THE OLEO.

JOHN ADAMS-GEORGE III.

The account that Mr. Adams gave of his introduc on to George III. at the court of St. James, as the ret minister from the rebel Colonies, is very interest-and introduced me to Mr. Frazier, his under secretary, who had been, as his lordship said, minteruptedly in that office through all he changes in the administration for 30 his coach to court. When we arrived in the intechamber, the Master of Ceremonies inroduced him and attended me while the Secretary of State went to take the commands of the King. While I stood in this place, where it seems all ministers stand upon such occasions, always attended by the master of ceremonies, the room was very full of Mincourtiers, as well as the next room, which is the king's bedchamber. You may well suppose I was the focus of all eves. I was relieved, however, from the embarrassment of itby the Swedish and Dutch ministers, who came to me and entertained me in a very agreeable conversation during the whole time. Some other gentlemen whom I had seen before, came to make their compliments to me, until the Marquis of Caermarthen returned, and desired me to go with him to his Majesy. I went with his lordship through the leee room, into the King's closet. The door was shut, and I was left with his Majesty and the Secretary of State alone. I made bree reverences : one at the door, one about half way, and another before the presence, according to the usage established at this and all the northern Courts of Europe; and addressed myself to his majesty in the following words ? "Sire, the United States have appointed ne minister plenipotentiary to your Majesty this letter, which contains the evidence of it. is in obedience to their express commands at I have the honor to assure your majesty their unanimous disposition and desire to altivate the most friendly and liberal feelings fintercourse between your majesty's subjects and their citizens, and of their wishes for your majesty's health and happiness, and that of your family.

"The appointment of a minister from the United States to your majesty's Court will form an epoch in the history of England and America. I think myself more fortunate than all my fellow-citizens, in having the distinguished honor of being the first to stand in your majesty's royal presence in a diplomatic character; and I shall esteem myself the appiest of men if I can be instrumental in anguage, a similar religion, a kindred blood.

LAST HOURS OF THOMAS JEFFERSON. When the morning of that day came he appeared to be thoroughly impressed, as if preter-naturally, that he could not live through less, and at the moment heard an officer, who it, and only expressed a desire that he might survive until mid-day. He seemed perfectly at ease, being willing to die. When the doctor entered his room, he said "Well, doctor, you see I am here yet." His disorder being checked, a friend expressed a hope of amendment. His reply was, that " the powers of nature were too much exhausted to be rallied." On a member of his family observing that he was better, and that the doctor thought so, he listened with evident impatience, and said, "Do not imagine for a moment that I feel the smallest solicitude for the result." He then calmly gave directions for his funeral, expressly forbidding all pomp and parade, when, being answered by a hope that it would be long ere the occasion would require their observance, he asked, with a smile, "Do you think I fear to die ?" A few moments after, he ealled his family and friends around his bed side, and uttered distinctly the following sentence: "I have done for my country and for all mankind, all that I could do, and I now resign my soul without fear to my God, my daughter to my country." These were the last words he articulated-his last solemn declaration to the world-his dying testament, bequeathing his most precious gifts to his God and to his country. All that was heard from him afterwards, was a hurried repetition, in indistinct and scarcely audible accents, of his favorite ejaculation, Nunc, Dimittas Domine. He sunk away imperceptibly, and breathed his last without a struggle or murmur, at ten minutes before 1 o'clock. on the great JUBILEE of American Libertythe day, and hour, too, on which the Declaration of Independence received its final reading, and the day and hour, on which he prayed to Heaven that he might be permit-

MOLLY PITCHER

At the commencement of the battle of Monmouth, this intrepid woman contributed her aid by carrying water from a spring to a battery where her husband was employed as a cannonier, in loading and firing a gun. At length he was shot dead in her presence, just as she was leaving the spring, whereupon she flew to the spot, found her husband liferode up, order off the gun; " for the want of man sufficiently dauntless to supply his place." Indignant at this order, and stung by the remark, she promptly opposed itdemanded the post of her slain husband to avenge his death, flew to the gun, and to the admiration and astonishment of all who saw her, assumed and ably discharged the duties of the vacated post of cannonier, to the end of the battle! For this sterling demonstration of Whig spirit, Washington gave her a lieutenant's commission upon the spot, which Congress afterwards ratified, and granted her a sword, and an epaulette and half pay, as a lieutenant, for life! She wore the epaulette, received the pay, and was called " CAPTAIN Molly" ever afterwards.

LINGO OF WALL STREET.

The Editor of the Philadelphia Gazette writing from New York gives the following account of the unknown tongue of the shinners and kite flyers of Wall Street.

HE Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road is now com pleted and in full operation. This road con nects with the Greensville and Roanoke Rail Road at Gaston, which road unites with the Petersbur Rail Road near Belfield. A continuous line of Rail Road and Steamboat communication is thus formed between Raleigh, N. C. and Boston. Passengers travelling South leave Baltimore at clock, A. M. and arrive at Petersburg at 1 A. M. next morning; leave Petersburg at 2 A. M. and arrive Raleigh at 5 P. M. the same day -making only 32 hours, including stoppages, from Baltimore to Raleigh—338 miles. From Raleigh to the South, there is a daily line of stages running in connection with the Rail Road Cars. To the South West and West, there is a daily line of four horse post coaches, which leave immediately on the arrival of the train, and run via Hillsboro' and Greensboro, to Salisbury -from thence a tri-weekly line via York and Abbeville, S. C. to Milledgeville, Ga. There is also a tri-weekly hack line from Raleigh, via Pittsboro and Ashboro to Salisbury. From Salisbury there is a tri-weekly four horse post coach line via Lincolnton and Rutherfordton to Ashville, and also a tri-weekly hack line from Salisbury, via Statesville and Morganton to Ashville. From Ashville to the Warm Springs there is a four horse post coach line six times a week, and from thence a tri-weekly line via Newport and Dandridge to Knoxville, there is also a semi-weekly line via Greensville to Knoxville. At Greensboro', N. C. a tri-weekly four horse coach line branches off and runs via Salem, N. C. thence across the Blue Ridge to Wythe Court House, Va. where it intersects with the Valley Line. From this line there is also a tri-weekly back line which branches off at Salem, N. C. and runs via Huntsville, Wilkesbore', Jefferson, N. C., Elizabethton and Jonesbore', Tenn. to Knoxville.

It will thus be seen that there are three stage line connecting Tennesses with the central parts of North Carolina, and two, connecting South Carolina and Georgia with North Carolina. All these lines finaly concentrate at Raleigh, the Southern terminus of
