THE INTREPID JURYMAN.

[Extract from a late publication, entitled, "An Excursion from Sidmouth, in Devonshire, to Chester," by the Rev. Edmund Butler.]

I cannot help congratulating our country upon the inestimable value of trial by Jury; I have lately met with a proof of its excellence, which ought not to be forgotten.

A Judge, on the north-west circuit of Ireland, tried a cause, in which much of the local consequence of a gentleman in the neighborhood was implicated. It was a landlord's prosecution against one of his tenants, for assault and battery, committed on the person of the prosecutor by the defendant, in rescuing his only child, an innocent and beautiful girl, from personal violation. When the defendant was brought into Court, the prosecutor also appeared, and swore to every fact in the indictment. The poor defendant had no lawyer to tell his story—he, however, pleaded his own cause effectually, appealing to the judgment and the heart. The Jury found him not guilty.

The Judge was enraged, and told the Jury they must go back and re-consider the matter; adding, he was astonished at their giving such an infamous verdict. The Jury bowed, went back, in a quarter of an hour returned, when the foreman, a venerable old man, thus addressed the Bench: "My Lord, in compliance with your desire, we went back to our room; but as we found then no reason to alter our opinions on our verdict, we return it to you, in the same words as before—not guilty. We heard your Lordship's reproof; but we do not accept it as properly applying to us. Individually and in our private capacity, it is true, we are insignificant men; we claim nothing out of this box, above the common regard due to our humble, yet honest stations; but, my Lord, assembled here as a Jury, we cannot be insensible of the great importance of the office we now sustain.

We feel that we are appointed, as you are, by the Law and the Constitution, not only to act impartially between the King and his subjects, the offender and the offended, but to form the barrier of the people against the possible influence, prejudice or corruption of the Bench, to which we do not wish to offer the smallest degree of disrespect, much less of insult; we pay it the respect which one tribunal should pay to another, for the common honor of both. This Jury did not accuse the Bench of partiality or oppression—no, we looked upon it as the sanctity of truth and justice; still, my Lord, we cannot erase from our minds the words of our school books. By them we are taught, that Kings and Judges are but fallible mortals; and that the seats of Justice have been polluted by a Trepanian, a Scroggs, and a Jeffreys." The Judge frowned at these words, but the intrepid Juror proceeded: "My Lord, I am but a poor man, yet I am a free born subject, and a member of the Constitution—nay, I am now higher, for I am one of its representatives; therefore, claim for myself and fellow-jurors, liberty of speech."

The Judge here resumed his complacency, and the orator continued his address: "We have nothing to do, my Lord, with your private character in this place, it is veiled by your official one; we know you here only in that of a Judge, and as such we would respect you; you know nothing of us but as a Jury, and in that situation we look to you for reciprocal respect, because we know of no man, however high his title for his rank, in whom the law of the Constitution would warrant an unprovoked insult towards that tribunal in which they have vested the dearest privileges they possess. We sit here, my Lord, sworn to give a verdict according to our consciences, and the best of our judgments, on the evidence before us.

We have, in our minds, discharged our duty as honest men. If we have erred, we are accountable, not to your lordship, nor to the King who appointed you, but to a higher power, the KING of Kings." The Bench was dumb, the Bar silent; astonishment and applause murmured through the crowd, and the poor man was discharged.

"Mr. Cobb, I'm sorry to see you in this condition. You are, eh?—well I ain't; I'm torn'd, just as you ought to be."

VALUABLE LAND FOR SALE, THE Subscriber, being determined to migrate to the South or West, proposes to sell on very easy terms the Tract of LAND on which he now lives, containing four hundred and thirty acres. The Tract lies in Nash County, within one mile of the Franklin line, adjoining the lands of Gustin Perry, William B. Williams and others. The land is well adapted to the culture of Cotton, Corn and Tobacco, having sufficient cleared land on it to work ten hands to advantage; nearly 300 acres lie in woods which is of the very best quality, there being about one hundred acres of Ten River low grounds, very fertile, and lying in ridges, so that the bottoms only are subjected to be destroyed by inundations, which is not very often; most of the cleared land is fresh, and the plantation in good repair, well watered, and the buildings comfortable. But the best of all yet; a very valuable GOLD MINE has recently been discovered on the premises, by a very experienced miner; and I have obtained in a pan particles weighing from four to twenty-one grains, and many smaller ones in any branch of the Tract, and yet the Subscriber will sell low and give good time. He will either take Negroes, sell on a credit of one, two, and three years with good security, or he will exchange with any gentleman who owns land in either Alabama, Tennessee, (Western District) Missouri, Arkansas, Florida or Texas. Come and see for yourselves.

TO COUNTRY MERCHANTS, THOMAS AND CHARLES ELLIS, Importers of Dry Goods, Hardware, Cutlery and Glass;

106 MAIN STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

RESPECTFULLY inform the Merchants of North Carolina, that they are now about receiving, direct from England, by the Ships "Rob Roy," "Richard Anderson" and others, the most beautiful Assortment of HARDWARE, CUTLERY & DRY GOODS, ever before offered in this market.

They now have made extensive arrangements for importing all their Foreign Goods direct to James Rickey. They are all purchased in England for Cash, during the dull seasons there, when the Markets are depressed. As they import all their own goods, and have no recourse to Northern Markets for their supplies, they have both the Importer's and Jobber's profit, and can therefore sell very low indeed to good and punctual customers. They are well aware that a strong prejudice exists against Richmond; but they pledge themselves to sell as low, and be content with as small profit, as any respectable Importing House North, and beg the public to call and examine their Stock throughout, as it contains every article usually sold by Hardware and Dry Goodsmen.

Short-horned Durham and North-Durham Cattle—The Subscriber has the above stock of Cattle for sale, among which are from 15 to 20 Devon Cows, in calf by a fine half Devon and half Durham Bull.

Also, several fine Devon Heifers, some in calf. Also, 2 Devor Bulls, now fit for service.

Also, 8 or 10 very fine half Durham and half Devor Bull Calves, got by one of the finest Durham Bulls ever raised in the United States. His ancestors, on both sides, have taken the first premiums for Milk, Butter, heavy size, &c. at the Cattle shows at the North. I have certificates in my possession to prove these facts, ready for the inspection of any person who may wish to see them. The price of the above Cattle will be very cheap—cheaper than you can buy them at the North, and there is no risk to run in their being acclimated. They will be ready to deliver in November next, that being the best time to remove them. The Bull Calves will be fit for service in May or June next. The price of the Bulls will not exceed $50 dollars each. The Cows in calf, and Heifers, will be less, say from $25 to $30 each. I have been improving my stock of cattle for 15 years, and think I now have, in the Devor and Durham, the best stock of Cattle for the practical farmer in America. And while my neighbors have been selling their Cows and Calves for 10 or $12, I have been selling (to good judges) my half Devon Cows and Calves for 25 to $30. Col. Yarborough, Proprietor of the Eagle Hotel, Raleigh, N. C. has purchased half Devor Cows of me, and can inform those, who may wish to know, as to their milking properties, &c.
