mortification, a circular issued by W. I and M. T. Hawkira, dated House of Representatives, 8th June, 1840. We are surprised that members of Congress should have descended from their high stations to have made charges so unfounded in fact, and tions to have made charges so unfounded in fact, and we are mortified beyond measure that those members whould have come from North-Carolina. We deem it should have come from North-Carolina. We deem it adot to you, we deem it due to ourselves, to expose a daty to you, we deem it due to ourselves, to expose the misrepresentations to treat its authors with all due so, we shall endeavor to treat its authors with all due hile we avoid their example, and rea respect, white we avoid their example, and remember to maintain our own self-respect.

Nuch of the abusive language applied to General Haurson we shall not notice. His character is beyond the reach of such assaults. For a long period he has been in the service of his country; he has often risked his life for that country; he risked his political fife, and sacrificed his seat in Congress on account of his regard for the rights of the Southern States. We challenge the most rigid examination into his character. We defy the most severe exercise of malicious criticism into his military conduct and into his civil history. Thus far, every attack has proved he was better than he appeared before, and, as Americans, proud of the reputation of our distinguished countryman, we invite attention to his history. The misera ble exploded slander that he is a "bank, federal, abolision" candidate, is utterly unworthy of notice. The policy of the Van Buren party has created and foster-ed hundreds of State banks. We will at any time compare notes, and will prove hundreds of federalists to belong to the same party. Numerous instances can be given of their receiving high offices from Mr. Van be given of their receiving high offices from Mr. Van Buren. Nothing is more susceptible of proof than the fact that the abolitionists have nominated candidates of their own, and that they are opposing Harrison, shoulder to shoulder, with the Van Buren party.

To show the People of our State who are the aboli tionists, who are co-laborers with Messrs. Montgome ry and Hawkins in their unworthy warfare, we ask that the letter of Duncani of Ohio, may be exam-ined. To give evidence of the fiendish maliguity with which the South is assailed by Van Buren men, w hope the declaration of Tappan may be remembered the man who offered to subscribe $500 to buy powder and shot for the negroes, to aid them in insurrection These men are members of the same party with our colleagues—all uniting in vilifying an old soldier who has served his country well—all uniting in their efforts to elect a man President of the United States who approves of the proceedings of a Court Martial in which negro testimony was admitted against a white man!

But we dismiss this. It has been too often refuted to claim further notice at our hands. The authors of this circular could not have made any man in his senses believe this charge, before they wrote this extraordinary circular. After such an exhibition of disregard of facts as this circular affords, they and their endor sers must rely upon something beyond bare assertion to gain credit for their statements.

But what do they say in this circular? Genera Harrison is charged by them, on the first page of their circular, with " acts and votes" in favor of laws to sell "white men and white women for sheriffs' fees, clerks ees, and lawyers' fees, and fines imposed by courts, who, from their poverty, were so poor as ble to pay these costs in money." We submit whether the statement does not bear its own refutation on its face. The act related to "crimes and punishments." its face. The act related to "crimes and punishments."
It applied only to those who were sentenced, on conviction of any crime or breach of any penal law, to pay "a fine or fines, with or without the costs of prosecution." The reading of the law exposes the groundless charge; because it says "with or without the costs of prosecution." Messrs. M. & H. would have you believe that, in enseting this law, the clerks', lawyers', and sheriffs' fees were alone consulted. It was intended as a punishment for crimes, such as horse stealing, how stealing, burglary, arson. Acc. which are express. hog stealing, burglary, arson, &c., which are express-ly mentioned in the law, when the criminals were "on conviction" sentenced to pay a fine, "with or without the costs of prosecution."

Messrs. M. and H. seem to think this law would operate only on those who, "from their poverty, were so poor as to be unable to pay these costs in money!"

