TATION REPORTS THURSDAY, JULY

We learn, that the Rev. GEORGE ERMAN, late Rector of St. Peter's Church Washington, has been invited to the toral charge of Christ's Church in this and that he has accepted the call. is expected that the new Episcopal urch will be ready for Consecration in the course of six or eight weeks.

His splenaid talents, mild and courteous manners. varied learning and unbending integrity vill render him a formidable competitor wit we think it rather early to broach the abject.

The friends of the President in this marter attempt to justify his proscriptive wlicy, upon the principle of rotation in office. If this be the true spring of the General's conduct, why does it happen that all the removals are made from one party?

" Reform"-Mr. Grafton Munroe, than whom there was not, it is said, a better officer in the Union, has been removed from the Post-office at Annapolis, to reward the Editor of the Maryland Gazette, who has received the appointment.

Latest from Europe.-By the packet ship Sally, Macy, which arrived at New-York on Tuesday, from Havre, files of Paris papers have been received to the 1st of June, inclusive ; from which we have made the extracts and translation which will be found below. There is nothing actually new, which can be depended up m, from the seat of war. It is evident, however, that we shall soon hear of some very sanguinary engagements. The French papers of the latest dates are principally occupied with the debates on the subject of finance and revenue. It seems probable that the passage of the Tariff bill will be postponed to the next session.

All seemed devoted to dissipation, ama ment and drinking, and the village o Dedham, and the public houses road, would have led one ignorant of the true cause of the "gathering together, to the belief that it was produced by some holiday festival. It confirmed us in the opinion we have for some time formed, against public executions. They do no good ;-but on the other hand, we believe they are productive of much evil. Each execution adds one day to the number, already too great. of those spent in riot, idleness and drinking.

A negro girl, convicted of the murder o her mistress, in New-Orleans, was seutenced to be hung at 3 o'clock, p. M. on the 26th ult. Subsequent to her trial, some new circumstances transpired, which induced a general belief that she was not unit ty. or, if she was, that there was some accomplice more criminal than she, and the Governor was petitioned to reprieve the girl for three months, under the hope that she would be proved innocent, and the real murderer discovered. Accordingly on the foremoon of the day of execution, the Governor granted a respite for three months. which had scarcely been delivered to the sheriff, when the prisoner made a full contession of her crime to the jailer. As soon as this circumstance was made known to the Governor, he issued an order to the sheriff to carry the first sentence into efnot receiving the order until after 3 o'clock the execution stands postponed until the 26th of September next.-Ch. Rhetoric .- Mr. Webster, in his argu ment on the case pending in the Court of Equity, Boston, alluding to an allegation in the indictment, rather derogatory to a person now no more, made the following terrible remark : . If any two of that man' bones were held together by any ligament and could be conscious of this unhallowed indignity, they would kick against the coffin !' Mr. Wirt in his reply seemed to think that if such were the case with would be a terrible rattling among the dry bones !'

rties of our feeting facut he the effect of variety prough a diversity of organization, it s tend to produce in us instaal forbearance and toleration. We should perceive how nearly impossible it is that persons should think and feel exactly alike upon any subject. We should not arrogabily pride ourselves upon our virtues and knowledge nor condemn the errors and weaknes of others, since they may depend upon causes which we can neither produce nor readily counteract. No one, judging from his own feelings and powers, can be aware of the kind or degree of templation or terror, or the seconing incapicity to resist them, which may influce others to deviate.

The ther hand was applied in the hope of extricating its fellow, but that also was taken in. until the wheels were choaked by the bunes and the whole machinery stopped. In this situation the sufferer remained until his son a lad, let down the gate, and he was extricated by the machinery being ungeared .---Amputation of the left arm was soon after fect at the appointed hour ; but the sheriff performed by Dr. W. ANNE ROYAL .- But few persons have obtained greater notoriety in the United States by the art of book-making than this same Mrs. Royal. The first count charges her with being a common slanderer; the second, with being a common scold; and the third, with being a common brawler. To the second count, she put in her plea of not guilty; but demurred to the other two counts. Judge Cranch delivered the opinion of the Court, which sustained the demurrer, on the ground that the terms "common slanderer," and "common brawler," were not sufficiently specific. Mrs. Royal, therefore, has to take her trial only on the second count. She was in Court, prepared for her trial, but owthe Court by the case of Dr. Watkins,

A Serious Repartee. - The Irish are very happy in their conversational fact, and the art of repartee. A Galway gentleman lately entered a coffee house in London. and called for tea; his brogue attracted the attention of a scented civilian in the opposite box, who, relying upon his superior accent resolved to make a jest at the expense of the stranger. The civilian called for tea. too; the Irishman called for muffins, so did the civilian : toast, milk sugar &c. were severally called for by the Irishman, and as severally echoed by the lop, who enjoyed in his corner the supposed embarrassment to which he was subjecting the Galway man. At last, with the greatest composure, and if possble a richer brogue, the Irishman desired the waiter to "bring pistols for two,"-the jester's echo was silenced.

Presence of Mind. - While a lail, seven years of age, was in bed on Friday evening, in a house in the upper part of the city, he was astonished to perceive a strange man enter the room, and after having cautiously looked around and surveyed it. approach the bed. The boy closed his eyes as the stranger came nearer, and on bis arriving at the bed assumed the appearance of slumber. For some moments the fellow hovered around the bed, and made use of various artifices to discover whether the inmate was in reality asleep. Having satisfied himself of the apparent fact, he left trembler ventured to take a peep at the villain, he found him coolly removing from a bureau several articles of wearing apparel, with which he left the room. He had only got down a dozen stairs, when the boy forgot his fears, jumped from his bed, and screamed with such violence that his father rushed from the parlor, and just in time to grasp the robber. The fellow was taken to the police, where he was instantly recognised as Jas. Armstrong, who had been acquitted of a felony the same day. in the Court of Sessions.

Tight lacing .- The Vermont Journal of the 4th July, contains a communication from Dr. Palmer, which gives the distressing particulars attending the death of a Mrs. S. of that town, aged eighteen, which was produced by tight lacing, causing an abscess to form near the pit of the stomach, which burst internally. Dr. P. obtained permission to open the body. In the chest, the left long was shrivelled to the thickness of ones finger, and its spongy structure destroyed so as to be wholly unfitted for bearing a part in the process of respiration. Its degeneration of structure was what physicians designate by the term hepatization. There were extensive adhesions of the stomach and liver to the surrounding parts. The circumstance in this case which led to my giving it tublicity was its exciting cause; which, I have no doubt, was the tight dress worn by the patient previous to. and after the commencement of her sickness. This is rendered nearly certain by the fact that she had never been seriously indisposed until the period when my account of her case commences ; and that none of those appearances were detected in the lungs, which accompany consumptive disease. It is forther in proof of the same fact, that notwithstanding the exten-sive ravages of disease, the constitution steadily resisted any participation with the answer or demur to the complainant's billocal affection ; that there was no fever at the same will be taken pro confesso and h the commencement, and very little at any period ; and that, not of the hectical kind ;
