The office is complete, and well supplied with every kind of type and press that can be required; and the list of Subscribers, and Advertising Custom, for many years extended to the establishment, will speak for themselves. The Newspaper has at no period been more liberally patronised than at present—it has about 900 good subscribers: the amount of advertising has been full $4000 per annum—heretofore, with very considerable Job-Work—So that we may say without exaggeration, that the gross income of the establishment has averaged about $8000 per annum for the last eight years; while the annual expenses of the Printing Office, at this time, amount to little more than $3000. Such being facts (and that we state nothing but the truth, any gentleman by calling upon us can be satisfied scarcely any consideration, but the imperious obligations above mentioned, could induce us to part with property so valuable. It will be offered at private sale, until the first day of April next; on which day, should it not be disposed of (and due notice will be given of a transfer) it will be sold publicly, on the premises, occupied by us on Bank street, to the highest bidder. The terms will be made known on application; but there is no doubt, should a responsible purchaser present himself, that, on paying down a small amount in cash, a reasonable credit for the greater part of the purchase-money might be obtained. Gentlemen disposed to avail themselves of this offer, can receive any further information they may desire, by addressing Dr. Richard Field of Brunswick, Mr. Miles Jordan of Lunenburg, Mr. James B. Kendall of Petersburg, or the subscribers.

American Cough Drops.

A certain remedy for Colds, obstinate Coughs, Asthma, Catarrh, Hooping-Cough, Influenza, Consumption, weakness of the Breast, spitting of Blood, and all other diseases of the Lungs, if timely used.

SCARCE a case of diseased lungs occurs but may be cured by a timely application of this remedy. The proprietor does not warrant it to be a specific, but is satisfied that it approaches nearer to one than any thing of the kind which has come under his observation; it has been very extensively used, and with extraordinary success in the practice of eminent physicians.

As yet, where it has had a fair trial, it has never failed of curing or materially alleviating the above distressing and dangerous complaints. It may be used for any length of time, without in the least injuring the constitution; nor does it interfere with the business or diet of the patient. He may take his ordinary exercise, and as a general rule, may eat or drink whatever the appetite dictates. It promotes the discharge of Phlegm already collected, and by its healing and invigorating properties prevents its further accumulation.

In Chronic Coughs, (or those of long continuance,) arising from a weak state of the lungs, particularly in those cases that are symptomatic of some hepatic derangement, such as are often seen in cases of Jaundice, and what is called Liver Complaints, (owing to the torpor of the organ,) this remedy is peculiarly adapted.

It does not, like many others, relieve for a time, or merely while using, but its effects are permanent. It promotes Digestion, gives tone and vigor to the Stomach, & restores the Lungs, which are generally the seat of the above complaints, to the healthy discharge of their functions.

CERTIFICATES.—This may certify, That in June last, I was afflicted with a painful disease of the lungs, which occasioned violent turns of coughing, accompanied with spitting of blood, pain in the breast,—when from the high reputation I had heard of the American Cough Drops, I was induced to give them a trial. After using two bottles, I found so much benefit as to be able to resume my business. About three months after, I was attacked with a violent cold, attended with the same symptoms; when I made immediate use of the above remedy, and found complete relief from the use of one bottle; since which time I have had no recurrence of the symptoms. My health at this time is entirely restored.
GEORGE CLINTON,
Middletown, Dec. 2, 1824.

The following is from a gentleman who commenced using the Medicine two years since.

This certifies, that the subscriber has been for a long time afflicted with the Asthma, (and for three years was unable to sleep in a reclining posture,) attended with difficult respiration, and all the other distressing symptoms usually attending the complaint. Had tried almost all the various remedies recommended for the disease and not finding the least benefit, result from their use despaired of finding any relief.

Having heard the American Cough Drops highly recommended; as a last resort, I made a trial of 2 bottles, & finding my difficulty of breathing lessened, and my general health improved, I continued the use of them until I had used 12 or 15 bottles, when I found my health completely restored. I can now rest well, and have no difficulty of breathing;—am able to attend to my business, and have no farther return of the complaint. From the great benefit I have received, and knowing by experience, the distress suffered by persons troubled as I have been I freely recommend the American Cough Drops, as a Medicine, that with perseverance, will in the worst cases, alleviate, if not radically cure this distressing disorder.
LYMAN WILCOX,
Berlin, Sept. 12, 1825.

The subscriber having been for several days severely afflicted with Influenza, accompanied with a violent Cough, loss of appetite, and symptoms of fever, was entirely cured by using half a bottle of the American Cough Drops. From a perfect confidence in this remedy, I would recommend a trial of it to all afflicted in a similar way.
LOT D. VANSANDS,
Middletown, Feb. 25th, 1825.

This certifies, that I was for nine months labouring under a violent affection of the lungs, attended with a very hard Cough, and every symptom of the Consumption; having made use of many remedies, without any removal or lessening of the complaint, was induced to try the American Cough Drops, as a last resort, and after using one bottle, I was restored to perfect health.
CHARLES D. BUTLER,
Meriden, Jan. 3d, 1826.

The subscriber was violently attacked with the Influenza, attended with a violent Cough, and many turns of spitting blood and symptoms of an approaching consumption, was induced to make use of the American Cough Drops, and to my astonishment, after using one bottle, I was relieved from every symptom of disease, and my health was perfectly restored.
WM. DOYLE,
Middletown, March 7, 1826.

This certifies, that I have been afflicted for nearly thirty years with an asthmatic or pulmonary cough, and by the use of three bottles of "American Cough Drops," the malady is removed, and to all appearance, a complete conquest is obtained over a constitutional or hereditary complaint.
THEODORE NEWELL,
Middletown, April 1, 1826.

From a conviction that all persons who are afflicted with a disease of the Lungs particularly those whose cases are of recent date; and even those cases where the Lungs have become ulcerated, will find a great and lasting benefit from the use of these drops, the Proprietor is induced to present to the public for their perusal, the above Certificates, which he thinks cannot fail to satisfy the most incredulous, that this medicine has had a good fortune to discover, has some curative properties, and he does not claim, that it is a specific; yet he feels satisfied that a trial will be of more service to its reputation than numerous certificates.

N. B.—This Medicine is prepared from American Plants—to prevent imposition, observe that "American Cough Drops" are stamped on the bottle, and the directions signed, S. EDWARDS, SOUTHAMPTON & BOARDMAN, Wholesale Agents, Middletown, Conn. Sold by WILLIAMS & HAYWOOD, Druggists, Raleigh N. C. Feb. 20.