If it had been intended to affect those only who 'from their poverty were so poor," we suppose those who "from" any other cause were "so poor" would never have been sold under this law? Messrs. M. and H. seem to think there are two classes of poor men.; first, "the poor" simply, and then, secondly, those who "from their poverty are so poor!" But we are willing to give these authors the full benefit of their extract from this law, and we quote the law of Indiana,

Extract from the Laws of the Indiana Territory, printed at Vincennes, by Messrs. Stout and Smoot, in 1807, and now in the Library of the State Department, Washington City. CHAPTER VI

An act respecting Crimes and Punishments.

Sec. 30. When any person or persons shall, on conviction of any crime or breach of any penal law, be sentenced to pay a fine or fines, with or without the costs of prosecution, it shall and may be lawful for the court before whom such conviction shall be had to order the sheriff to sell or hire the person or persons so convicted to service to any person or persons who will pay the said fine and costs, for such term of time as the said court shall judge reasonable.

And if such person or persons, so sentenced and hired or sold, shall abscond from the service of his or her master or mistress before the term of such servi-tude shall be expired, he or she so absconding shall, on conviction before a justice of the peace, be whipped with thirty-nine stripes, and shall, moreover, serve two days for every one so lost.

Sec. 31. The judges of the several courts of record in this Territory shall give this act in charge to the grand jury at each and every court in which a grand jury shall be sworn.

JESSE B. THOMAS, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
B. CHAMBERS,

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON. Indiana, at this time, was a Territory; she had not become a State; she had no penitentiary—probably she had few jails in her borders. If a vagrant had obbed a man of his horse, or stolen his hog, although the vagrant might have owned property to the amount of a thousand dollars, still, under this law, he might have been "hired to service" for such term of time as the Court "judged reasonable." The object of the law was to punish and to reform offenders. Under this law a notorious offender could be hired out, for six or twelve months, and made to work instead of being confined in jail, and fed at public expense out of the taxes paid by honest "good neighbor men." The law reached not only those who from their poverty were so poor as to be unable to pay costs, but those who might be able to pay costs, and who deserved to be hired out and made to work. It is perfectly plain, therefore, that this law was made for, and applied only to persons convicted of crimes, and it could only be carried into effect after indictment by a grand jury, and after con- a actually signed the above bill" which viction by twelve free men, who heard testimony on to purchase a white servant! although that white ser-of your poor tut respectable neighbor women knacked off under the sheriff's hammer to a free negro as his obey them, whatever they might be; and should she resist and disobey and leave her black master's service, and he should apprehend her, and drag her before a single justice of the peace, and, under this Harrison law, have thirty-nine lashes inflicted upon his white female siave; and then compel her to serve two days for every one she had lost from her black master's service, would you be willing to vote for such a man as President! And this is the bank federal Whig canlidate's former opinions and acts to which he refers us, and adopts us his present opinions and principles; and this man, with these principles, is the nominee of the great Harrisburg and Baltimore bank, federal, abolition Conventions for President of these United States; and they strongly solicit your votes for him, and particu-larly demand the votes of poor men, while at the same time he actually refuses to be seen by, or even spoken to by a poor man; and you are asked by these federal Whigs to take him upon his former expressed opinions and acts, and they as above stated."

We take it for granted that any intelligent man will see at once this misstatement, and will, as soon as the law is read, be entirely satisfied that selling a horse thief, or a hog thief, or one who had committed forgery or perjury, after he had been "convicted" by twelve men, cannot properly or with truth be said to be selling 'respectable and good neighbor men' for lawyers' fees.

We know the People, "the respectable and good neighbor men," of North Carolina too well to believe, for one moment, that they would oppose the election of Gen. Harrison because he wished to punish thieves, forgers and perjured wretches. One who did not know our people would suppose that North Carolina was a den of thieves, from reading this circular. How could honest people suffer by such a law? No honest man could complain of it. It was passed to protect honest men against those who violated the laws of God and man, and relieve honest men from taxes. And surely no North Carolinian, residing in that State, re-markable for the general good character, the orderly and correct deportment of its people, can be influenced by such appeals. We pronounce this attempt an unworthy artifice, unbecoming members of Congress, reesenting honest men, as the authors of this circular do, and insulting to the People of North Carolina, who would suffer as little by such laws as any other people

