NATHAN HALE.

The following is the biography of a brave but un. fortunate American. It cannot be teo frequently published in the periodicals of our country. The fate of Hele, it will be observed, was in almost every respect strikingly similar to that of Major Andre. As respects character, qualifications, aud personal interest, Hale would not suffer from a comparison with Andre. Yet strange as it may seem, the fate of Andre, even in VI America has been universally lamented, and his memmory universatly raspected; whilst it is scarcely known To that there was ever such an ardent Revolutionary Patiot as Nathan Hale, who offered his life as a sacrifice to our Liberties.

This celebrated youthful hero, and martyr, 81 of the Revolutionary war, was a native of Coventry in the State of Connecticut. He received his education at Yale College, where he graduated in 1773. The ardent glow of patriotic feeling, and the deep interest which he took' in the cause of his injured countrymen, induced him, at an early period of the revolutionary war, to offer to it his services ; VIRGINIA WELLSBURG LOTTERY, and having obtained a commission, he entered the army in the capacity of Captain in Col. Knowlton's regiment of light infantry. The following narrative exhibits a case analogous to that of Major Andre, and surely while the Americans regret the fate of an enemy, the heroic sufferings of their own brave countrymen should not be forgotten or unlamented. After the defeat the American arms sustained from the British on Long Island, Aug. 27, 1776, General Washington called a council of war, who determined on an immediate retreat to New York. The intention was concealed from the army, who knew not whither they were going, but imagined it was to attack the enemy. The field artillery, tents, baggage, and about nine thousand men were sconveyed to the city of New York, over Esst river, more than a mile wide, in less than thirteen hours, and without the knowledge of the British, thought not six hundred yards distant. Providence in a remarkable manner favoured their retreat. The wind, which seemed to prevent the troops getting over at the appointed hour, afterwards shifted to their wishes; towards morning an extreme thick fog came on, which hovered over Long Island, and, by concealing the Americans enabled them to complete their retreat without interruption, though the day had begun to dawn some time before it was finished. In about half an hour af er the Island was finally abandoned, the fog cleared off, and the British were seen taking possession of the American lines. Perhaps the fate of America was never suspended on a more brittle thread, than previously to this memorable retreat. A spectacle is here presented of an army, destined for the defence of a great continent, driven to Tris the borders of an Island, with a victorious army of double its number, in front, with navigable waters in its rear; constantly liable to have its communication cut off by the enemy's navy, and every moment exposed to an attack. The presence of mind which animated the Commander-in-Chief in this critical situation, the prudeuce with which all the necessary measures were executed, redounded as much or more to his honor, than the most brilliant victories. An army to at the which America looked for safety, preserved; a General who was considered as a host himself, saved for the future necessity of his country ! Had not, however, the circum-Monstances of the night, of the wind and weather been favourable, the plan, however well concerted, must have been defeated. To a good Providence, therefore, are the people of America indebted, for the complete success of an enterprise so important in its consequences. This retreat left the British in complete possession of Long Island. What could be their future operations remained uncertain. To obtain information of their strength, situation, and future movements, was of high and the proof of his object was so clear, that he frankly acknowledged who he was, and what were his views.

Sir William How at once gave an order to the Provost Marshall to execute him the next morning. The order was accordingly executed in a most unfeeling manuer, and by as great a sa- few weeksvage as ever disgrated humanity. A clergyman, whose attendance he desired, was refused him; a bible for a few moments devotion was not procured, although he requested friends, were destroyed : and this very ex-Advertisements, inserted in the SEMI-WEEKLY traordinary reason given by the Provost Mar-REGISTER, will also appear in the WEEKLY Paper shal, " that the rebels should not know they had a man in their army who could die with so much firmness."

Unknown to all around him, without a single friend to offer him the least consolation, thus fell as amiable and worthy a, young man as America could boast, with this, as his dying observation ; that ' he only lamented he had but one life to lose for his country."

From the Hon. W. C. PRESTON. U. S. Senator. WASHINGTON CITY, July, 1841.

I for some years used Beckwith's Pills in cases of indigestion and dyspeptic headachs, with the most agreeable effects, and having recommended them to many friends, the same results occurred.

From Hon. BEVIELY TUCKER, Law Professor in William and Mary College. LEE's SPRINGS, Va. August 7th, 1840.

Sir: An accidental meeting with a friend of yours, has determined me to offer you the acknowledgements which I have long felt to be due from me, for the benefits I have received at your hands. Fourteen years ago I was left by a most malignant fever with a diseased liver, a disordered digestion, and a constitution in ruins. My Physicians permitted me to hope, that with care and prudence I might drag on a few years of precarious existence, and assured me that the least indiscretion must be fatal. Soon afterwards I found myself becoming dyspeptic, and became acquainted with all that indescribable misery which dyspeptics alone can know. This, as usual, grew upon me, tho' less rapidly than in most cases, because a conscious ness of my danger put me on my guard, and experie ce had made me familiar with the proper management of myself. By the constant use of the most approved remedies, the progress of the disease was retarded, and my life was made tolerable, but not comfortable. I rarely ate two meals in regular succession, and for some hours of almost every day, was incapable of any exercise of thought or feeling. A prevish mpatience of existence occupied my whole mind. Two years ago, I met with your Anti-dyspeptie Pills, and confiding in the accompanying certificates of res; ectable gentlemen whom I happened to know, nouncing to his friends and I took them according to directions. The result is, the public at large, that he that I now eat what I please, do what I please, sleep has received from New-York soundly, and enjoy life as much as any man living. and Philadelphia, an exten- Your young friend. who has been with me a week; sive, rich, and fashionable will tell you that he has never seen my strength or stock of Goods, which he spirits flag, or my elasticity of mind or body fail for a will sell at New York prices moment. For this, it gives me pleasure to say, you The assortment consists in have my thanks, and to add the assurance of my high respect. B. TUCKER.

THE wonderful cures effected by this medicine, are the all engrossing subjects of the day. Go where you will, and you hear of nothing but Mr. Sucha One has been cured by Dr. PETERS' VEGETA-BLE PILLS, or, you know Mrs. So-and-So was at the point of death, but she has been cured by Dr. PE-TERS'S PILLS ; or, are you not glad that Miss ----has been restored to health by Dr. PETER'S WONDBOUS MEDICINE.

Really, this medicine must be very good, or it could not cure so many. It is good. For many years it has passed on in the "even, silent tenor of its way," curing hundreds of persons who were wrangling with death. But now its onward course is impetuous

It is as impossible to stay the demand for this medicine, as to hush the rushing wind.

A life medicine that will procrastinate death for many years, shall it not enter every house? Shall it not forth. All should use this remedy, and remember tha health is the first blessing from God.
