DR. YOUNG. Dr. Young was once on a party of pleasure with a few ladies going up by water to Vauxhall, and he amused them with a tune on the German flute. Behind him several officers were also in a boat rowing for the same place, and soon came along side of the boat in which were the doctor and his party. The doctor, who was never conceited of his playing, put up his flute on their approach. One of the officers instantly asked him why he ceased to play, or put up his flute; "For the same reason," said he, "that I took it out-to please myself." The son of Mars very peremptorily rejoined, that if he did not instantly take out his flute, and continue his music, he would throw him into the Thames. The doctor, in order to allay the fears of the ladies, pocketed the insult, and continued to play all the way up the river. During the evening, however, he observed the officer by we do continue in life we may receive a good himself in one of the walks, and making up account of you." to him, said, with great coolness, "It was, sir, to avoid interrupting the harmony either of my company or yours, that I complied with your arrogant demand; but that you may be satisfied courage may be found under a black coat as well as under a red one, I expect that you will meet me to-morrow morning without any second, the quarrel being entirely entre nous." The doctor further covenanted, that the affair should be decided by swords. To all these conditions the officer assented. The duellists met; but the moment the officer took the ground, the doctor pulled out a horse-pistol. "What" said the officer, "do you intend to assassinate me?" "No," replied the doctor; "but you shall instantly put up your sword and dance a minuet, otherwise you are a dead man."-The officer began to bluster, but the doctor was resolute, and he was obliged to comply.

If a native of Switzerland, the inhabitants of which Lord Bolingbrok observes, appear to have been made for their mountains, hear the wild and simple notes of the Ransdes-Vaches, which, played upon the Alpine horn, had charmed him in infancy, an ardent and ungovernable passion is excited, once more to climb the cliffs, and navigate the waters of his native Canton.

"The intrepid Swiss, that guards a foreign shore, Condemned to climb his mountain cliffs no more; If chance he hears that song, so sweetly wild, Which on those hills his infant hours beguiled; Melts at the long lost scenes, that round him rise, And sinks a martyr to repentant sighs."

Lingering along the battlements of a foreign fortress, while the moon rising behind a cloud throws her solemn mantle over those mountains, which screen him from his native Switzerland, his eyes are filled with tears; his breast heaves with sighs; and he turns from the impressive landscape in silence and in agony. He quits the ramparts; and wandering along the fosse, that little stream, recalling to his recollection the beautiful lakes of Constance, Zurich, or of Lurevelry. Nothing is more unjust, however common, than to charge with hypocrisy him that expresses zeal for those virtues which he neglects to practise; since he may be sincerely convinced of the advantages of conquering his passions, without having yet obtained the victory, as a man may be confident of the advantages of a coyage or a journey, without having courage or industry to undertake it, and may honestly recommend to others. those attempts which he neglects himself. Johnson.

Self-love, in a well regulated breast, is as the steward of the household, superintending the expenditure, and seeing that benevolence herself should be prudential in order to be permanent, by providing that the reservoir which feeds, should also be fed.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE.

The following excellent advice was given by the Mother of the Chevalier BAYARD, to her Son, when leaving his Father's house to enter as a page into the service of Charles, duke of Savoy.

"Peter, my son, you are going into the service of a noble prince; as much as a mother can command her child, do I command you three things, which, if you do, rest assured they will enable you to pass through this present life with honour. The first is, that you love and serve God, without offending him in any way, if it be possible to you.-For it is he who gave us life, it is he who will save us, and without him and his grace, we should not have power to perform a single good work in this world. Recommend yourself to him every morning and evening, and he will give you aid. The second is, that you be mild and courteous to all gentlemen, casting away pride. Be humble to every body. Be not a slanderer or a liar. Keep yourself temperate in regard to eating and drinking. Avoid envy-it is a mean vice. Be neither a flatterer nor a talebearer, for people of this description do not usually attain to any high degree of excellence. Be loyal in word and deed. Keep your promises. Succour poor widows and orphans, and God will reward you. The third is, that you be bountiful of the goods that God shall give you, to the poor and needy; for, to give for his honour's sake never made any man poor; and believe me, my child, the alms that you shall dispense, will greatly profit both your body and soul .-This is all that I have to charge you with. I believe that your father and I shall not live much longer; but God grant that whilst

ST. PETERS.

