GET MARRIED.

Setting aside individual Impoiness, and all he pleasures of the social circle, the comare of domestic life, and the smile and cheer ne voice that greet the husband and he father, the nature of society urges strong easons why men should get married. Beause human improvement, the good of the world, depends upon woman in her proper pliete. Our first lessons are the instrucons of her lips, and our earliest impressions are taken from her example. Thus it is hat we carry into society her influence shich extends throughout all ranks and all lasses of mankind.

Woman's influence, therefore, not only heds a mild and cheering lustre over the ears of her friends, around the fireside of er family, and within the narrow sphere in which nature has placed her but upon the thole world. It enters the haunts of vice. and drags forth the victim of the bowl, dashs it from his lips, and restores him to reaon and to a virtuous life. It prevents the prosutation of those qualities which ennoble. ignify and elevate man above all other be-and makes man virtuous, when he would therwise be victous. It carries peace and prosperity where trouble and adversity would reign, and gives birth to a thousand pleaures that would otherwise never exist.

The young man who is fond of the society of virtuous females, has a better capital for his character, than birth or wealth could give him. He is looked upon as a moral and virtuous man, because, generally speaking, only such take pleasure in the refinement of female society.

Take it all in all, therefore, marriage is necessary for man's happiness, for the true formation of his character, for the peace of his home, the comfort of his heart, the joy f his youth, and the solace of his years. la fine, man never becomes a member society until he is married. Unmarried, he is looked upon with distrust. He has no home, no abiding place, no anchor to hold hun fast, but is a mere piece of float-wood on the great tide of time. His interest is not with society, farther than the accomplishment of some selfish object is concerned, and he cares not for the welfare of the generations springing up around him, and who me to live after him. He becomes embittered in his feelings against all mankind, hisanthropie, parsimonious, morose and iras-

To our friend of the B and to all young men who are looking after happiness we sav, therefore "Get Married."

If you are desirous of w. alth, get married for a good wife promotes habits of industry and economy and prevents a great many unnecessary expenses which cannot be avoided in single life.

If you are looking for stations of distingtion and honor, get matried, for a good wife will seek to advance her husband in the prosecution of all honorable purposes, and end him that aid and encouragement which he can derive from no other source.

If you would become a good citizen, ge married, for he is alone worthy of the title, who is connected to the great family of man by the ties of hosband and father.

If you are fortunate, get married, for good wife will increase your prosperity and render you twice blessed in the enjoyment of your riches.

If you are unfortunate, get married. The ares of the world are lessened by having a wife who takes pleasure in sharing with you. If you are in business, get married, for the married man has his mind fixed on his busibess and his family, and is more likely of

THE REV. J. W. FLETCHER.

His courage and intrepedity were remarkable. There is an anecdote related by his biographers on this subject, so striking, that I cannot resist the temptation of presenting it to your readers. Mr. Fleicher had a very rofligate nephew, a military man, who had been dismissed from the Sardinian service for base and ungentlemanly conduct. had engaged in two or three duets, and dissingled his resources in a career of vice and extravagance. This desperate youth waited one day on his eldest uncle, General de Gons, and presented a loaded pisiol, threatened to shoot him unless he would immediately advance him five hundred crowns. The General, though a brave man, well knew what a desperado he had to deal with, and gave a draft for the money, at the same time expostulating freely with him on his conduct. The young madman rode off triumphantly with his ill-gotten acquisition. In the evening, passing the door of his younger uncle, Mr. Fletcher, he determined to call on him, and began with informing him what General de Gons had done and as a proof, exhibited the draft under de Gon's own hand. Mr. Fletcher took the draft from his nephew. and looked at it with astonishment. Then after some remarks, putting it into his pocket, said, "It strikes me young man, that you have possessed yourself of this note by some indirect method; and in honesty I cannot return it, but with my brother's knowl edge and approbation." The nephew's pistol was immediately at his breast, "My life" replied Mr. Fletcher with perfect calmness, us secure in the protection of Almighty nower; nor will be suffer it to be the furfest of my integrity and of your rashness." This firmness drew from the nephew the observation, that his uncle De Gons, though an old soldier, was more afraid of death than his brother." " Afraid of death !" rejoined Mr. Fletcher: "do you think I have been twenty-five years minister of the lord of life, published with a new press and types and on a large to be afraid of death now! No, sir,it is for you to fear death. You are a gamester and .. cheat, yet you call yourself a gentleman? You are you say vou are a gentleman! You are a rearages are settled. ductist, and for this you style yourself a man Asheville. June 5, 1840. of houdur ! Lank there, sir : the broad eye AW SCHOOL .- I have opened a Law School of heaven is fixed upon us. Tremble in the presence of your Maker, who can in a moment kill your body, and for ever punish your soul in hell." The unhappy man turned pale, and trembled alternately with fear and rage. He still threatened his uncle with insight death. Fletcher, though thus menaced, gave no alarm, sought for no weapon, and attempted not to escape. He calmly conversed with his profligate relation; and at length perceiving him to be affected, addressed him in language truly paternal, till he had fairly disarmed him. He would not return his brother's drait, but engaged to procure for the young man some immediate relief. He then prayed with him, and after fulfilling his promise of assistance, parted with him, with much good sovice on one side, and many fair promises on the other.

The power of courage, founded on piety and principle, together with its influence in overcoming the wildest and most desperate profligacy, were never more finely illustrated. it deserves to be put into the hands of every self styled "man of honour," to show him how far superior is the courage that dares not sin, to the bousted prowess of a mere man of the world. How utterly contemptiblestile desperation of a duellist appears, when contrasted with the noble intrepidity of such a christian soldier as the humble Vicar of Madeley!

GENERAL MAXIMS FOR HEALTH.

"Rise early. Eat simple food. Take sufficient exercise. Never fear a little fatigue. Let no children be dressed in tight clothes : it is necessary that their limbs and muscles should have full play, if you wish for either their health or their beauty. Avoid the ne cessity of a physician, if you can, by careful attention to your diet. Eat what best agrees with your system, and resolutely abstain from what hurts you, however well you may like it. A few day's abstinence, and cold water for a beverage, has driven off many an a proaching disease. In common with the great majority of the American People, we look to Whig principles and to Whig measures as the only means of restoring the Government to its former purity, and of eradicating the pernicious and factious practices which corrupt Administrations have inflitted upon the country. We have witnessed and still witness the servants whom the people have called to admin-ister the affairs of the Government, disregarding the clearly expressed wishes of their constituents, and chosen on account of his load professions of Demo-eracy and Republicanism, and coming into office with hypocritical declarations of attachment to popula rights, presumptunitely accusing a large postion of the people with brinery and corruption, beca expressed, in a constitutional manner, their o to one of his propositions.
