"Well my dear, you will see what derangement will be made when she does come.

'I protest, Mr. S. you are always throwing cold water on every thing I do,-but she is very amiable, however, and will do every thing I wish her to do, I know she will.

· But, my dear, she may be very amiable. and yet if she is a woman of liberal education, not be willing to be your nurse."

'Pshaw! she is poor,' said the lady with to stay here on any terms.' What vulgari. ty of feeling under lady-like manners !

"We'll see," said the husband. "When does she come." . Day after to-morrow.'

. What hour will it be necessary to send for her,' inquired the husband.

"Send for her, indeed ! I don't mean to spoil her, I assure you, I will begin as I intend to end.' The end's not far distant, thought the husband.

'But, my dear,' said he ' when you knew the difficulty of getting a conveyance at the landing, I am surprised you did not promise to send for her.'

. Well, why not offer to bring her with you."

' No, not I, indeed, I don't approve of making equals of my domestics," said the lady, with a toss of the head.

"What would your uncle have said to that speech, think you my dear.'

According to the resolution, Mrs. S. went on Thursday to the city, (fourteen miles) passed the very door where the intended governess resided, and allowed her to take the steamer and have all the inconveniences alluded to.

When the governess arrived at the landing, she made enquiries for'a conveyance, but the host of the miserable public house, hearing where she wanted to be taken, said, 'I'm afraid, young woman, you'll find it no very easy matter to get any one to take you there. While the governess was wondering what the man could possibly mean by the last part of his harangue, a wagon drove up. 'l say, neighbor,' 'cried the host, ' here's a young woman going your way, can't you give her a lift? She's willing to pay you, I reckon,' looking inquiringly at the governess.

. Most certainly, I am,' said Josephine, (for that was her name) ' and will feel myself greatly obliged besides.'

. Oh, 'Tom, take her along,' said the hostess, seeing him hesitate,-she's been here nearly all day-she'll pay you for it.'

"Well, Miss, I guess I can take you along." but adroitly said to a companion in the wagon I'll make any of their flesh pay well for it, if I ride them, I tell you,' and Josephine, to her utter amazement, found it cost her four a curl of the lip, 'she will be glad enough times the sum she had anticipated. Not willing to have words with the man, she quietly paid the exorbitant charge.

to show works like these-I rather think they're called to account."

'And what account,' said his grave companion, ' can you give for your extortion to that young lady?'

'Let me alone for that, Sam,-I'll show you thing or two.' A few moments more brought them before the door of a miserable hut .--

Now Sam, I'll show what account I can give of that 'ere small change,' said Tom, handing him the reins and springing from the wagon. ' Here Polly, there's a present for you,' and he opened the cottage door, and handed her the money.

Bless and thank you neighbor, but'-Oh, it's only part of the wages them 'ere S's owe you.

Well, the Lord has softened their hearts to a poor body, in answer to my prayers,' said the poor woman.

' No. no ! they have no hearts to soften. Now Polly, go and get yourself a comfortable mess, and pray for him who gave you the means,-never mind them, they've got gold ; and it's all they want.'

'Ah! Tommy, but gold wont save the soul you know,-and my Master bids me pray for those who injure me. I will always remember them in my prayers. I owe them no grudge. You know, they had the doctor's bill to pay,-they kept my wages back for

"I prefer retiring, Mrs S.' said Josephine. as I am rather fatigued with my jaunt."

"Well,' said the lady, "I will show you your sleeping apartment. Here it is; it is the nursery and school room, here you will have your charge during the day, but you will always have it to yourself at night. You need not trouble yourself. From the Hon. W. C. PRESTON, U. S. Senator. WASHINGTON CITY, July, 1841.

I for some years used Beckwith's Pills in cases o indigestion and dyspeptic headachs, with the most agreeable effects, and having recommended them to many friends, the same results occurred. W. C. PRESTON.

From Hon. BEVIELY TUCKER, Law Professor in

William and Mary College. LEE's SPRINGS, Va. August 7th, 1840.

Sir: An accidental meeting with a friend of yours has determined me to offer you the acknowledgements which I have long felt to be due from me, for the ben efits I have received at your hands. Fourteen years ago I was left by a most malignant fever with a diseased liver, a disordered digestion, and a constitution in ruins. My Physicians permitted me to hope, that with care and prudence I might drag on a few years of precarious existence, and assured me that the least indiscretion must be fatal. Soon afterwards I found myself becoming dyspeptic, and became acquainted with all that indescribable misery which dyspeptics alone can know. This, as usual, grew upon me, tho' less rapidly than in most cases, because a conscious ness of my danger put me on my guard, and experience had made me familiar with the proper management of myself. By the constant use of the most approved remedies, the progress of the disease was retarded, and my life was made tolerable, but not comfortable. I rarely ate two meals in regular succession, and for some hours of almost every day, was incapable of any exercise of thought or feeling. A peevist impatience of existence occupied my whole mind. Two years ago, I met with your Anti-dyspeptic Pills, and confiding in the accompanying certificates of respectable gentlemen whom I happened to know, took them according to directions. The result is that I now eat what I please, do what I please, sleep soundly, and enjoy life as much as any man living. Your young friend, who has been with me a week, will tell you that he has never seen my strength or spirits flag, or my elasticity of mind or body fail for a noment. For this it gives me pleasure to say, you have my thanks, and to add the assurance of my high B. TUCKER. espect. part, of 60

Dr. Peters would impress this fact upon the public, that his Pills are not quack medicine; but a scientific compound of simples, which has been the result of ma- ny years' intense application to a profession in which he was regularly bred; hence it is as popular with the regular faculty as with the people at large. One of the many peculiar virtues of the Vegetable Pills, is, that while very powerful in their effects, they are particularly mild and gentle in their action. Unlike the generality of medicine, their application is never attended with nausea or griping. Peters's Vegetable Pills are now regarded by those who have had an opportunity to decide upon their me- rits, as an inestimable public blessing. Without an exception in any age or country, no me- dicine has spread with such rapidity and given such universal satisfaction. () The above Pills are for sale in the City of Re leigh, by Measrs.