A work entitled Scenes and impressions in Egypt and Italy, has appeared by the author of Sketches in India, and recollections of the Peninsula. The following extract respecting a visit to St. Peter's at Rome.

"St. Peter's, however, must be visited and revisited alone. I have been in it at morning, noon, and as the shades of evening dimmed, without obscuring, every object .-The confessional of St. Peter, with the lamps which burn around it, placed as it is, in the centre of the crossing naves of this mighty temple, belongs in its aspect, so entirely to all that is grand and solemn in the general and most majestic character of the idolatries of all ages and nations, that could you place here the Assyrian of Egyptian, Greek and Roman of ancient times, the Parsee and the Brahmin of this, would fall down and worship; and you feel as you offer thanks for instruction in that revealed word which gives a spiritual freedom to your thought, which officer convinced of the impropriety of his conduct, immediately begged his antagonist's permits you, in towns, or deserts, in tumultuous occupation or the stillness of the night, to erect an altar in your mind, and raise a temple "not made with hands" above it, a erally, a little tact and observation will always gratitude which is, perhaps, the sweetest and most satisfying feeling our spiritual nature is capable of indulging. SOMNOLENCY.

Dean Swift preached a sermon on the text from Acts, "And there sat in a window certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep; and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft and was taken up dead." He was, however, miraculously restored to life by Paul. The Dean commences thus:

I have chosen these words with design, if possible, to disturb some part in this audience of half an hour's sleep, for the convenience and exercise whereof, this place, at this season of the day, is very much cele-

It is the care of some, only to come off speedily for the time, or to contrive some false periods of business, because they may seem men of despatch; but it is one thing to abreviate have lost one worth weeping for." by contracting, another by cutting off; and business so handled at several sittings, or meetings, goeth commonly backward and forward in an unsteady manner. On the other side, true despatch is a rich thing; for time is the measure of business, as money is of wares; and business is bought ata dear hand where there is small despatch. The Spartans and Spaniards have been noted to be of small despatch: "Mi venga la murte de Spagna." "Let my death come from Spain," for then it will be sure to be long in coming .- Bacon.

HINTS ON EDUCATION.

Elder children are sometimes inclined to tease, and domineer over the younger; though it is commonly those who have themselves been treated with tyranny that are most disposed, in their turn become to tyrants. This inclination is ever to be repressed; we are barity, of employing superior strength in oppressing, or tormenting the weak and helaless; and uniformly to manifest our abher rence of cruelty and tyranny, under whatever form they may appear, even when exercised toward the most insignificant insect. Let the first appearances also of a revengeful disposition be especially guarded against, both in our children, and in the conversation and conduct of those who are about them. -If a child in infancy be encouraged to beat, the table, against which he has bruised his head: if he be allowed to strike his brother, from whom he has received a blow; if he hear the language of retaliation and mutual reproach among his attendants,-can we be surprized, if he display an irascible and vindictive temper, as his will and his passions are strengthened by age ?

POPPING THE QUESTION.

This important science in the economy of matrimony is sensibly and philosophically handled by an old Bachelor in Frazer's Magazine:

"Though it is impossible to say any thing very much to the purpose about refusals gentell you whether the girl who refused you would have been worth having, had she acthe lady to say that she is deeply grateful ing only friendship for you, she regrets that she cannot accept your proposals, &c. &c. I have heard the words so often, that I know them by heart. The words, however varied. signify little; it is the tone and manner in which they are pronounced that must guide you in forming your estimate of the cruel one. If they are pronounced with evident marks of sorrow, justead of triumph, showing unfeigned regret for having caused pain which she could not alleviate-if her voice is soft, broken, and tremulous-her eye dimmed with a half-formed tear, which it requires even an effort to subdue-then, I say, you may share in her sorrow, for you have probably lost a prize worth gaining; but though you grieve you may also hope, if you are a man of any pretension, for there is evidently good feeling to build upon. Do not. therefore, fly out and make an idiot of yourself, on receiving your refusal; submit with a good grace; solicit a continuance of friendship, to support you under the heart-crushing affliction you have sustained. Take her hand outre conduct of any kind-jest a little at the expense of your own failure, without, honour of the victory. LOSS OF THE STEAM BOAT BELLE OF MISSOURI.

