MELANCHOLY FATE OF TWO BROTHERS.

The following interesting Narrative is from Lieutenant Brand's Voyage to Peru, which is about to issue from the Press:—

John and George Robertson, two brothers, after buffeting about South America, trying various schemes to invest their little property to the best advantage, decided on settling at the island of Mocha, with the intention of establishing a seal-fishery, and cultivating some parts of the island, which is very prolific in its natural produce, and by the labor of man, might, from its situation and capabilities, be made a little paradise.

With this object in view, they procured four others, adventurers like themselves, and purchased a whale boat, with all other things requisite for such an undertaking; they then freighted a vessel called the Valparaiso, commanded by a Dane named L—, for the purpose of carrying them to their destination. When off the island it fell calm, but being anxious to get on shore, they left the vessel in order to prepare for the reception of the venture, which was to stock their little kingdom, the captain promising to land every thing as soon as he was close enough in. Poor, unsuspecting fellows! how little did they dream of the disasters which awaited them. It may easily be imagined the golden prospects they pictured to their imaginations on first landing in those dominions, of which they were the sole possessors, and the light hearts with which they prepared to fix out a spot for the reception of their goods—being their all in the world. After working like horses all the day, they lay down to rest under the canopy of Heaven, trusting to rise with the sun and renew their labors. The day dawned, and sun rose, and with it a fine breeze, but no vessel—no Valparaiso was in sight. Scarcely believing what they saw, nor daring to utter what they felt, they ran to the highest hills in the different parts of the island in hopes of seeing her; but in vain did they stretch their longing eyes to catch a glimpse of all their hopes. She was gone! Nothing was to be seen round the boundless horizon. Sea and sky were all that met their view. The vessel was gone, and with her all their prospects and golden dreams vanished!

"In this forlorn situation, a consultation was held as to what should be done, when it was decided that one brother, with the crew, should take the boat, and cross over to the mainland, and if possible, ascertain at Valdivia what had become of the vessel and cargo. The other brother was to remain behind to keep possession of the island and the few things they had landed. George embarked with the crew, leaving John on the island. Trusting that Providence might protect them, they put to sea in their open boat, and reached Valdivia in safety, a distance of about 35 miles, where they soon learnt that the Dane had landed, and spread a report of not being able to reach Mocha, that he had sold all their property, and gone in the vessel they knew not where—this was a death-blow to all their prospects. Nothing now remained for poor George but to convey this mournful intelligence back to his brother, whom it may be supposed was most anxiously awaiting the result of his mission, independent of anxiety for his personal safety.

They embarked again in their little boat, and with most sorrowful hearts put out to sea, in order to return to their solitary island. They had not been many hours launched upon the deep, when the clouds began to lour, and the sea to rise in troubled motion, which showed every indication of a coming storm; the wild gulls fluttered over their unprotected heads, and screaming with affright, seemed to confirm what their hearts foreboded, that the gale was near them. "Fierce lightning began to play about the blackened horizon, and the distant thunder roared sullenly amidst the gathering clouds, seeming to warn them not to proceed further. To fly was now their only chance for safety—they turned their little bark, in hopes of escaping, but the cold wind reached them, it came resistless, and with foaming sweep, returned the whitening surface of the deep; and swift and fatal as the lightning's course, through the torn main sail burst with thundering force.

The fury of the elements had overtaken them, they scudded like the wind till the raging storm tore away her mast—Pounded, lightning, sea and gale now came upon them with redoubled force. Their mast gone, she became unmanageable; a sea struck her, when she braced to and filled; another, and she foundered. Vain were their struggles and cries for help, as the waters closed around them, and in sight of Valdivia, every soul perished.

"Poor George Robertson, thy sorrows are over; but, alas! where is thy brother? what is he doing? where are his thoughts? Anxiously, most anxiously, awaiting thy arrival. Let L—s—n read this and tremble." The situation of John Robertson on the island may be more easily imagined than described; day after day rolled on, and week after week, month succeeded month, yet no brother appeared; wandering up and down the island, straining his longing eyes towards the horizon, picturing every speck a sail to his bewildered imagination, thoughts would intrude on his mind that harrowed up his soul, and increased his anxiety almost to a frenzy, till he was reduced to that state of mind, by his own account, that death would have been a release to him. At last, while sitting at his daily station, the pinnacle of a rock, absorbed in gloomy melancholy, a sail appeared! Nearer and nearer she came, she stood direct for the anchorage, a boat left her and landed. Thank heaven! (he cried) it must be my brother returned with all our lost property. Breathless with anxiety, he flew down to the beach; but picture his dismay when instead of finding his brother, as he fondly anticipated, he fell into the hands of a gang of pirates, robbers and murderers.— Read on L—s—n—read what thou hast been the cause of! They plundered him, stripped him, and made him a prisoner.— Thus, in the space of one short quarter of an hour was this poor man, from being elated with the prospects of embracing his brother, recovering all his lost property, and conceiving himself restored to all that could make him happy, doomed to hear of his brother's death—his property irretrievably lost, all his hopes on earth blighted, himself stripped and plundered of all that remained, and a prisoner loaded with chains on board a pirate. So far are the circumstantial facts of the history of these two unfortunate brothers. Shortly afterwards John found means of making his escape, and is now a wanderer in Chili: said from his misfortunes to have given himself up drinking, and almost to despair, which has brought on temporary derangement, and which, at times, during his fits of madness, is dreadful. His only wish appears to be revenge—deep and dire revenge upon the author of his misfortunes. Poor fellow! may the Lord have mercy upon him, and save him from committing the horrid crime which he meditates. Revenge will come in time—for 'I will revenge, saith the Lord.'"