But there is another misrepresentation in the extract last quoted, which either betrays an unpardonable ignorance in those who profess to hold themselves ready to answer "any inquiries which may be asked," shows a wilful departure from the truth. and H. as if they were electioneering among convicts from a penitentiary, ask "How would you feel to see one of your poor but respectable and good neighbor men sold at auction by the sheriff of your county as a slave, under this Harrison law, to some free negro?"
If Gen. Harrison had ever sanctioned a law by which a free negro was authorized to buy a poor and respec-table man, he would deserve, and would receive from us, nothing but the severest censure. Instead of feeling justly proud, as Americans, of his glorious victories in the field over the British and Indian forces, we should blush to hear the name of Harrison. Instead of a long and well-spent life, on the unsullied integrity of his character as a soldier and as a statesman, we good neighbor man." But what is the real state of the case ? In many of the States of the Union there are similar laws, and the idea of a white man being sold to a free negro seems never to have been though of by any one but Messrs. Montgomery and Hawkins.

The law of North Carolina, which many of the members of Assembly in North Carolina voted for, does not contain any clause forbidding a free negro to hire a convict. Like parricide among the Athenians, there was no law to prevent it, for no man, it was thought, could be wicked enough to commit the crime. Will it be said that the members of the Legislature of North Carolina ever voted for a law to sell poor "but respectable neighbor men" as slaves to free negroes? hope not, yet the assertion may be made with as much truth of this law as of the Indiana law. Examine for ourselves the law of North Carolina.

By this law of our own State, which we quote from memory, not having the book before us, it is provided that certain persons who are idle and disorderly in their conduct (not confined to those who are convicted of crimes, as the Indiana law was) should be "hired out," but if such persons were of ill fame, so that he or they could not be hired out for the costs, nor give sufficient security for the same, and his or their future good behavior, in that case, it shall and may be lawful for said Court to cause the offender or offenders to receive thirty-nine lashes on his or their bare back, after which he or they shall be set at liberty, and the costs arising thereon shall become a county charge; which punishment may be inflicted as often as the person may be guilty, allowing twenty days between the punishment and the offence.'

Consult the journals of the Legislature, when the revised statutes were adopted, and learn how many of the supporters of the Administration voted for this law. But to show how careful Gen. Harrison was, as he has always been, of the rights of the poor, we call your attention to the following section of a law of the Ter-

Messrs. Montgomery and Hawkins copied their extract.

We copy the following from page 343, chapter 48, section 9th, of the same book: " No negro, mulatto, or Indian shall at any time

Signed as follows: JESSE B. THOMAS. Speaker of the House of Representatives.

B. CHAMBERS, Approved, September 17, 1807.

WM. HENRY HARRISON.

Now, fellow-citizens we can repeat the words of the circular, and say "we deem comment useless," and will therefore only say, "that on the 17th day of September, 1807, Gen. Wm. Henry Harrison, the then Governor of the Territory of Indiana," (the same man who is the son of Benj. Harrison, a signer of the Declaration of Independence; the same man who was appointed Governor of the Territory of Indiana by Thomas Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence in the year 1803 and in 1806, afterwards by Mr. Madison in 1809, ofter this law had been passed; the same man who fought and con-quered at Tippecanoe and the Thames; the same man whom cut-throats abolitionists, and all horse thieves, hog thieves, housebreakers, and forgers, who do not outh. And yet Messrs. M. and H. in their circular, say, that, unfer this law, poor white men and white women could be "sold by the sheriff, at public auction, as slaves!" Are "slaves" sold for such term of it no as Courts deem rea onable," on conviction for crimes! "As well might it be said apprentices are sold lished such charges against an honest old soldier, and lished such charges against an honest old soldier, and slaves. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent persons being discharged from imit shall be considered expedient to grant such discharge:

"Which motion was decided in the affirmative:

