THE SLEEPERS.

BY MISS M. A. BROWNS.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping? Children wearied with their play, For the stars of night are peoping. And the sun hath sunk away. As the dew upon the blossoms. Bows them on their slender stem, So, as light as their own bosoms, Bulmy sleep hath conquered them.

They are sleeping! Who a e sleeping? Mortals, compassed round with woe, Byelida, wearied out with peeping. Close for very weakness now: And that short relief from sorrow, Harrassed nature shall austain,
"Till they wake again to morrow
Strengthened to contend with pain!

They are sleeping? Who are sleeping? Captives in their gloomy cells; Tet sweet dreams are o'er them creeping. With their many colored spells.

All they love—again they class them;
Feel again their long lost joys;
But the haste with which they grasp them
Every falsy form destroys.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping?
Misers, by their boarded gold p
And in fancy now are beaping Gems and pearls of price untold.
Golden chains their limbs encumber,
Diamonds seem before them strewn,
But they waken from their slumber,
And their splendid dream is flown.

They are sleeping ! Who are sleeping ? Pruse a moment—softly tread ; Atxious friends are fondly keeping Vigils by the sleeper's bed ! Other hopes have all forsaken-One remains -- that slumber deep ; aprok not, lest the slumberer waken From that sweet that saying sleep.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping?
Thou ands who have passed away From a world of woe and weeping, To the regions of decay ! Safe they rest, the green turf under Sighing breeze or music's breath, Winter's wind, or Summer's thunder, Cannot break the sleep of death !
