By the works of creation, God speaks to the hearts of those who seek him as distinctas in the revelations of his word; but in both, we must give a serious and continued attention, or the voice which would teach is unheeded. Nature, magnificent and beautiful as she is, does not necessarily inspire devotional feelings; and without our tion to second causes, and have in consehe perfections of their Author.

We may read the history of past ages, or the events and Empires, yet see in them only the effects fhuman power, and forget the secret and allontrolling agency of Him, who rules among use must not be allowed by the parents." he nations and orders all things according to is pleasure. The changes in the condition f individuals, as the sorrows and joys of thers or of ourselves, we may attribute to the influence of human exertion, or to natural causes, and forget that God who appoints every affliction, and gives every good gift .-In order, therefore, to excite or nourish the ove of God, we must attend to his works and his dispensations with a distinct design socia to discover in them some traces of the Divine agency, and to produce those feelings of devotion, they were intended to excite. We should endeavor habitually to associate the hought of God with all that train of wonders and glories, in which he is constantly passing before our eyes. Many of the scenes of nature are seldom beheld without emotion, and these emotions, we may, and ought to make subservient to the love of God. When we look abroad on the adorned face of nature, we should remember Him who hath clothed the fields with verdure, and who ripens the fruits of the earth, and think of the goodness of God, when we listen to the voices of gratitude which rise from his animated creation .-When we mark the sun, as he first spreads his beams on the earth, or watch his slow setting, as he gilds the heavens with his parting radiance, we should remember Him, who daily renews his fires to enlighten and cheer us. Or when, in the solitude of night, we faze on the worlds above us, and behold the moon walking in majesty, and the planets rolling in their courses in order and in si ence, our thoughts should rise to Him who ormed, sustains, and blesses all worlds, and ook forward to the time when these heavens, with all their glories, shall be opened to the mmortal spirit of man. In this way, we should suffer no scene of nature which affects our hearts, to pass by, without connecting with it some thought of the providence and goodness of God. And thus his works would be continally presenting to us his character in a most interesting light, and be the occasious and instruments of exciting our admiration and gratitude, and nonrishing a powerful and permanent devotion.

When an earthly friend has been taken from us, what a peculiar and tender interest cavor to make him continually present to our imagination and our remembrance. We find a melaneholy delight in following him in thought to the unknown scenes of glory on which he has entered. We rejoice in the thought that now he is removed from pain, and trial, and sorrow, and death; we cherish with delight the hope, that though we see his face no more on the earth, he yet is mysteriously present with us, and interested in our welfare. Christians ! such a friend have we in heaven, even Jesus, our hope and our salvation. He hath passed through sufferings for us, and now, his sufferings for us are ended. He has died for us, and now he is enthroned in glory. His interest in us has not ceased, for " he ever liveth to make intercession for us." Shall we not then strive to keep him always in our remembrance, to think of him with grateful and lively affection, to dwell with holy delight on all that he has done, and is now doing for us, and so to live that we may hereafter be raised to

there is a daily line of stages running in connection with the Rail Road Cers. To the Bouth West and West, there is a daily line of four horse post cosches which leave immediately on the arrival of the train and run via Hillsboro' and Greensboro, to Salisbury from thence a tri-weekly line via York and Abba ville, S. C. to Milledgeville, Ga. There is also a tri-weekly back line from Raleigh, via Pittsboro and Ashboro to Salisbury. From Salisbury there is a tri-weekly four horse post coach line via Lincolaton and Rutherfordton to Ashville, and also a tri-weekly. hack line from Salisbury, via Statesville and Morganton to Ashville. From Ashville to the Warm Springs there is a four horse post coach line six times a week, and from thence a tri-weekly line via Newport and Dandridge to Knoxville,—there is also a semi-weekly line via Greensville to Knoxville. At Greensboro', N. C. a tri-weekly four horse coach line branches off and runs via Salem, N. C. thence across the Blue Ridge to Wythe Court House, Va. where it intersects with the Valley Line. From this line there is also a tri-weekly back line which branches off at Salem, N. C. and runs via Huntsville, Wilkesboro', Jefferson, N. C., Elizabethton and Jonesboro Tenn. to Knoxville.

It will thus be seen that there are three stage lines connecting Tennessee with the central parts of North Carolina, and two, connecting South Carolina and ly concentrate at Raleigh, the Southern terminus of Travellers from the upper parts of South Carolina and Georgia, the middle and Eastern portion of Tenressee, the South Western part of Virginia, and the Western part of North Carolina, wishing to go north, will find the route by the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road cheaper and more expeditious than any other.

The following Table will show the distances, the time of travel, and the rates of fare on two of the routes leading from Knoxville to Raleigh, to wit:

From Knozville to Raleigh, by way of Abingdon and Wythe Court House, Virginia. Miles, Hours, Fare Knozville to Blountville, 110 Blountville to Abingdon Abingdon to Wythe Court House, Wythe C. H. to Greensboro' N. C. 118 Greensborough to Ruleigh.

AMILTONIAN SYSTEM,—The French Language taught in Fifty Lessons.—Mr. tiamilton, a native of France, and son of the late author of this system, respectfully announces to the inhabitants of Ruleigh and its vicinity, that he is now eady to meet the classes of Ladies and Gentlemen for the purpose of communicating a knowledge of the above useful and fashionable language. Mr. H. does not deem it necessary to enter into all the details of this system in an advertisement. He has brought with him upwards of twelve letters of introduction to some of the most respectable families in the place. it will therefore be enough to say that on this system such a knowledge of the French Language may be acquired as to enable the pupil to read, pronounce and understand any French author with very nearly the same facility and pleasure as if in English, in twenty four lessons, to write it with grammatical accuracy and to speak it if not with the ency of a Frenchman, at least with correctness and
