THE DISAPPOINTED BRIDE.

At an age when the heart is open to every impression, and forms with the same readiness engagements and connections, which, in a man of riper years, would be the fruit of esteem and observation, St. A—was travelling from his native province to explore the wonders of a metropolis which he had as yet beheld with the eyes only of hope. In the coach which was to convey him to Paris, he found a young man of prepossessing appearance—a conversation soon began that terminated in protestations of friendship, warmly reiterated on both sides. Mutual confidence soon flowed from their lips, and all the secrets of their hearts were revealed; it was then that St. A— learned that his new friend was going to Paris to marry a young lady whom he had never seen, but whom his father and family had chosen for his bride, with the consent of her relations.— The journey was finished without any accidents, and they arrived in the morning at Paris, where they took lodgings in a public hotel. Scarcely had they taken possession of their apartments, when the young man was seized with the bilious cholic, which, in less than two hours, deprived him of his existence. Affected with the melancholy fate of his youthful acquaintance, St. A—, whose attentions had not been able to raise him, thought it his duty to inform the father of the future bride of the overthrow of his expectations, and taking with him the letters and portfolio of his friend, repaired to the house of the gentleman.

The servant who opened the door, conscious that his master expected his son-in-law, announced St. A— as such. The father, without giving him time to explain himself, embraced him with eagerness, and presented him to his daughter as her husband.

St. A—, naturally gay and volatile, could not resist the temptation of deceiv-ing the family awhile longer, and played his part extremely well. He gave the letters, and being perfectly acquainted with the secrets and affairs of his friend, returned the most satisfactory answers to their questions. He succeeded especially, in captivating the attention of the young lady, who, with side-long glances, admired the features and fine shape with which nature had blessed her lover. Dinner was announced, and St. A— was placed by the side of the timid bride; and the whole family yielded up their hearts to joy and satisfaction. The young lady spoke little, answered with difficulty, and often blushed, while St. A— was polite and ardent in his attention to her; and though the expressions of his face were naturally serious, his conversation was pleasing and cheerful.

After dinner, the father entered into all the details necessary to settle the marriage, when suddenly St. A— rose, and taking his hat, seemed anxious to retire.
"Are you going to leave us?" "Yes," said St. A—, "important business compels me to quit you." "What business can you have in a city where you are a stranger? Perhaps you wish to draw money from a banker? My purse is entirely at your service; but if you will absolutely have recourse to a banker, I may send somebody to transact the business for you."

"No," said St. A—, who continued to walk towards the door—and they were soon in the hall—when addressing the father—"Now that we are alone," said he, and the ladies cannot hear us, I will tell you—this morning, a few moments after my arrival, an accident happened to me—I was taken with the bilious cholic and died.
I promised to be buried at six o'clock, and you will easily conceive that I must attend the place of rendezvous; for not known in this part of the world, if I fail to be exact to my word, it would awake suspicious of inattention to business that would prove very prejudicial to my character."

The father listened to him with astonishment, but taking the whole for a joke, returned to the ladies, and bursting with laughter, related the cause of his son-in-law's hurried departure. While they were still conversing on the subject six o'clock struck; it was soon seven, and the family were alarmed at not seeing St. A—. Half an hour after, the father sent to the hotel to inquire. The servant entrusted with the commission asked for him under his assumed name, and received for answer, that he had arrived at nine in the morning, died at eleven, and was buried at six. It would be difficult to express the surprise of the family at receiving this information; and as St. A— left his lodgings and never visited there again, a general belief was spread around, that it was the Ghost that spent the day with the family of Mr. N—, in social enjoyment and conversation.

STATE OF SOCIETY IN LIMA, SOUTH AMERICA.

The following is an extract of a letter from an officer in the United States ship Brandywine, to his sister in Philadelphia.

"To any one accustomed to the feelings and decencies of a religious community, the universal depravity exhibited by all classes is terrible. You look in vain for the calm and observances of a sabbath.
It is distinguished from other days it is true, but not by any attempt at a conformity to its divine purposes, or attention to its requirements, but by an excess in indol-gence, and an absence of restraint. It is selected for amusements, and on no other day are the amphitheatres for bull fighting and cocking, their choice diversions, so crowded. In their customs the people are but one step beyond barbarism, and that a vicious advancement. In their morals they are certainly far below the generality of savage nations; for the little refinement which they could not avoid receiving from the age of civilization, has been converted into a more artful licen-tiousness.