Yeas 20, Nays 12," Among the 12 nays, it seems, the name of Harrison is found. This law seemed in its terms to prescribe that the relation between the parties should be that of latter can come and settle in that State unless he pro " master and apprentice." It only related to those who duce a certificate of his freedom, and enter into bond were "imprisoned." Massrs. Montgomery and Haw- for his good behavior and support. A penalty is imkins have not ventured to say that " neighbor men and neighbor women." under this law, could be sold as slaves. This is only charged as to the Indiana law, which has heretofore been very much misrepresented

The first charge against Gen. Harrison was, that he voted for a law to sell men for debt. In 1821, when ser, from which we copy the following: "I would appeal to the candor of your correspondent to say whether, if there were an individual confined under the circumstances I have mentioned, for whose fate he was interested, he would not gladly see him transferred from the filthy enclosure of a jail, and the still more filthy inhabitants, to the comfortable mansion of some virtuous citizen, whose admonitions would check his vicious propensities, and whose authority over him would be no more than is exercised over thousands of apprentices in our country, and those bound servants which are tolerated in out as well as in every other State in the Union. Fur from advocating the abominable principles attributed to me by your correspondent, I think that imprisonment for debt, under any circumstance but that where fraud is alleged, is at war with the best principles of our Consti-tution, and ought to be abolished.

"I am, sir, your humble servant, "WM. H. HARRISON. In 1836, Gen. Harrison wrote a letter to Mr. Pleasants, relating to this subject, from which we quote the " So fur from being willing to sell men for debts accused of having made, to subject men to sale for the non-payment of their debts, had been successful, I might, from the state of my pecuniary circumstances at the time, have been the first victim. I repeat, the charge is a vile calumny. At no period of my life would I have consented to subject the poor and unfortunate to such a degradation, nor have omitted to exert myself in their behalf, against such an attempt to oppress them. "I am, dear sir, with great respect, Your humble servant,

See Senate Journal, 1st Session, 20th Congress, pa-"It is not a little remarkable, that if the effort I am

"J. H. PLEASANTS, Esq.

Although this charge is not made in the circular, nas been made in many newspapers, and we feel bound to let the whole truth be known to you. Like all the other thousand slanders against Gen. Harrison, the examination redounds to his credit. He was influenced by feelings of humanity in wishing to relieve prisoners from the loathsome vapors of a dungeon, that they might, as apprentices, work out their fines.

Mr. Mason, of Ohio, who is well acquainted with the laws of that State, in a speech recently made by him, very satisfactorily explains this vote. Mr. M

"Sir, I wish now to call your attention to the vote of Gen. Harrison, and the circumstances under which t was given. The attention of the Legislature of O. hio, during its session of 1820-'21, was anxiously directed to the consideration of some plan for the relief of the people, then suffering under a degree of distress and embarrassment unexampled in the history of that State. With a currency depreciated and deranged, the financial resources of the State crippled, and a Treasury exhausted, the people loudly complained of the almost intolerable burden of taxation; they demanded retrenehment and reform in the expenses incident to the administration of the criminal laws of the country. In this posture of public affairs, with a gradually increasing expenditure for the prosecution and punishment of offenders, and a penitentiary crowded with convicts, that had become an annual charge on the Treasury, the Legislature assembled, and undertook to provide a remedy for the grievances complained of by instituting a revision of the entire criminal code of the State. The task was one of great difficulty and labor; but it was accomplished with as much success as was attainable in the then condition of the country. The great object in view was to diminish the public expenditures, in criminal cases, by reducing them to the lowest point consistent with the ends proposed to be secured by the due and proper administration of punitive justice. To effect this, the House of Representatives passed a bill entitled 'An act supplementary to the act for the punishment of certain affences therein named;' and sent it to the Senate for concurrence, Several new provisions were introduced into this bill By it certain offeness which had before been punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary were made punishable by fine and imprisonment in the county jails."

