CHIROGRAPHICAL BLUNDERS.

In one of the Souvenirs for this year, there is an account of errors in writing, and accidents therefrom accruing, sufficient to make one careful of the manner in which the pen is used, except it is used to get into scrapes, and draw down by our own act more ridicule and misfortune, than old Father Time would otherwise see fit to bestow; for it is as true as seven eights of the nonsense we hear uttered by wise men, that nearly all the real evils men have to contend with in this life are attributed first and last to their own ignorance and idleness.

A selectman of "our town" lost his recollection, in times of high excitement, by an unaccountable carelessness of expression, in a note to one of his colleagues, as follows: "Deacon S. W. Esq. P've bin fore days making rats and singin' ov um." All which, when properly translated means, that the said worthy father and director of the town affairs had been engaged four days in making out rates [of taxation] and signing them; but some how or other the contents of the erudite selectman's note, crept quickly from ear to ear among his "constituents" as one of our less erudite legislators calls them, till the townsmen decreed that he was too ignorant to remain one of their fathers any longer.

Opposition manifested itself in town meeting, and questions were propounded, of what use the manufactured and singed rats had been to the town; and also what amount of pay had been required for their labour? The result of the affair was, that the unfortunate man was rejected, on account of the insignificant note, and died of chagrin in a year or two after.

A much worse accident had like to have befallen a member of the most august body in the Union who wrote to his dearly beloved, lonely and far distant spouse, soon after his arrival at Washington, that he had "joined himself to one of the most agreeable misses in the city." The desolate woman was appalled. Wicked as she had heard the Representatives in Congress were, she would not have believed that "her bosom's lord" could have been seduced to the commission of such a base, treacherous crime. She read, cried, read, groaned, doubted, and read again—the worst of it was not the actual offence, but the shameless avowal of it without note or comment. It was mentioned as a common affair, of no consequence to her or any one else: "I have joined myself to one of the most agreeable misses in this city." Oh! he was an abominable wretch.

The session wore away and frequent letters came in a light happy style, but no more mention was made of the miss, though his anxious wife searched in vain for an explanation of the horrid mystery. She imagined her faithless husband revelling in all the delights of lawless love, and then she tore her hair and cursed him—then she would sit pale and wretched by her infant's cradle, and talk to it by the witching moonlight, of its father's infamy—and then her brain would wander. This agony —for it was agony, because she was a fond wife—preyed upon her health—jealousy, like a secret poison, crept through her veins, and a slight fever gave way to confirmed hectic. A short, dry cough and declining strength seemed to be the first indications of consumption, and the poor woman, struggling with her secret grief, became to all her friends, to be given to the destroyer. The doctor looked dubious, and advised, that her husband should be sent for immediately; she consented, and a servant was equipped for the journey, and waiting for the stage—She drew out the packet of her dear husband's letters and recurred to this, as she had often done before, with a kind of agonizing satisfaction—her sister accidentally looked over her shoulder, and observed,—"I wonder how many persons there are in one of those messes?" "What messes?" asked the distressed wife. "Why, that one your husband has joined, I should think it would be very pleasant." The poor woman could not endure the ocean of joy that burst upon her heart. She laughed hysterically—fainted—recovered—cried—laughed again—and seemed in a worse condition than ever—the stage came —the servant entered for his letters—when she seemed to be a little composed, and ordered him to replace his trunks and to about his business; all hands remonstrated, but she was resolute—still she would not have prevailed, had she not explained the mis-reading of the word messages, into misses, and declared that all her sickness was occasioned by the anxiety and grief it caused.

She recovered rapidly, but the member of Congress will not soon forget that one carelessly made letter, nearly caused his wife's death.

SELECT PASSAGES.

From the writings of celebrated Authors.

Bad men are never completely happy, although possessed of every thing this world can bestow; and good men are never completely miserable, although deprived of every thing that the world can take away.

The arts have this special advantage over literature and politics, that they are conversant only with the ideal, the perfect, the loftiest portions of our being. A proud and bold tone of thinking, an abstraction from the degrading, the little, the virulent —from all the plebeian passions of existence —give a sort of sanctity to such a vocation.
—Walter in Rome, XVI.

I shall never quarrel with any man whose temper is the reverse of mine. 'Tis as ridiculous for one to be disobliged at another's different way of thinking, as it is to challenge him for having a nose not of a shape with his. —Allan Ramsay.

The hours we pass with happy projects in view, are more pleasing than those crowned with fruition. In the first case, we cook the dish to our own appetite; in the latter, nature cooks it for us. —Goldsmith.

The hackneyed voluptuary is like the jaded epicure; the mere listlessness of whose appetite becomes at length a sufficient penalty for having made it the principal object of his engagement and cultivation.
—Sir Walter Scott.

