THE Subscriber has sold near four hundred Pianos within the last eight years, and has yet to find out that he has ever sold a bad one—and if perchance he ever should, it would not be suffered to be kept by the purchaser, because he is well aware that the sale of a single bad Piano would do him much injury. LAW SCHOOL IN HARVARD UNIVERSITY.
THE Spring Term of this School will commence on February 22, 1844.

The design of this Institution is to afford a complete course of legal education for gentlemen intended for the Bar in any of the United States, and also systematic course of studies in commercial jurisprudence, for those who intend to devote themselves exclusively to mercantile business and pursuits. The course of instruction for gentlemen intended for the Bar embraces the various branches of Public and Constitutional Law, Admiralty, Maritime, Equity, and Common Law, which are common to all the United States, with occasional illustrations of Foreign Jurisprudence. The course of instruction for gentlemen intended for the mercantile profession is more limited, and embraces the principal branches of Commercial Jurisprudence, to-wit: the Law of Agency, Partnership, of Bailments, of Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes, of Insurance, of Shipping, Navigation, and other Maritime concerns, and of sales, and, if the student desire it, also of Constitutional Law. No public instruction is given in the local or peculiar municipal jurisprudence of any particular State; but the students are assisted by the Professors, as occasion may require, in their private study of the law and practice peculiar to their own States. The active labors of instruction are shared equally by Mr. Justice STORY, who is DANE Professor of Law in the University, and by Mr. GREENLEAF, Royal Professor of Law, who has the immediate direction and superintendence of the Law School.

No examination and no particular course of previous study are necessary for admission; but the student is expected to produce testimonials of a good moral character. He also gives a bond in the sum of $200 to the Steward, with a surety resident in Massachusetts, for the payment of College dues; or deposits, at his election, $150 with the Steward, at the commencement of each term.

Students may enter the school in any stage of their professional studies or mercantile pursuits. But they are advised to enter at the beginning of those studies; rather than at a later period, as the most useful to themselves. They may also elect what particular studies they will pursue.

The fees are at the rates of $50 a term, and $25 for half or any lesser fraction of a term; for which sum, without any additional charge, students have the use of the lecture rooms, the Law Library, containing upwards of $7,500 volumes, the College Library, and the text-books; and they are admitted free to all the public lectures in the University. They may also study any foreign language taught in the University for $10 per annum. The price of board varies from $2 25 to $3 50 per week, and of room rent from 75 cents to $1 25 per week. Fuel, prepared for use, is furnished at cost, by the Steward, if the student desire it.

The Academic year, which commences on the Friday after the fourth Wednesday in August, is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each, with a vacation of six weeks at the end of each term.

All students who have pursued their studies in the Law School for three terms, or eighteen months, or who, after having been admitted to the bar, have pursued their studies in the Law School for one year, are entitled, upon the certificate and recommendation of the Law Faculty, to the degree of Bachelor of Laws (Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 12, 1844. 9—4w

BOMMER MANURE METHOD.
THE UNDERSIGNED are the Proprietors agents for vending rights to individuals for making and using the above named Manure, in North Carolina. All orders addressed to us, post-paid, at Jamestown, N. C. will receive prompt attention.
JOHN SHERWOOD,

The terms on which individual rights can be obtained are as follows:
For a Farm not over 30 acres, $ 6

" " " " 200 " 16
" " " " 300 " 18
" " " " 400 " 20
Over 400 acres in any one farm, 25
Farmers must doubtless be fully convinced of the great advantage to be derived from the prompt process of making manure, on account of the evaporating influence of sun and air, and the leaching and washing of rains, in the exposed condition it is usually found to remain, until a large portion of its most enriching properties are dissipated and entirely lost, to that by the time it is usually considered fit to be applied to land, little remains but a mass of vegetable matter, of comparatively little value in communicating real productiveness to the soil.
It will be seen from the above notice, that a patent has been recently granted for a discovery, by which a complete decomposition of all vegetable substances may be obtained in from fifteen to thirty days, at a trifling expense, thus presenting farmers with the means for greatly increasing the quality and improving the quantity of their manure, from the same amount of vegetable material.

The efficiency of this process, in converting manure, which has, we are told, been used in some parts of Europe, we have satisfactorily proved by one experiment, and of its superior excellence we have no doubt. Neither have we any doubts that every farmer, persevering farmer, who will avail himself of this method, will ultimately find himself more than compensated for his outlay.