It was this bill "for the punishment of certain offences therein named," which contained the 19th section to which we have just referred. In that 19th section it will be seen as follows: "But nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent persons being discharged from imprisonment according to the provisions of the 37th section of the act to which this is supplementary," &c.

In the "act for the punishment of certain offences therein specified," passed February 11, 1815, (See Chase's Statutes, 2d vol. pages 893, 4, 5, 6, 7,) you pay such fine and costs, order the sheriff or jailer of such county to discharge such person from imprisonment; and the sheriff or jailer, upon receiving such order in writing, shall discharge such person accordingly: Provided, That the commissioners may, at any time thereafter, order and cause to be issued an execu-

The above extracts fully show this, if there was no other evidence. But we quote the following from the laws of Ohio, copied from page 556 of the Statutes of Ohio, vol. 1:

"That no black or mulatto person or persons shall hereafter be permitted to be sworn or give evidence in any court of record, or elsewhere in this State, in any cause depending, or matter of controversy, where either party to the same is a white person, or in any prose-cution which shall be instituted in behalf of this State sgainst any white person."-Passed January 25, 1807. These are the laws now in force in the State of Ohio, in which Gen, Harrison lives. These laws we are authorized to believe met his approbation, and because he wished to punish horse thieves, and hog thieves, burglars, and forgers, in Indiana, to make them work, instead of feeding them out of the taxes paid by honest men, Messrs. M. and H. would persuade you to oppose him, and vote for a man who has allowed negro witnesses to be examined against a white man: and said "there was nothing in the proceedings which required his interference!"

It remains for you to say who is the more worthy of the support of "respectable men." have been, opposed to all imprisonment for debt. have fully answered the unfounded charges of Messrs. Montgomery and Hawkins against Gen. Harrison on

> This circular of Messrs, M. and H. seems to have peen prepared under some delusion. We are at a loss to imagine what could have prompted any one to say that Gen. Harrison had " shut himself up, and refused to be seen by any one but his keepers." Again we are told, "he actually refuses to be seen by, or even spoken to by a poor man." The confiding natures of the authors of this circular have surely induced them to believe all they see in print. There is scarcely a day of his life that Gen. Harrison is not seen and spo-ken to by all who desire it. His generous hospitality is enjoyed by all who visit him. His door has always been open to the poor; "the string of his latch has never been pulled in" when they called on him. Be-fore this circular had reached the hands of William White and others, and Gideon M. Green and others, Gen. Harrison was on his way from his farm to Fort Meigs, at which place, and at Columbus in Ohio, he addressed thousands of People, of poor men, who had known him in peace and in war. The gathering at Fort Meigs, nearly two hundred miles from his home, was estimated at 20,000 or 30,000, good neighbor men, farmers and mechanics—all of whom saw Gen. H. and most of whom must have heard him speak .-Is it not extraordinary, therefore, that when Gen. Harrison had travelled nearly two hundred miles, in unreserved social intercourse with the People, he should be charged with refusing "to be seen by, or even spoken to by a poor man ?" It it not strange that such a man should be thus accused? He whose whole life has been signalized by acts of benevolence and charity; the general who put the weary soldier on his horse while he walked with the army; who, in the severe winter of 1812-'13, slept under a thinner tent than any other person, either offi cer or soldier; who, when "his bedding consisted of single blanket," gave that blanket to a wounded soldier who was his enemy; the general who in battle (aş. is proved by soldiers who were with him) " was where cannon balls and chain-shot flew thick around him; who was in the fight "where balls flew the thickest and where steel met steel the fiercest;" he who partook of the soldiers' fare with "log cabin men," and ate beef roasted before the fire without salt and without bread; he who protected the whole Western frontier and delivered thousands of women and children from the barbarities of British and Indian ferocity combined, he is now slandered and charged with refusing to be seen by or spoken to by a poor man! Oh! shame, where is thy blush! Oh! conscience, where was thy voice? No man who knows Gen. Harrison has ever said or will say he has turned his face away from friend

We think we have shown that this circular is grossly incorrect; that it has shamefully misstated facts: and that none but felons, horse-thieves, burglars, hogthieves, and such locofoco spirits, who steal and wish to be fed at public expense, can object to this Indiana law. which Gen. Harrison approved. We feel confident that in North Carolina, whose people are entitled to the high character they have acquired for honesty and patriotism, this will have as little effect as in any other country in the world.