"Children are early brought into company, and taught some of its accomplishments; to dress, dance, and make love are the indispensable points of education. Without these they would consider life a burthen, and all its purposes defeated. There are no domestic relations or educations; food and clothing are the extent of parental care. Boys are confided to family confessors until self-will bursts control, and then they are there own masters as long as their present constitutions last. The girls are confided to negro mamas who nurse them when growing up, and provide them with gallants when married.

"I wished to learn the language sufficiently to speak; for that purpose was introduced to some respectable families—but never made a second visit for fear of losing my love for the society of the fair sex. I could not, unless possessed with more wit, give you a description which would do it justice, and at the same time leave a correct idea of the Limerick family. The ladies were swinging in a large grass hammocks slung across the room, most vigorously puffing those large black segars smoked by the negroes of our country. They did not rise to receive us, but peaceably nodded a welcome and offered us room on the hammock. According to custom they had not made their toilet, and their beauty not being of that kind which disdains the aid of foreign ornament, their appearance excited disgust. Conceive the following nymph-like characteristics, dishevelled hair, unstayed forms, unwashed skins deeply imbued with yellow rays of tropical suns, and cheeks hollowed by the straining of segars, and you may imagine the effect they produced.

"The females when a little old make the most classical representation of witches imaginable. By dissipation and excesses they get the bronzed parchment-like skin attenuated form of extreme age, while the eye retains its fire unsubdued and the features their impassioned play. When under excitement they present a terrible drama of the passions."

MUSCULAR STRENGTH.

The muscular power of the human body is wonderful. A Turkish porter will run along carrying a weight of 600 pounds; and Milo of Crotona is said to have lifted an ox weighing 1000 pounds. Haller mentions that he saw an instance of a man whose finger being caught in a chain at the bottom of a mine, by keeping it forcibly bent, supported by that means the weight of his whole body (150 pounds) till he was drawn up to the surface, a height of 600 feet. Augustus II, King of Poland, could with his fingers, roll up a silver dish like a sheet of paper, and twist the strongest horse shoe asunder; and a Lion is said (Phil. Trans. No. 310.) to have left the impression of his teeth upon a piece of solid iron. The most prodigious power of the muscles is exhibited by fish. A whale moves with a velocity through the dense medium of water, that would carry him, if continued at the same rate, round the world in little more than a fortnight; and a sword fish has been known to strike his weapon through the oak plank of a ship.

A PROFOUND LIMB OF THE LAW.

In the course of a trial, held at a neighbouring city, a short time since, an eminent counsellor, well known as a practitioner in bombastic, inflated, & ridiculous language, put the following question to a witness:— "Did you see Mr. B. raise his muscular arm, and attempt to force and coerce a preponderation of the timidity and fears of my client?" "Sir?" "Did not Mr. B. attempt the infliction of the most outrageous corporeal contention & chastisement?"
"Sir?" "Did not Mr. B. attempt to strike the plaintiff?" "Yes, sir." "From your situation, did you not possess the most commanding view of the altercation; and was there any thing interfering between you and the objects, that could in any wise dim your particular faculties or create any obtuseness of vision?" "Sir?"

"I say, were not your organs of sight in a situation to have a clear, unclouded, and bright view of this most villainous, despicable, unnatural, foul, outrageous, enormous, rancorous and bloody transaction?" "Sir?" "Did you not plainly see Mr. B. knock Mr. D. down?" "Yes, sir, I did."—N. H. Chron.

Capt. Symme's Theory corroborated.

Bi-hop Heber, in his visit to the holy city of Benares, in India, was admitted to the celebrated Hindoo College there, supported by government, and having ten professors and 200 students. He mentions the exhibition, by the astronomical Lecturer, of a terrestrial globe. The professor pointed out the situation of Mount Meru, and the port of the tortoise "Chuckwa," on whom the earth rested, and the site of the city Padolpn, on the concave or inner surface of the southern hemisphere. A visit to Benares would probably enable Captain Symmes to add largely to the interest of his lecture.—Chr. Watchman.

MAXIMS.

When you mean to do a good action do not deliberate about it.
Give praise where praise is due, but deal out censure sparingly.

Injuries are seldom forgotten—benefits seldom remembered.

Gratitude is a feature much admired, but rarely to be seen.

Charity, the vital principle of Religion, is the most absent member of the Church.

If knowledge does not make a man wise, it makes him vain and arrogant.