TREATMENT OF CHILDREN.

Curiosity in children is but an appetite after knowledge, which ought to be encouraged as the great instrument nature has provided to remove that ignorance they were born with, and which, without this busy inquisitiveness, would make them dull and useless creatures. To encourage this temper, a child should never be checked or discountenanced for any inquiries he should make, but a plain answer should be given, and the subjects explained to him as far as is suitable to his age and capacity. But great care should be taken that they should never receive deceitful and eluding answers. They easily perceive when they are slighted and deceived, and quickly learn the trick of neglect, dissimulation, and falsehood, which they observe others to make use of; and if by chance their curiosity leads them to ask what they should not know, it is a great deal better to tell them plainly that it is a thing that belongs not to them to know, than to put them off with a falsehood or frivolous answer.

If a child is fond of reasoning, care should be taken that this inclination is not checked in him, and that he is not misled by captious or fallacious ways of talking to him; and if his reasons are quite out of the way, let him, without being laughed at for his mistake, be gently put into the right. For, after all, reason being the highest and most important faculty of our minds, deserves the greatest care and attention in cultivating it; the right improvement and exercise of it being the highest perfection that a man can attain to in this life.—Locke.

FEMALE EMPYRICS.

A singular case came before the Court Royale, at Paris, a short time ago. Two females, named Couturier and Burkard, were charged with illegally practising medicine, and receiving payment for their prescriptions. The mode in which they carried on the trade was very curious.—When patients applied to them they pretended to magnetize themselves, and fall into a state of somnambulism, during which they dictated their prescriptions to a kind of secretary, and on recovery from their pretended fit, affected to be ignorant of what had happened. They had been very successful in their vocation, & their dopes were not confined to the uneducated and lower orders; among them were several medical men and persons of good family. They administered medicine to persons two hundred miles distant, on inspecting some of their hair; and witnesses were examined on their behalf, in proof of the wonderful cures they had effected. They were fined fifteen francs each and costs of prosecution.

EVENING SCHOOL.

THE Subscriber will open an Evening School, on the first Monday of November next. In this School will be taught Reading, Writing, English Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic, Trigonometry, Mensuration of surfaces and solids, Navigation and Surveying. The most faithful efforts will be made to render these useful branches of Education easy and familiar to those young gentlemen, who may be disposed to attend. The terms will be moderate, and may be known by applying to the subscriber.

The Mansion Hotel.

Fayetteville N. C.

IS now undergoing a thorough repair out and inside, the establishment to be enlarged with additional Rooms, such as Billiards, Baths, Barber's and other offices fitted up. The vegetable and pleasure Gardens, with summer Houses, all to be made new. The Stables stand in the rear, adjoining large lots of ground well calculated for the erection of Pavilions for public exhibition.

The location of the Mansion as respects business or health, is particularly favorable, being central, dry and free from moisture or stagnant waters of any kind, and when the rubbish and filth are removed from the houses and premises, it will prove a desirable residence for any family fond of a pleasant, rural and healthy situation. The buildings are large and airy, embracing a front of 120 feet on Hay street and extending back 82 feet including piazza. The Parlours, Dining Rooms, B.R., Supper and Ball Rooms, together with the first floor of Bed Rooms, are all spacious and well arranged, with Beds to each room. There are few Hotels better calculated to afford comfort and convenience to the occupants and residents, than this pleasant and extensive establishment.

It is expected the improvements will be completed by the middle of next November, & now offers the premises for rent, to any person calculated to manage to advantage a genteel establishment. The Hotel will be rented with or without furniture, if early application is made.—For terms apply to the absconded yesterday.

COLIN is about twenty years of age, five feet six inches high, well set, and of a very black complexion. He was flogged on Wednesday last, by a gentleman of this place, whose house he had broken into; and is supposed to be severely marked with the whip. He carried with him two pair of pantaloons and a round jacket, made of blue and white mixed Northern cotton cloth; some cotton shirts, and a linen ruffled shirt marked with my name; a pair of white linen pantaloons, and a pair made of drab cotton cloth; he wore a narrow brimmed black beaver hat.