But, fellow-citizens, we feel bound, from a sense luty, to call your segious attention to other matters more worthy the consideration of patriots than a harmless law which has never been regarded by the people of Indiana with terror or alarm, and which, although it was enacted more than thirty-two years ago, has never inred any man as far as we are informed, and certainly never was complained of before by honest men. It has never been looked upon as a matter of complaint against General Harrison; for both the States of Ohio and Indiana, in 1836, where these stale slanders were repeated, gave him large majorities as their candidate

We allude to the Message of the President and the Report of the Secretary of War. The Secretary of War made a report, at the commencement of the present Congress, to the President of the United States, and the President sent that report to Congress, with his message. Of course the report was read by the President. It was only from this report he could ob-Chase's Statutes, 2d vol. pages 893, 4, 5, 6, 7,) you will find the 37th section here referred to, and which is as follows:

> We give you an extract from this report of the Secretary of War :

"It is proposed to divide the United States into eight military districts, and to organize the militia in each district, so as to have a body of twelve thousand five hundred men in active service, and another of equal number as a reserve. This would give an armed militia force of two hundred thousand men, so drilled and stationed as to be ready to take their places in the ranks in defence of the country, whenever called upon to oppose the enemy or repel the invader. The age of the recruit to be from 20 to 37; the whole term of service to be eight years—four years in the first."

Now let us inquire how these costs and fines are to be collected. We cannot illustrate this more forcibly than by quoting a report from the minority of the Committee on the Militia, reported by Messrs. Triplett, Carter, Goode, and Ridgway. This document is Rep. No. 585, of the present session of Congress:

"Who is to pay the costs of the marshals and deputy marshals who are to be sent out in the several States to collect the fines thus assessed by the court martial? The answer to this inquiry is found in the following extract from the 29th section: That the marshal or in a stronger contempt for your understandings, where we gote the vote is a true statement of facts on record?

The manner of enrolment, the number of days of service, and the rate of compensation, ought to be fixed by law; but the details had better be left subject to regulation—a plan of which I am prepared to submit to port and plan to our consideration. Hear this extract from his message:

"The present condition of the defences of our prin cipal sea-ports and navy yards, as represented by the accompanying report of the Secretary of War, calls for the early and serious attention of Congress; and, as connecting itself intimately with this subject, I cannot recommend too strongly to your consideration THE PLAN submitted by that officer the organization of the militia of the United States." On the 9th of March, the House of Representative passed the following resolution: "Resolved. That the Secretary of War be requested to communicate to this House his plan, in detail, for the reorganization of the militia of the United States." - Here you will observe the Secretary of War speaks of a "plan" ready to be submitted to the President.—

The President, in his message, recommends strongly to the consideration of Congress "THE PLAY" submitted by that officer for the reorganization of the militia of the United States, and the resolution of the House of Representatives calls for his " plan."

A few days after, in March, 1840, the Secretary sends his plan, and to some extracts from this, we invite the attention of all who profess to be republicans Section first provides that every able-bodied citizen of the respective States, between twenty and forty-five years of age, shall be enrolled in the militia; and, also,

this section provides as follows: "That every citizen so enrolled and notified shall. within three months thereafter, provide himself with a good musket, bore of capacity to receive a lead ball of eighteen in the pound, a sufficient bayonet and belt, two spare flints, knapsack, cartridge-box, to contain at least twenty-four cartridges suited to the bore of his musket, and each cartridge to contain a ball and three buck-shot, and a sufficient quantity of powder; or with a good rifle, knapsack, shot-pouch, and powder horn or flask, with sufficient powder for twentyfour charges, and two spare flints, and that he shall appear so armed, accounted, and provided when called out for exercise or into service; and every citizen so enrolled and providing himself with the arms, ammunition, and accoutrements required as aforesaid, shall hold the same exempted from all suits, distresses, executions, or sales for debt, or for the payment of taxes."

