THE OBIT.

AN UNTIMELY DEMAND.—A provincial actress was performing the part of Lady Ann, in "King Richard the Third," and on delivering the following passage, "When shall I have rest?" she was answered by her washerwoman from the pit, who exclaimed, "Never, till you pay me my three shillings and two pence."

An auctioneer while engaged in his avocation a few days since, thus exalted the merits a carpet which he was desirous of selling: "Gentlemen and ladies, some people are in the habit of selling carpets for Brussels, which are not Brussels, but I can most positively assure you that this elegant article was made by Mr. Brussels himself."

"Give the devil his dues," as the news-carrier said when he presented his Christmas Address.

It is a rare occurrence in the History of popular Remedies, that any article should be found to maintain a good reputation for twenty years together, and continue to receive fresh testimony in its favour from generations of known intelligence and integrity.

From Dr. E. Marks, President of the Female Institution near Columbia S. C.

BARRANVILLE S. C., June 15, 1840 Dear Sir: I beg leave to offer you my testimony in favor of a medicine calculated to do much good in itself, and to supersede the introduction into families of pernicious quack medicines.

Your Anti-Dyspeptic Pills were prescribed by me for a lady in whose case the usual remedies had failed to afford any relief. The affection came under the class of what is usually called the Dolereus, affecting one or more of the bowels, with severe headache, vomiting, nervous spasms and numbness, the latter to so alarming an extent as to render the patient for some time, insensible to the most stimulating external applications. I directed three or more of your pills to be taken as soon as approaches of a paroxysm were observed, the result was that in every instance timely administered, either warded off the attack, or rendered it very mild. In a few weeks after using the Pills, the patient, from a state of much languor and comparative exhaustion, increased in strength, flesh and spirits, and now enjoys excellent health.

Since witnessing the above cases, I have prescribed your Pills in many cases of derangements of the stomach attended with sympathetic headache—the result has been in every instance favorable. In giving you these facts, I believe I am contributing to the cause of humanity, and do not hesitate to say, that I know of no family medicine more calculated to afford relief in abnormal affection of the stomach, and sympathetic affections thence arising.

I am dear Sir yours &c. E. MARKS.

Dr. J. Beckwith, Raleigh N. C. P. S. I intend to introduce them into our Institution.

From Maj. Samuel McComb. Greenville, Ga. July 7, 1840.

Dear Sir: A simple acknowledgement of benefits is certainly due from those who receive, and but a reasonable return to those who confer them; as such please to receive this letter containing a very brief account of my sufferings, and of the relief I obtained from your Anti-Dyspeptic Pills. When I resided in the Western part of North Carolina, I was long and severely afflicted with a diseased liver, and dyspepsia—my nerves were in a wretched condition, my mind weakened and depressed, with occasional attacks of blindness, pain and lightness in the head, stomach and bowels greatly deranged—alternate costiveness and painful diarrhoea, strength and flesh wasted, so that I was reduced in weight from 195 to 120. In 1834 your Pills were recommended to me and I commenced taking them, three a day, and I continued them for some months before any material change in my health took place. I then began to improve, and I am happy to say that I recovered the tone of my stomach and bowels, and my health, and now weigh 160 lbs. and have as much health, and strength as could be expected in one at the age of 61. I believe I owe my relief from that dreadful disease and lengthening of my days to the use of your pills, for which please to accept my best thanks, and wishes for your happiness.

Respectfully yours &c. SAMUEL MCCOMB.

Dr. JOHN BECKWITH. From Mr. William Irving Hyslop. New York, July 11, 1840. 220 Pearl Street.

My Dear Sir: I have delayed for several months, sending you the acknowledgments which I have felt to be due from me, for the benefits I have received at your hands. I had been in a low state of health nearly two years, suffering from indigestion, palpitation at the heart, headache &c. &c., rendering me extremely nervous, and experiencing all the many changing and distressing symptoms in mind and body attendant upon this malady. I had the advice of several eminent Physicians which I followed without any seeming benefit, and was induced to visit the South, and pass my winters there, with the hope of procuring an amountable life. At Columbus, Georgia, (on my way out,) I met with a friend, who on hearing my complaints, advising me to give Beckwith's Anti-Dyspeptic Pills a fair trial. I resolved to follow his advice, and took four boxes according to the directions. The effect produced was most happy, giving me ease and comfort unknown before for years. And now, sir, I am enjoying health and elasticity of both mind and body, for which you have my most sincere thanks, and the best regard of a friend.

Very truly, W. IRVING HYSLOP. To Dr. J. Beckwith, Raleigh, Nov. 27, 1840.
