will, therefore, -re-open the first Monday in January. At the suggestion of some of her friends, it is proposed to have an Infant School attached to her Estabishment, for the reception of Juvenile Scholars, under the care of her sister, who acquired the system from the founder and patrouess of Infant Schools in this country, Mrs. BETHUNE and from whom, and the most distinguished patrons of Infant Schools, she can bring the most satisfactory testimonials as to Piety, Education and the requisite talent. I mention Piety, for an Infant School, destitute of Piety, is a world without a Sun, or I might say any School. What, can the blind lead the blind? The sacred page will answer the question. Miss MELTSE returns ber heartfelt acknowledgements to those, whose smiles have cheered her on, and made the Stranger feel at home. She is aware that she came here under very discouraging circumstances. Coming as she did, a Missionary to the poor and destitute, many inferred that she could not impart instruction to the rich; not aware, perhaps, that since the North has been aroused to a sense of duty to the destitute in their own land, the highest talent in the country has been enlisted in their service in the spirit of HIM who has said, the poor you have always with you; inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, you have done it unto me. If a Missionary volunteers her services to feach the

Whatever you engage in, you do with all your might ; and what can you engage in, which is more important. than to rescue young immortals from all the horrors attendant upon lives of idleness, ignorance and crime, and prepare them for honor and usefulness. MISS MELISH would also state, that her object is not to make money. She neither wishes nor expects to make a fortune; therefore, she will reduce her prices to as moderate a rate as she can, consistently with taking a limited number.
