GENIUS AND CONFIDENCE.—He who first laid down the hallowed maxim, that diffidence is the companion of genius, knew very little of the workings of the human heart. True, there may have been a few such instances, and it is probable that in the maxim as in most, the exception made the rule. But what could reconcile genius to its asperities, its sacrifices, its fevered inquietudes, the intense labor which can alone produce what the shallow world deems the giant offspring of a momentary inspiration; what could ever reconcile it to these, but the haughty and unquenchable consciousness of internal power; the hope which has the fullness of certainty that in proportion to the toil is the reward; the sanguine and impetuous anticipation of glory which bursts the boundaries of time and space, and ranges with a prophet's rapture the immeasurable regions of immortality? Robogenius of its confidence, of its lofty self-esteem and you clip the wings of the eagle; you domesticate it, it is true, the wanderer you could not hitherto comprehend, in the narrow bounds of your household affections; you abuse and tame it to the level of your ordinary judgements—the wretched it and petty circumference of your little and common-place moralities—but you take from it the power to soar; the bird-hood which was content to brave the thundercloud, and build its eyrie on the rock, for the proud triumph of rising above its kinds, and contemning with a closer eye the mystery of heaven. Burke.

Squire S. of our village has a very sagacious dog. He sits up like a man in a chair, allows you to put a hat upon his head and a cigar in his mouth; and if any bystander chances to give him a tip or a levy, the dog's owner is the only person who can get it from him again.—West. Reg.

A remarkably sagacious animal, truly, but not so good a financier as the elephant we have heard of who took in money on very trifling deposits!
"That's a very knowing animal, of yours," is he? said a cockney gentleman to the keeper of the elephant in question, "and no similes?"
"Very," was the cool rejoinder, old master!

"He performs strange tricks and antics, does he?" inquired the cockney, eying the animal through his glass. "I'll be cock-nied if he doesn't!"

"Surprise!" reported the keeper. "We've learnt him to put money in that box you see way up there. By him, with a dollar!" If he cock-nied had the elephant a dollar, and were enough he took it in his trunk and placed it in a box high up out of reach.]

"Well, that is very extraordinary—astonishing, truly!" said the green one opening his eyes. "Now let's see him take it out and add it back."

"We never learns him that trick," reported the keeper with a roguish leer, and then turned away to stir up the monkeys and punch the hyenas.

"M. O. Pugnace."

DUELLING.—Two mosquitoes one morning met on a leaf in a garden. Both were filled with the blood drawn from their last nocturnal depredations. They were silent and dumpliy cross and savage. One of them ran out his sting and wiped it on his fore leg. The other thrust out his sting, and pointed it towards the first mosquito. This was considered an insult, and so the offended mosquito stepped up to the other and said:

"Did you turn up your sting at me?"

"I put out my sting—you can apply it as you choose," was the answer.

"Sir, your remark savors of baseness," said the first.

"Hah!" exclaimed the other, "a downright insult! No gentlemanly mosquitoe will submit to such treatment without demanding satisfaction!" Draw, villain and defend yourself!"

They rushed together, and running one another through the body, died horrible deaths.

The King's Evil.—A student of medicine from Boston, while attending lectures in London, observed that "the king's evil" had been but little known in the United States since the Revolution.

Use of Falsehood.—A Jury being directed to bring in a prisoner guilty upon his own confession and plea, returned a Verdict of not guilty, and offered as a reason, that they knew the fellow to be so great a liar that they did not believe him.

Rewards of Merit.—Sam, said one little urchin to another, "Sam, does your school-master ever give you any rewards of merit?"

"I suppose he does" was the reminder.
He gives me a lickin' regularly every day, and says I merits two."

Stupidity.—"I believe the Jury has been inoculated for stupidity," said a lawyer. "That may be," said his opponent, "but the bar is of opinion that you had it in the natural way."

"I understand," said a beano to his neighbor, "that you are becoming a hard drinker." "That's a blunder," replied the other, "for no man can drink easier."

THE FIRST ANNUAL ADDRESS before the two Literary Societies of the University of North Carolina will be delivered by JAMES B. SHEARD, Esq. of Raleigh, (at the solicitation of the Philanthropic Society.)

By order of THE SOCIETY, May 1st, 1844.

TRUST SALE
OF VALUABLE LAND AND SLAVES.

BY virtue of a deed of trust executed to me by Lemuel M. Morgan, on the 12th of March, 1842, duly recorded and registered, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, on the premises, on Friday the 7th. of June next, (the day after the annual commencement of the University,) the valuable Tracts of Land on which the said Lemuel M. Morgan now resides, containing nine hundred and thirty five acres, more or less.
There is no difficulty in pronouncing this to be among the most fertile and valuable tract of land in the county of Orange; and there are in the State few residences combining equal advantages of health, beauty of situation, convenience of good society, and a literary institution of high character. The tract covers within a few hundred yards of the village of Chapel Hill, and includes about four hundred acres of excellent low ground on Boden's creek. The Dwelling House is handsomely situated about a mile from the village, and is, together with a good Barn, Kitchen, Dove-cote, &c. in a good state of repair.

At the same time and place, and for the same purpose, will sell a valuable Negroe Servant, who is an empedered male, and other children.

The Slave, which will probably be accommodating at least in part, will be made known on the day of sale.
The title is undoubted, but of course I convey it trusted only.

TERRELL, TURNER & HUGHES,
Raleigh, March 20, 1844.

MIGHTY IMPORTANT to the WALKING PUBLIC.

THE Subcriber would most respectfully inform the Gentlemen of Raleigh, and the community at large, that he has just received from Philadelphia, French and Crawford's rare Philadelphia Calf Skin, Morocco, Sail and Sole Leather, &c. of the best quality, together with new sets of Boots, Boot Trees, findings, &c. of the most fashionable style, and is every way prepared to make up fine BOOTS and SHOES, as can be made in the United States.

Those who call at my establishment, on Howard Street, next to Mr. W. H. Moore's residence, near the Baptist Church, will, I dare say, come again, as he assures him that his reputation as a finished Boot and Shoe maker is well known to be seen more to state where he may be found. This is the best evidence of his ability to quit all tastes and merit their favor.

In the City of Raleigh.

THE Subcriber wishes to dispose of his Family large Pantry with two closets and a seat.

The Hall House is a large Kitchen, with two