The 13th and 14th sections of this "plan" are as

" 13th. That the deficit occasioned by the transfe nnually of one-fourth of the ACTIVE to the RESERVE force, and by the discharge annually of one-fourth of the RESERVE, be yearly supplied by a draught or by valuntary service from the MASS.

"14th. That, for the greater convenience of instruction and discipline of the ACTIVE and SEDENTARY force, the territory of the United States shall be divided into

Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, 9,200 Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticu Fourth District. New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Dist. of Columbia, Virginia, 10,400 Sixth District. North Carolina, S. Carolina, Georgia, Florida, 10,000

Seventh District. Eighth District. Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa. Ninth District. Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Tenth District. Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin,

The following is the 17th section of this plan for subverting the liberties of the country, and we hope you

"17th. That the President of the United States be authorized to call forth and assemble such numbers of the active force of the militia, at such places within their respective districts, and at such times, not exceeding twice, nor - days in the same year, as he may leem necessary; and during such period, including the time when going to and returning from the place of labor any non-commissioned rendezvous, they shall be deemed in the service of the longer time than one month." United States, and be subject to such regulations as the President may think proper to adopt for their instruction, discipline, and improvement in military know-

By this section, the President would have power to semble such numbers, at such places, and at such times, within their respective districts, not exceeding twice in one year, as he may deem necessary! By this section, if Congress should enact such a law, your "good neighbor men" might be forced to march to Florida or Georgia when the President pleased. Would not the President, with a sub-Treasury bank, and with

The 20th section is in the following words "20th. That the militia of the United States, or any portion thereof, when employed in the service of the United States, shall be subject to the same rules and articles of war as the troops of the United States. And that no officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, or private of the militia shall be compelled to serve more than six months after his arrival at the place of rendezvous, in any one year, nor more than in due rotation with every other able-bodied man of the same rank in the regiment."

What these rules and articles of war are we wil

"28th. That every officer, non-commissioned offi cer, artificer, musician, or private of the militia, who shall fail to obey the orders of the United States in the case provided for calling forth the active force, or parts thereof, (in the 17th head,) shall be fined, and forfeit a sum not exceeding three months' pay, nor less than half a month's pay, according to the circumstances of the case, as a court martial may determine; and that every officer, non-commissioned officer, artificer, musician, or private of the militia who shall fail to obey the orders of the President of the United States, in any of the cases cited in the 18th and 19th heads, shall forfor a term of four years, at the discretion of the said for a term of four years, at the discretion of the said court; and such non-commissioned officers and privates shall be liable to be imprisoned, by the sentence of a court martial, on failure of the payment of fines adjudged against them, for one calendar month for every five dollars of such fine."

Now let us inquire how these costs and fines are to ship Vandalia, called and sworn.

marshal of the district, or his deputy, shall communication such delinquent to jail during the term of which shall be so adjudged to imprisonment, or until the shall be paid, in the same manner as oth condemned to fine and imprisonment at the United States may be committed.' From this tion; it appears that delinquent militiamen are to pa the costs. Taking the lowest possible estimate, of the dollars and fifty cents, for the costs of judgment is issuing the execution, let us see what will be the me on a judgment originally for twenty dollars. We the delinquent militiaman lives two hundred as from the place of the court sitting, the marshal's are fixed by law, for every mile he travels, at five in going to levy the execution. This would fees for travelling alone. "Which would make the account stand thus The original judgment Cost of judgment and execution Marshal's fees for travelling 200 miles, at 5 cent per mile -

For serving process of execution

We ask you to pause and reflect upon this mor cheme, and remember that every man who vote Mr. Van Buren will be considered, according to the cofoco doctrine as voting to approve his measures you approve of the scheme? If not, how will you press your disapprobation except at the ballot-box