Colin was brought from Raleigh, N. C. about three months ago, and was sold in this place by a Mr. Tipper. He formerly belonged to Dr. Hayward of Raleigh.

A reasonable reward will be paid for the apprehension of Colin, and his delivery to me.

Mansion House.

THE subscriber having moved from Camden to this place, respectfully informs the public that he has taken that well known stand adjoining the Court House square, recently occupied by Mr. John W. Clark, (and usually known as Clark's Hotel) where he has opened a HOUSE OF ENTERTAINMENT, under the above title. The premises are spacious and well adapted for the business; the stables are large and supplied with careful hostlers; and travellers will find every convenience customary in the best houses of the kind.

To professional gentlemen, and others, having business in this place, connected with the courts, this establishment offers advantages superior to any other.

Persons, travelling with their families, can be accommodated with private apartments, and every attention will be given to insure the comfort of those who may call.

Members of the approaching Legislature would be accommodated in the best manner. Town boarders will be accommodated at the terms usual in this place.

Pitt Academy.

THE Exercises of this Institution will again commence on the 3d of Sept. under the superintendence of Mr. George Stokes. From the many testimonials procured by Mr. Stokes, from Trinity College, Dublin, and from distinguished citizens both of Ireland and the United States; but more especially from an acquaintance with his school, and method of teaching for the session past, and the highly pleasing examination of his pupils, the Trustees recommend the Institution with the utmost confidence to all parents and guardians who are desirous of educating their children and wards; and with the highest pleasure assure them, that in this Institution the common error, (the consequences of which are felt through life,) of hastening children too rapidly in their studies, before they have laid a sufficient foundation in the rudiments of education, will be carefully avoided. The moral and religious uprightness of the Instructor, furnishes the surest pledge for the morality of his pupils, at least so far as the influence of example extends.

The terms of admission into the Academy are as follows: Children commencing, $3 per quarter; Pupils reading, writing, cyphering, with English Grammar and Geography, $4; Pupils receiving a classical education, $7. Board can be procured in town for $5 per month, and cheaper in the country.

A NEW BARGAIN!

THE Subscriber will certainly sell to the highest bidder on Wednesday the 22d day of October next on the premises, the tract of land on which he now lives, on the following terms, viz. one third part of the purchase money to be paid 1st of January, 1829, one third the 1st of January, 1830, and the remaining third the 1st of January, 1831. Bonds with approved securities, will be required, or notes negotiable at either of the Banks at Raleigh. The above tract of land is situated in the county of Granville, 8 miles south of Roanoke, and 17 miles north of Oxford, lying on the waters of Grassy and Jonathan's Creeks, containing nineteen hundred acres, six or seven hundred of which are cleared in a good state of cultivation, and well adapted to the growth of Wheat, Cotton, Corn, and Tobacco. There are about 150 or 200 acres of low grounds. Of the ridge land seven or eight hundred acres contiguous to the dwelling, are inferior to none in this section of the country, with ten or fifteen constant Springs. The improvements are extensive; the dwelling house is among the largest, most roomy, and in every respect, the most convenient in the county. It is new and built of the very best materials, beautifully situated on a gentle eminence, overlooking a large extent of country. The out houses of every kind, are also new, and in a style of accommodation suited to the dwelling house. Within half a mile of the dwelling are a saw and grist mill, and cotton gin. The grist mill yields 1000 bushels of corn and 150 or 200 bushels of wheat, per annum. A ready sale may always be made of the produce of the saw mill. It contains an extensive Orchard, with a great variety of fruits. The tract is situated in the centre of a neighborhood, which for health, wealth, intelligence, morals, and every social consideration, yields to none in the State. The subscriber forbears a more minute description of the above tract, as those wishing to purchase, are expected to come and judge for themselves, previously to the day of sale.

Demonstrator of Anatomy—JOHN WAGNER, M. D.

The Faculty take pleasure in stating, that the establishment of an INFIRMARY for Surgical Cases, in connection with the College, has been attended with the advantages anticipated. It afforded to the Students during the last course of instruction, the opportunity of witnessing a variety of operations—amongst these were most of the capital operations in Surgery.

To enable the students to profit by the facilities which our situation affords for the study of Practical Anatomy, new and extensive Rooms have been erected, and provided with all the conveniences necessary for the purpose.

The valuable Anatomical Museum of the College, has been improved by new preparations received from France and Italy during the summer.

It affords the Faculty additional satisfaction to state, that by an arrangement with the Literary and Philosophical Society of South Carolina, extensive and valuable collections in Natural History, have been placed in the College, and carefully arranged, so as to afford to those interested in the study of Nature, ample opportunity of acquiring information, not only in the departments connected with Medicine, but through the whole range of Natural History.

The rich collection of Minerals particularly, must be considered a very important acquisition to the Chemical department of the Institution.