AWYUL EXPLOSION OF 1600 KEGS OF POWDER!! Again we have to record the loss of anothor fine steamer; and when we consider the circumstances under which she was destroyed, it appears almost miraculous that a great number of lives were not lost. As usual no one is to blame; and in the place of censuring the captain or the officers, whose vigilance should have prevented the sad accident, a vote of thanks must be passed by the passengers, congratulating the Captain, because his boat was not destroyed before; and, for the same cause, our city authorities should present him with a sword. The following particulars are furnished by the pilot of the Steamer Platte, who reached Randolph on the 7th instant with the news.

The Belle of Missouri took fire about 80 miles below St. Louis. She was full of passengers at the time, and the utmost alarm and consternation prevailed. Their terror was in no way diminished when it was ascertained that there were upwards of sixteen hundred kegs of powder on board! The flames were spreading in every direction, and every moment was pregnant with the most imminent danger. The Captain did the only thing he could have done. He ran his boat

The passengers, officers, and crew left with the utmost precipitation, glad to leave behind only their property to the flames .-One individual was rash enough to venture on board in the hopes of saving his baggage. He had no sooner reached the ill-starred steamer when the terrific explosion took place, and doubtless he perished among the fragments which were scattered in every diéction .- N. O. Picayune.

THE EDITOR OF THE WILMINGTON CHRONICLE, having, by the fire of the 17th of January; lost all the materials of his office, on which there was no insurance, and being desirous of resuming the publication of the paper as soon as possible, in order to enable him to do so be makes an appeal to the public for an increase of his subscrip tion list. The political character of the Chronicle is Whig. The Editor has ever aimed, however, to diffuse what he conceives to be true political senti-ments, with justice and fair-dealing towards those entertaining different opinions, and to discuss matters with a courtesy proper among all mon. This will be its future course. But independently of these considerations, there is now so large a portion of the State connected with Wilmington by the ties that grow out of frequent intercourse and commercial ealings, that the newspapers of that place should have an extensive circulation. The price of the paper was $2 50, in advance, but experience has proved that a paper cannot be afforded in Vilmington for that sum, and the subscription of the Chronicle will therefore be hereafter $3 00 in advance.

UST PUBLISHED, and ready for delivery, at the North Carolina Book Store, a Digest of all the reported Decisions of the Courts in North Carolina, commencing with the earliest Reporter and calluding the Decisions of the Supreme Court at their June Term, 1837. Prepared by Hon James Iredell, Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

Turner & Hughes, the Proprietors, respectfully ask the patronage of the public for this work, which has been published at great expense. It contains near a thousand pages, and is, therefore, necessarily divided into two royal octavo valumes of about five hundred pages each, printed on good type and fine paper, and well bound. Price, Nine Dollars a copy.

It is recommended not only to professional men, all of whom will doubtless possess themselves of it, to direct and abridge their labors, but it is also urged upon the notice of all Justices, Sheriffs, and other judicial officers, as affording them an exposition; in a few words, of the points which the Supreme Court of North Carolina has decided in relation to their dutics. For a similar reason, it is recommended to private gentlemen, who may have an inclination or feel an interest to know the determinations of the Supreme Court, which constitute, so far as they decide, the law of the land, as imperative as any Act of Assembly, and as binding in their operation upon every member of the community.

RALEIGH FIRE COMPANY.—The
Act of the General Assembly for the better protection of the City of Raleigh from losses by fire, provides that a Fire Company be annually established in the following manner: The Intendant of Police and Commissioners shall, in the month of January, enrol the free white male inhabitants of 21 years of age and upwards, and being thus enrolled, the said Intendant and Commissioners shall publicly invite such citizens as choose to volunteer their services to form said Fire Company, to consist of forty members. This invitation is, therefore, thus publicly made, and it is hoped will be promptly met, by signifying assent to the Clerk of the Board.

In case a sufficient number of volunteers do not offer their services before the last Saturday in Pebruary the Act directs that the Intendant and Comm ers shall, on that day, make a draft from the enrolment, of such number of men as shall be wanting to form said Company.
