A few enormous bison bulls were first observed scouring along the most distant roll of the prairie, and then succeeded long files of single beasts, which, in their turns, were ollowed by a dark mass of bodies, until the functioned herhage of the plain was entirely ost in the deeper hue of their shaggy coats. The herd, as the column spread and thickend, was like the endless flocks of the smaller ords, whose extended flanks are so often een to heave up out of the abyss of the hearens, until they appear as countless as the eaves in those forests, over which they wing heir endless flight. Clouds of dust shot up n little columns from the centre of the mass, a some animal more furious than the rest sloughed the plain with his honors, and, from ime to time, a deep, hollow bellowing was borne along on the wind, as though a thouand throats vented their plaints in a discordant murmuring.

A long and musing silence reigned in the party, as they gazed on this spectacle of wild and peculiar grandeur. It was at length broten by the trapper, who, having been long accustomed to similar sights, felt less of its influence, or rather felt it in a less thrilling and absorbing manner, than those to whom he scene was more novel.

"There go ten thousand oxen in one drove, without keeper or master, except Him who made them, and gave them these open plains for their pasture! Av, it is here that man may see the proofs of his wantonness and folly! Can the proudest Governor in all the States go into his fields, and slaughter a nowith wholesome toil, and earned it according to the law of natur,' by honestly mastering that which the Lord hath put before him ?"

"If the prairie platter is smoking with buffaloe's hump, I answer, no," interrupted the luxurious bee hunter.'

"Ay, boy, you have tasted, and you feel the genuine reasoning of the thing. But the herd is heading a little this way, and it bebooves us to make ready for their visit. If we hide ourselves, altogether, the horned brutes will break through the place and trample us beneath their feet, like so many creeping worms; so we will just put the weak ones apart, and take post, as becomes men and hunters in the van."

Then upeds that had enlivened the broad surface came another of those hollow bellowings of the waste beneath. There was now a from the rear, and set the herd again in moexhibition of animal life, which changed the tion. The head of the column, however, cene, as it were by magic, to the very divided; the immoveable form of the trapper cutting it, as it were, into two gliding streams of life. Middleton and Paul instantly profited by his example, and extended the feeble barrier by a similar exhibition of their own persons.

For a few moments, the new impulse given to the animals in front served to protect the thicket. But, as the body of the herd pressed more and more upon the open line of its defenders, and the dust thickened so as to obscure their persons, there was, at each instant, a renewed danger of the beasts breaking through. It became necessary for the trapper and his companions to become still more and more alert : they were gradually yielding before the headlong multitude, when a furious bull darted by Middleton so near as to brush his person, and, at the next instant, swept through the thicket with the velocity of the wind.

"Close, and die for the ground," shouted the old man, " or a thousand of the devils will be at his heels!"

All their efforts would have proved fruitless, however, against the living torrent, had not Asinus, whose domains had just been so rudely entered, lifted his voice in the midst Flutes and Flageolets, single and double; French Acof the uproar. The most sturdy and furious of the bulls trembled at the alarming and unknown cry, and then each individual brute was seen madly pressing from that very thicket, which the moment before, he had endeavoured to reach with the same sort of seeks the sanctuary.

> A STRANGE PLACE TO DIE. - The coroner of the county (says the Vicksburg Whig.) yesterday morning held an inquest over the dead body of a man found on the roof of Prentiss & Dawson's three story brick row on Levee street. He had evidently been dead some weeks, and his body was horribly mutilated by the birds. Who or what he was is not known. How he got on the roof no one can tell. The most probable surmise we have yet heard is, that he was laboring under some bodily disease, and was also deranged; and ascended from story to story until he found his way to the roof; that there he probably had a fit, and sank down to rise