It is an old remark, that there is no avarice so great, and so destitute of shame, as that of the licentious prodigal. —Godwin.

Nothing so quick stings, and lays waste the human heart, as the inconsistency of those whom it loves. —Anonymous.

That [female] virtue which requires to be ever under guardianship, is scarcely worth the sentinel. —Goldsmith.

ROANOKE INSTITUTION

For Practical Scientific Instruction.

THE Course of Education at this Institution, will embrace the following Departments:

I. Classical.—This Department will include the Greek, Latin, French and Spanish Languages.

II. The Mathematical will embrace Arithmetic, Algebra, Logarithms, Geometry, Trigonometry, Mensuration, Surveying, Conic Sections, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy and Navigation; and the Natural Sciences, as Botany, Mineralogy and Natural History.

Particular attention will be paid at this Institution to Practical Education. Classes in Mathematics will be practically taught the application of Trigonometry to Heights and Distances; Triangular Surveying; Levelling and Engineering; a Graduation of Roads and Streets, the use of the Barometer, when applied to taking the altitude of mountains and other eminences. They will frequently be taken out to practice with the Compass and Chain, Theodolite and levelling Rods—and accompanied by their instructors, will occasionally take excursions for the purpose of making observations in Botany and Mineralogy.

III. English.—This Department will include English Grammar, Penmanship, Book-keeping, Public Reading and Declamation, Ancient and Modern Geography with the use of the Maps and Globes, Ancient and Modern History, Rhetoric, Composition, Criticism, Logic and Moral Philosophy, Construction of Maps with the principles of Projection.

The Rudiments of Education, as Reading, Spelling, Penmanship, &c. will be thoroughly taught, and the Junior Classes will in this respect, receive particular attention.

Physical Education.—For the improvement of the health and the development of the Physical as well as mental energies of the Cadets, they will be required to practice daily and regularly, Military Exercises. These having for their main object the preservation of health, will be pursued so far only as may be requisite for this purpose; in no instance will they be permitted to interfere with other pursuits—but will occupy those hours in the day, that would otherwise be devoted to useless and frivolous amusement.

They will consist of the Elementary schools of the Soldier, Company and Battalion Evolutions, Eight Infantry and Rifle Drills—formation of regular Military Parades—Guard Duty—the duty of officers of the Guard and of the Day—the Broad Sword Exercise.

Uniform Dress.—The dress worn at the Institution will consist of a dark blue cloth Coat, single breasted and standing collar. Blue cloth Aest and Pantaloon for winter, and white domestic cotton for summer, leather Caps with appropriate trimmings, black silk or leather Stocks.
An undress will be worn in summer, consisting of a cotton striped Roundabout, single breasted and standi collar.

As the Coat cannot be made elsewhere than at the Institution, a more particular description of it is omitted. Each member of the Institution will want the following articles, viz: one single mattress either of hair or straw, pillow, two pillow cases, four sheets two yards in length and one in breadth, one pair of blankets, two towels, four shirts, four pair of white cotton pantaloons, four white vests for summer and one blue cloth for winter single breasted, six pair of cotton and four pair of woollen socks, draws and waistcoats if worn, two pair of thin and one pair of thick shoes, at least two pocket handkerchiefs, tooth brush, penknife, quills, wafers, &c. Parents can furnish their sons with such articles of clothing of the above description as they may have, if they prefer it; or they may be supplied at the Institution in the most reasonable terms. The above quantity of clothing is deemed sufficient to answer a cadet one year—should he leave the Institution at the expiration of that time, such articles as the cap, bed and bedding, if furnished at the Institution and well taken care of, will be received back at a fair price. Each cadet must have his name marked in full, on every article of his clothing.

Qualification, Admission, &c.—No candidate will be admitted into this Institution, who is under ten years of age, who cannot read and spell, and who is not of a good moral character. It is deemed advisable to admit none for a less term than one year, as the expense for a less period would be proportionably greater, and the advantages to be derived proportionably less.

Expenses.—The cadets will be divided into two Departments. Those under fourteen years of age, will constitute the Junior, and those over the Senior. The whole expense per academic year, will be for the Junior $160, and for the Senior $175, payable $100 on admission and the remainder at the expiration of six months.— This expense will include every charge for Board, Tuition, Fuel, Lights, Washing, Public Lectures, use of arms and Accoutrements, Room Rent, and in short every expense except Clothing and Books. The academic year will consist of 46 weeks, and will be divided into two sessions.

Board. The cadets will board in the same family with their instructors, some one or more of whom will at all times be in company with them, paternally to direct them both in their studies and amusements and to assist in forming a courteous, moral and gentlemanly deportment.
Instructors and instructed we shall mingle together as members of the same family, and pursue towards each other, that familiar and respectful course, calculated to inspire the pupil with a manly confidence and zeal, and the instructor with emotions of pleasure.