MINERAL WATERS.—If we reflect on the phenomena of mineral springs, such as the connexion obtaining between some springs and the affluent atmospheric water, we cannot help subscribing to the opinion, long entertained by chymists, that the formation of mineral waters is a simple process of solution, subject therefore to the established laws of chymical affinity. Their variety, consequently, depends on the different nature of the strata through which they flow,—upon the relative quantity of water and gas acting upon these strata—and upon the various degrees of temperature that are enlisted in the process.

Brand e

Baltimore Sept. 11.

The Southern Galaxy, printed in Natchez, contains a communication, signed by C. Griffin, setting forth the particulars of a quarrel between himself & Judge Maury, both of that city. Judge Maury insulted Mr. Griffin on the first day of election, of which the latter asked an explanation, which was refused, and also the acceptance of a challenge—whereupon the Judge was posted as a scoundrel and a coward. Mr.
Griffin then armed himself and on going from his office to the house, he was attacked by the Judge, who levelled a pistol at him. Mr. G. immediately discharged one of his—both missed; the Judge stationed himself behind a tree, and took aim at Mr.
G., the latter again fired without effect.
Judge M. then ran towards Mr. G. who retreated on his crutches (being lame) to a hotel, where he received a part of the contents of the Judge's pistol, and discharged also another pocket pistol at the Judge.— Coming then to close quarters, the Judge drew a sword from a cane, and stabbed Mr. G. in the breast who fell. The company then prevented the Judge from closing upon him. These are the most picquant particulars of the affray.

SPLENDID VIEWS

AMERICAN SCENERY.

On Friday, the 10th of October, 1828, will be published by T. K. GREENBANK, No. 64 Spruce street, Philadelphia, a volume of splendid views of American Scenery, as follows:

1. A view of Beck's Shot Tower, on the Schuylkill, near Philadelphia, and adjacent scenery.
2. A view of the Light-house in Long Island Sound, with the adjacent scenery.
3. A view of York, on Lake Ontario, with the fortifications.
4. Characteristic Scenery on the Hudson River.
5. View of New London, Connecticut, with the adjacent scenery.
6. View of Lemon Hill, near Philadelphia, the seat of Henry Pratt, Esq.
7. The Tomb of Washington, at Mount Vernon.
8. View at the Great Bend of the Susquehanna.
9. View of the Upper Falls of Solomon's Creek, Luzerne county, Pa.
10. View of the Lower Falls of Solomon's Creek.
11. View of the Catskill Mountains, from the Hudson.
13. View of Fort Niagara, on Lake Ontario, from the Light-house on the British side.

These Views are executed in the best style of Philadelphia Engraving, from drawings made upon the spot. Each Plate will be accompanied by a full and accurate description thereof, so as to make it perfectly intelligible to every person.

The work will be printed and issued to subscribers in the first style, on superior paper, and with a handsomely printed cover, and delivered to subscribers at the very low price of One Dollar per copy. Flexible covers will be used for country subscribers, so that they can be safely sent by mail.

Any gentleman, post-masters and others, who will interest themselves to procure ten subscribers, and remit $10 to the Editor, shall receive twelve copies. From the very flattering patronage already received, (1200 subscribers having already put down their names,) this volume will probably be succeeded by another, as soon as other plates can be engraved. All orders from the country will be promptly attended to.

Pitt Academy.

THE Exercises of this Institution will again commence on the 8th of Sept. under the superintendence of Mr. George Stokes. From the many testimonials procured by Mr. Stokes, from Trinity College, Dublin, and from distinguished citizens both of Ireland and the United States; but more especially from an acquaintance with his school, and method of teaching, for the session past, and the highly pleasing examination of his pupils, the Trustees recommend the Institution with the utmost confidence to all parents and guardians who are desirous of educating their children and wards; and with the highest pleasure assure them, that in this Institution the common error, (the consequences of which are felt through life,) of hastening children too rapidly in their studies, before they have laid a sufficient foundation in the rudiments of education, will be carefully avoided. The moral and religious uprightness of the Instructor, furnishes the sure pledge for the morality of his pupils, at least so far as the influence of example extends.

The terms of admission into the Academy are as follows:

Children commencing, $3 per quarter.
Pupils reading, writing, ciphering, with English Grammar and Geography, $4.
Pupils receiving a classical education, $7.
Board can be procured in town for $5 per month, and cheaper in the country.
