Directions for Boarding House Keepers. The way to get good boarders and keep them when you have got them, is known in a good many houses in this city, and as there are some unacquainted with the secret, we publish the following rules, for their instruction.

Don't let your boarders fall in love with the cook and waiter at the table. For this purpose, get the nicest specimens of the fair sex for these offices and be careful not to dress them over-nearly.

Never allow your boarders to fuddle themselves with strong coffee. For this purpose, use the following recipe: Six kernels of coffee to a half a gallon of water.

Always put a little oil outside the lamp as well as inside—because, in handling the luminary, the smoothness of the oil is very agreeable to the fingers.

There is a great deal of truth and some poetry in the following article from the Philadelphia Enquirer of Tuesday morning. A blusterer was arrested at one of our principal hotels a day or two ago.

As the dove will clasp its wing to its side, and cover and conceal the arrow that is flying in its vital—so it is the nature of woman to hide the pangs of wounded affection.

The following is a fine passage, but we are unable to name the excellent author; As the dove will clasp its wing to its side, and cover and conceal the arrow that is flying in its vital—so it is the nature of woman to hide the pangs of wounded affection.