Examinations. There will be two public Examinations in each year. The first to commence on the Monday nearest the 10th of December, and the second on the first Monday in June, to continue each, one week. There will be private examinations of the Classes every Saturday, on the studies of the preceding week.

Vacations.—There will be two vacations, the first immediately after the December examination, and will continue till the second Monday in January; the next at the close of the June examination, and will continue two weeks. No leave of absence, will be granted in term time, except in cases of urgent necessity.

CATALOGUE OF BOOKS.

Latin.—Adams's Latin Grammar, (Gould's Edition,) Historic Sacre, Viri Romae, Caesar's Commentaries, Sallust, Virgil, Cicero's Select Operations, De Oratore, De Amicitia, De Senectute, Livy, Tacitus, five first books of each, Ainsworth's Dictionary.

Greek.—Goodrich's Greek Grammar, Jacob's Greek Reader, Neilson's Exercises, Valpy's Delectus Graecae Majorae, Xenophon's Anabasis, Homer's Iliad, six first books.

Mathematics, &c.—Tyler's Arithmetic, Hutton's Mathematics, Bawditch's Navigation, Simpson's Conic Sections, Enfield's Natural Philosophy, Sganzi's Civil Engineering, Woodbridge and Willard's Geography, (last edition) Tyler's Elements of History, Hale's History of the United States, Murray's Grammar and Exercises, Blair's Rhetoric, Hedge's Logic, Paley's Moral Philosophy, Constitution of the United States and States generally.

Those intending to join the Institution are advised to bring any of the above mentioned books they may have in their possession, any Mathematical Instruments or Works, also any Historical or Literary Works.

Supplies.—Arrangements will be made at the Institution to supply the cadets with the necessary Books, Stationary and Clothing, if it is preferred, at cost, provided payment is made down if not, and a credit of four months is given, an advance of ten per cent. will be charged on the original cost, which will be the longest indulgence. Every cadet will be required to have a pass book, in which will be registered every article of clothing, books, &c. that may be necessary for his comfort or improvement. The object being more to accommodate the cadets than to make a profit out of them.

THE ROANOKE INSTITUTION is located at Littleton, Warren county, State of North Carolina, in a delightful and healthy part of the country; it is situated between Warrenton and Halifax, sixteen miles from the former and twenty-one from the latter, surrounded by a beautiful country and in the neighborhood of a refined and polished society. Isolated as this Institution is, no opportunity will be afforded to the pupils to contract habits of vice and dissipation; the temptations held out by our towns and villages will here be removed and their contaminating influence avoided. Every attention will be paid to the health, manners, morals and improvements of the cadets; and it is believed, that under the discipline that will be pursued in the Institution, aided by the superior natural advantages of its situation, youths may be trained up to habits of temperance, perseverance, industry and morality without the danger of corruption.
The object of this Institution will be to give a youth a good practical scientific education, to prepare him for the correct and efficient discharge of the duties of any situation in life, in which fortune or inclination may place him; to re-ear up a sound mind in a sound body; to qualify him to enter the world with a head to conceive and an arm to execute, to teach him habits of perseverance, industry and economy, and to cherish those manly, noble and independent sentiments which should form the character of a good citizen. Youths may here be prepared for admission into any of our Colleges or Universities, either one or two years in advance; for admission to the Military Academy at West Point or the Navy; or they will be carefully instructed in the various branches necessary to a finished education. The Institution will be under the general direction of Capt. Partridge, and under the immediate superintendance and control of Mr. D. H. Bingham, who will be assisted by the requisite number of well qualified instructors, to whom applications for admission into the Institution or for further information can be made.

Parents will please to signify to what branches they wish their sons to attend, upon entering them. The Institution is now in operation, and students will be admitted at any time.

Mr. B. has been favored with the following testimonial by his friends in Maryland.

Frederick City, Md. }
April 28, 1829. }

Mr. D. H. Bingham being about to remove to North-Carolina for the purpose of engaging in a Classical and Military Institution, to be under the general direction of Capt. Partridge, the undersigned take pleasure in offering him a testimonial, to which his character and gentlemanly deportment fully entitle him. Mr. Bingham has resided some years in this city, and has been engaged in a Seminary similar in its character to that contemplated in North-Carolina. We have thus had an opportunity to judge of his qualifications; but on that point we deem it unnecessary for us to offer any recommendation in aid of the circumstance, that he has been selected for the station by so distinguished a professor as Capt. Partridge, from amongst his very numerous and well informed pupils. We may observe however that he has distinguished himself here by a degree of diligence, perseverance and regularity, calculated to insure him, any where that success which we hope will reward his present undertaking.