But this is not all. By the first section each must furnish himself with a musket, balls, knapsed &c. Could this be done at less than twenty della for each man? Are you willing to submit to this or rons tax ? Read the 17th seaction of this "plan;" see the po er to be given to "the President;" see that the me are to "be deemed in the service of the United States see that the soldiers are to "be subject" (hard won' to a Republican ear) "to such regulations as the Pa sident may think proper to adopt for their instruction discipline, and improvement in military knowledge Read the Constitution of the United States, and a the power is not there given to "Congress" he scribe the discipline, "reserving to the States restively the appointment of the officers, and the author ty of training the militia," according to the discisprescribed by Congress." And ask yourselves, ou sanction such a flagrant violation of the Com ution of the United States? Remember then, the 20th section prescribes he militia, when employed in the service of the ted States, (as in the 17th section,) "shall subject to the same rules and articles of war as troops of the United States." Now let us see w In the 4th volume of the laws of the United Sta published by John Bioren and W. John Duane, I sdelphia, and R. C. Weightman, Washington C 1816, you will find " an act for establishing rales; articles for the government of the armies of the list States," approved April 10, 1806. From this act we make a few extracts for your temptuous or disrespectful words against the Pardent of the United States, against the Vice Press thereof, against the Congress of the United States against the Chief Magistrate or Legislature of an the United States in which he may be quartered commissioned officer shall be cashiered, or other punished, as a court martial shall direct; if as sioned officer or soldier, he shall suffere punishment as shall be inflicted on him by the nee of a court martial." "Art. 9. Any officer or soldier who shall strike superior officer, or draw or lift any weapon, or any violence against bim, being in the execution his office, on any pretence whatsoever, or shall debey any lawful command of his superior officer, suffer death, or such other punishment as shall, cording to the nature of his offence, be inflicted a im by the sentence of a court martial.'

[And if negro testimony is admitted on the tri and the President should find nothing in it to "a quire his interference," how easy a matter would e for the negro servants of a superior officer w case and convict a poor white man.]

"Art 41. All non-commissioned diers, who shall be found one mile from the an without leave in writing from their commands icer, shall suffer such punishment as shall be it ed upon them by the sentence of a court-martial. "Art. 42. No officer or soldier shall lie out quarters, garrison or camp, without leave from in perior officer, under penalty of being penished, and ding to the nature of his offence, by the sentent " Art. 67. No garrison or regimental court-ms shall have the power to try capital cases, or com sioned officers, neither shall they inflict a fine ero ing one month's pay, nor imprison nor put to labor any non-commissioned officer or soldier to

This article limits the power of a regimental co martial, but not of a general court-martial. A "ge eral court-martial" could, therefore, under these a cles, put to hard labor a soldier for a longer time to one month. Is not this worse than selling the thief, according to the Indiana law? And man negro witnesses be admitted upon the trial, acco to Lieut Hooe's case ? " Art. 101. The foregoing articles are to be and published once in every six months, to every rison, regiment, troop, or company, mustered or mustered in the service of the United States, are to be duly observed by all officers and soldiers are or shall be in said service." "We repeat, by the 17th section of the plate commended to our consideration by the President militia will be considered in the service of the Us States; and by the 20th section of the same plan, it will "be subject" to the "rules and articles of a as the troops of the United States."

These things require no comment from us. ng we can say can make this "plan" sprear We have alluded to the admission of negro lesses against a white man. We give the facts In the year 1833, a court-martial was held at Pe sacula, before which Mr. Geo. Mason Hove, a mill of Virginia, and a Lieutenant in the Navy was its Two negro witnesses were examined on the trial, of trary to his wishes and remonstrances. The proces-ings were sent to the Secretary of the Navy; he is proved them. Mr. Hooe presented a memorial to President, calling his attention to the fact, that groes had testified against him. The President, the proceedings of the trial were laid before him after he had read Mr. Hoee's respectful memorial dorsed on the papers the following words: "The President finds nothing in the proceed the case of Lieut. Hose which requires his inte
