Mr. President, I have thus stated the reasons my dissent to the doctrines which have been advanced and maintained. I am conscious of having detained you, and the Senate too long. I was drawn into the deliate, with no previous deliberation such as is suited to the discussion of so grave and important a subject. But it is a subject of which my heart is full, and I have not been willing to suppress the utterince of its spontaneous sentiments. I cannot, even now, per-suade myself to relinquish it without expressing, once more, my deep conviction, that since it res pec's nothing less than the Union of the States, it is of most vital and essential importance to the public happiness. I profess, s.r. in my career hitherto, to have kept steadily in view the prosperity and honor of the whole country, and the preservation of our Federal Union. It is to that Union that we are chiefly ind bled for whatever makes us most proud of our country. That u: nion' we reached, only by the discipline of our virtues, in the severe school of adversity. It had its origin in the necessities of disordered finance, prostrate commerce, and rained credit. Under its benign influences, these great interests immediately awoke, as from the dead, and sorang with newness of life. Every year of its duration has tremed with fresh proofs of its utility and blessings; and although our territory has stretched out, wider and wider, and our populalion spread farther and farther, they have not outrun its protection, or its benefits. It has been to us all a copious fountain of national, social, and personal happiness. I have not allowed myself, sir to look beyond the Union, to see what might lie hidden in the chances of preserving liberry, when the bonds that unite us together shall be broken asunder. I have not accustom ed myself to hang over the precipice of disunion, to see whether, with my short sight, I can fathom the depth of the abyss below ; nor could I regard him as a safe counsellor in the affairs of this Go vernment, whose thoughts should be mainly bent on considering, not how the Union should be best preserved, but how tolerable might be the condition of the people when it shall be broken up and destroyed. While the Union lasts, we have high, exciting, gratifying prospects spread out before us, for us and our children. Beyond that I seek not to penetrate the veil. God grant that, in my day, at least, that curtain may not rise. God grant, that on my vis on never may be be turned to behold for the last time, the Sun in Heaven, may I not see him shining on the broken and dishonored fragments of a once glorious Union; on States dissevered, discordant, belligerent, on a land rent with civil feuds, or drenched, it may be, in fraternal blood! Let their last feeble and lingering glance, rather, behold the gorgeous Ensign of the Republic, now known and honored throughout the earth, still full high advanced, its arms and trophies streaming in their original lustre, not a stripe erased or polluted, nor a single star obscured-bearing for its motto, no such miserable interr gatory as-What is all this worth? Nor those other words of delusion and folly - Liberty first, and Union afterwards but every where spread all over in characters of hving light, blazing on all its ample folds, as they float over the sea and over the land, and in every wind under the whole heavens, that other sentiment, dear to every true. American heart-Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable

RALEIGH REGISTER.

THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1830.

We finish in to-day's Register Mr. Web ster's unequalled speech. In our next, we shall commence the Debate which occurred in our State Legislature, on the bill for establishing a Bank of the State.

Reaction. - Mr. CHILTON, a Representative in Congress from Kentucky, the same who introduced the famous Retrenchment Resolutions, has addressed a letter to the Editors of the National Intelligencer, which will make some noise in the political world. Mr. Chilton rode into Congress, as a thorough reformer, promising that the defendant Zachariah Clark, is an in- to exert all his power to correct the abuses and extravagance of the late Administration. He begins to perceive, howevpower while struggling for power, was " sound and fury signifying nothing," intended merely for political effect. Mr. Chilton having at length become convinced of this, he unburthens his mind in a blunt sort of way, and declares he will support Mr. CLAY for our next President. Many of his party will doubtless follow

The Senate of the United States have rejected, it is said unanimously, the nomination of Henry Lee, as Consul General to the Barbary powers. He has however received his outfit and salary and is no doubt satisfied. The President has since sent in the name of Commodore Porter, as his successor, to which we presume, there will be no opposition. On Friday last, the Senate courmed the appointment of Anthony Butler, as Charge' des Affaires to the Republic of Mexico, and of Emanuel West, as Charge to Peru-the benefit which his inventions have conferred upon the country. At the present day, we are only beginning to realize the extent of those benefits. Selfishness gooerally obtains its own reward in the very moment in which its energies are disclused, but the real benefactors of mankind, too often toil night and day, bear the sneers of the invidious, hear themselves classed with the visionary, and alas ! too frequently, are placed beyond the reach of gratitude, before the callous hearts of the world can fully appreciate their merit.

We regret to perceive, that in the House of Representatives, the bill to compensate the willow of Commodore Deck-TUR and the representatives of his brave officers and seamen, has been laid on the table, there to remain. We regret it; bet cause we conceive the claim set up, as a debt actually due, and which ought to be ing the extension of the charter of the Bank of paid. Had no important consequences resulted to the nation. from this successful exploit, it would still be a debt. The Philadelphia had been captured by the Tripolitans & her crew immured in dungeons. Fire. We are concerned to learn, that on the 9th instant, the dwelling house of together with all its contents, were consumed by fire.

Melancholy .- On the 5th instant a fire broke out in the clothing shop of Munwhich so quickly communicated to the rest of the building a three story wooden one, that two persons who had retired to rest in the upper part, had not sufficient notice to escape, and were burnt to death! One of these was an idiot, a colored person, named Pero; the other was his sister, who appeared at the second story window, but did not succeed in escaping.

Colombia. The Constituent Congress of Columbia was installed at Bogota, on the 20th of January. Sucre was elected President. Bolivar made a public address. in which he once more resigned his arbitrary power. " Never (said he) never, I swear to you, has my mind been stained by ambition for a kingdom, which my enemies have artfully forged, to destroy me in your opinion." The New-York Commercial seems to think that if he is in earnest this time in resigning, it is because he has found public opinion too powerful to permit him to carry his ambitious views into effect.
