THE DOCTOR'S NOTE BOOK.

Among my patients in the village was a very stout gentleman about forty years old, who had been favored with remarkable good (he used to say) as any one in the country, and take my share of a dozen of wine or a show me the man of my weight who can tive to his neck? walk, run, or ride across a county with me.' and it is my determination to blow their example in that respect-

Now, though I am not a clergyman, thought it right to say something to a vain self-sufficient boaster like this who forgot thy soul shall be required of thee; whose hope was a spider's web; soll replied .-The longevity of your parents is, no doubt, in your favour, but do not calculate on that. for many diseases or accidents hay come up-on you. I am certain, that if you indulge in full living so habitually, you will injure your constitution, and lay the foundation of a train of very distressing ailments; I fear you are abusing the gifts of health and strength which God has given you; take heed lest he withdraw them.' 'Pooh,' said he what would as I can, and I'll bet you ten pounds that I shall see half of the parish An their graves before my turn arrives: come fill your glass, Doctor, and don't be creaking; this (looking at a glass of port through the light) is the best physic that a man ever took, and I will never take any other."

Mr. Pine made himself wretched by anticipating evils, and guarding perpetually against maladies with which Providence did not design to afflict him. He still lives, and has attained his seventy-first Eh, Doctor, that makes rather against your year. Mr. Flint, who had been his school fellow, and born in the same year, has been dead for a long time. I shall relate some particulars about him. He was attacked with apoplexy in his fifty-fifth year; I saw him the solemn warning, 'Thou fol, this night quickly, bled him, and prescribed the usual remedies; he was as meek and humble as a sick girl for some days afterwards, as long as the fright of the seizure influenced him, and took medicine readily. He spoke to me too a little of his spiritual state, and cried sometimes when like a child he dwelt upon one or two of his chief sins, and very seriously told me that he would hunt, if God forgave him this time, and prolonged his life, but, twice a week, in order to attend more to his soul; nay, he consented to see the clergyman, who had called at his house that day life be without enjoyment. I'll live as long (as soon as he was a little stronger, he did not do so however) but I found him next morning, endeavouring to attend to a very youthful nephew, whom he had kept from school for the purpose, while the boy read a chapter in the Bible. As the uncle unhappily had no choice, and the nephew no judgment, the portion of scripture chosen for perusal was most inappropriate. Well, doctor,' said he, looking quite pleased with his devotional exercise, 'you see how I have been employed-Johnny, that will do 'till strong frame, besides endangering his soul's health; but I could do nothing in this case, except show by my example that wine I am longing to know, and no one has sent which maketh glad the heart of man, if tak- me any word? DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A SWEET HEART AND WIFE.

This must be an everlastin fine country beyond all doubt, for the folks have nothin to do but to ride about and talk politics. In winter, when the ground is covered with snow. what grand times they have a slayin over these here marshes with the gals, or playin ball on the ice, or going to quiltin frolics, of nice long winter evenings, and then drivin home like mad by moonlight. Natur meant that season on purpose for coortin. A little, tidy, scrumtious-lookin shay, a rale clipper of a horse, a string of bells as long as a string of onions round his neck, and a sprig on his back, looking for all the world like a bunch of apples at gathering time, and a sweetheart alongside, all muffled up to her eyes and lips the one looking right at you, is e'en almost enough to drive one ravin, tarin, distracted mad with pleasure, aint it? And then the dear critters says the bells make such a din, there's no hearin one's self speak; so they put their pretty little mugs close up to your face; and talk, talk, talk, trit one can't help lookin at them instead of the borse, and ther whap you go capsized in a snow drift together, skins, cushions and all. And then to see the little critter shake herself when she gets up, lke a duck landing from a pond, a chatterin away all the time like a canary bird, and you haw-hawing with-pleasure, is fun alive, you may depend. In this way blue nose gets to offer himself a lover before he knows where he is. But when he gets married, he recovers his eye sight in little less than no time. He soon find's he's tree'd; his flint is fixed then you may depend. She larns him how vine- highest prizes. gar is made; ' Put plenty of sugar into the want it real sharp.' The laf is on the other side of his mouth. If his shay gets upsot, its no longer a funny matter, I tell you; he catches it right and left. Her eyes don't look up to him any more, nor her little tongue ring like a bell any longer; but a great big hood covers her head, and a whappin great muff covers her hands, and she looks like a bag old clothes, agoing to the brook to be washed. When they get out, she don't wait any more for him to walk lock and lock with her, but they walk like a horse and cow to water, in each gutter. If there aint a transmogrification, its a pity. The difference between a wife and sweet-heart is near about as great as there is between new and hard cider a man never tires of puttin one to his lip, but makes plaguy wry faces at t'other. It makes me so kinder wamblecropt when I think on it, that I'm afeard to ventur on matrimony at all. I have seen some blue noses most properly bit, you may depend. The marriage yoke is plaguy apt to gall the neck, as the ash bow does the ox in rainy weather, unless it be most particularly well fitted. You've seen woke of cattle that warn't properly mated: they spend more time in pullin agin each other than in pullin the load. Well, that's apt to be the case with them as choose their wives slavin parties, quiltin rolics, and so on,

"DISEASE A UNIT Impurity of the BLOOD the only Disease.

OW simple, yet how wise, how good and beau truth are stamped upon every law of the creation.—
The mighty worlds which roll in space in every degree of velocity and direction are all governed by attraction of matter to matter. This principle governe the human body. Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills, attract all impurities of the blood to the bowels, which organ expels them from the body. At traction and disease are both units. All accidents of infections only affect the body in proportion as they occasion impurity of the blood.

The bowels for instance are costive—this most important organ is closed—the consequence is a great accumulation of impurities, which, as they cannot get out by their usual passage, are forced into the blood, occasioning impurity of blood. Thus Fevers, Chelics, Rheumatism, Coughs, and Colds are often produced. But let Brandreth's Pills be used in such do ses as will effectually evacuate the bowels, and heal
