DEPEND ON YOUR OWN EXERTION.

This is an excellent principle for the working and trading classes of the community to adopt, but the true philosophy of it is sparcewinderstood. Notwithstanding the many ies that connect a man with society, he nevcribeless has imprinted on his forehead the original doom, that he must be chiefly dependant on his own labor, and exertion for support. It is an uncontrovertible fact founded upon general experience, that where a man trusts his own exertions in life, he gen erally succeeds, if not in amasing a fortune, at least in obtaining a comfortable living. On own interest. But should the same individual find himself suddenly offered a patronage likely to enrich him, or fall into the heritage, or supposed heritage of some antiquated claim to property which he thinks it necessary to prosecute-it is ten to one, that he ceases to be industrious from that moment, and is finally ruined. The only true way to make a happy progress in this world, is to go on in a steady, persevering, pursuit 552 Do on White Oak, adjoining McEachin's, of one good object, neither turning to the listed by Neill McDonald, for 1838, ight nor the left, but making our business 150 Do on Holey Swamp, adjoining Bigg's, our pleasure as much as possible, till we find | listed by Daniel Biggs, for 1838 and 1839, 1 014 ourselves at the goal of our wishes, with a 350 Doon Holey Swamp, adjoining Bigg's, fortune almost unconsciously in our possession. Humanity, kindred friendship, have their claims upon us, which we should al ways consider and look upon with good and proper feelings; but not injure ourselves by giving too freely to relieve the wants of others; we should be just, kind, and affable to all; and endeavor te instit into the minds of others, the same spirit of industry and perseverance that animates us, enjoining them al ways to remember that success in life is more certain of attainment by their own unaided exertions, than by any reliance for assistance from others.

I met a man who had ruined himself by intemperance, and was subsisting on charity, that I knew in Pittsburg in the year 1815, owner of a fine property and store worth 50,000 dollars at that time. The property alone. I have no doubt, would since have brought 150,000 dollars.

I found in the person of a day laborer in one of our foundries, a man who had once owned a large iron establishment in Scotland on the Carron side. He had been involved with others, and had become thereby insolvent. My sympathies were the more strongis excited here from the simple dignity which forhore repining or complaint by the family manifested in the case.

Persons wishing to procure Speciacles, or to have new glasses fitted in old frames, are informed that they can be suited with glasses of different colors and forms, and suited to any age, which he can determine by inspection of their eyes. The glasses which he furnishes, he will warrant to hold their power of vision from five to eight years. From his knowledge of the science of Optics he can determine the glasses soitable for any age. Persons with weak eyes can be supplied with glasses which will greatly benefit them and not strain the eight; also speciacles for near-sighted persons, and those who have been operated upon for a cataract of the eye. He would particularly call the attention of the public to a new sort of glasses and conservers of the sight, made of the best flint and azure glass, and ground perspective. These glasses have been recommended by the most celebrated doctors and professors, as the best in their effects. the other hand, he who depends upon other for his success in life, often finds hunself wofully disappointed. Nothing gives so good an assurance of well doing as the personal activity of a man daily exerted for his that his glasses are made of the best and finest materi al, and that they are ground true and exact. They $3 20 are, therefore, far preferable to the mass of rough, ir regular and unevenly ground glasses that are daily palmed off, and which are very injurious to the eve-Good glasses may be known by their shape, exact centre, and sharp, clear, and highly polished surface.
