

THE WORLD FOR SALE.

The world for sale—hang out the sign, Call every traveller here to me; Who'll buy this brave estate of mine, And set my weary spirit free?

The going !—yes, I mean to fling
The bauble from my soul away:
I'll sell it, whatsoe'er it bring—
The world at anction here to-day?

It is a glatious thing to see ; .

Ab, it has cheated nie so sore It is not what it seems to be! For sale ! It simil be mine no more: Come, turn it over and view it well ; I would not have you purchase dear:
"Tis going—going!—I must sell!
Who bids? who'll buy the splendid tear?

Here's wealth in glitterring heaps of gold; - Who hids !- but let me tell you fair, baser lot was never sold: Who'll buy the heavy heaps of care? And here, spread out in broad domain,
A goodly landscape all may trace—
Hall, cottage, tree, field, hill and plain—
Who'll buy himself a burial place?

Here's love, the dreamy potent spell That beauty flings around the heart; I know its power, alas! too well; "Tis going !-going !-Love and I must part, Must part! what can I more with Love? All over the enchanter's reign: Who'll buy the plume'ess, dying dove-

And Friendship—the rarest gem of earth— Whoe'er has found the jewel his? Frail, false, and fickle, little worth : Who bids for friendship—as she is !
Tis going—going!—hear the call:
Once, twice, and thrice!—'tis very low, Twas once my hope, my stay, my all; But now, the broken staff must go!

Fame! held the brilliant me:eor high; How dazzling every gilded name! Ye millions, now's the time to buy. How much for fame? How much for fame? Hear how it thunders !- would you stand On high Olympus, far renowned? Now purchase, and a world command!

And be with a world's curses crowned!

Sweet star of Hope! with ray to shine In every sad foreboding breast, Save this despending one of mine; Who bids for man's last friend and best Ah, were net mine a bankrupt-life, This treasure should my soul sustain; But Hope and I are now at strife. Nor ever may unite again.

Ambifion! Fashion! Show and Pride! I part from all forever now;
Grief, in an overwhelming tide,
Has taught my haughty heart to bow.
By Death! stern sheriff, all bereft, I weep, yet humbly kiss the rod; The best of all I still have Jeft-My Futh, my Bible, and my Gon.

SINGULAR OLD SONNET. The longer life, the more offence; The more offence, the greater pain ; The greater pain, the less defence; The less defence, the lesser gain-The loss of gain long ill doth try, Wherefore, come death, and let me die !

The shorter life, less count I find : The less account the sooner made; The count soon made, the merrier mind : The merrier mind doth thought invade-Short life, in truth, this thing doth try, Wherefore, come death, and let me die!

Come, gentle death, the ebb of care ; The ebb of care, the flood of life; The flood of life, the joyful fare; The joyful fare the end of strife ; The end of strife, that thing wish I, Wherefore, come death, and let me die !

[From the Temperance Advocate.] A WIFE WORTH HAVING.

The distinguished William Wirt, within six or eight months after his first marriage, became addicted to intemperance, the effeet of which operated strongly upon the mind and health of his wife, and in a few months more she was numbered with the dead. Her death led him to leave the country where he resided, and move to Richmond, where he soon rose to distinction .-But his habits hung about him, and occasionally be was found in jully and froligsome spirits in bachanalian revelry. His true friends expostulated with him, to convince him of the injury he was doing himself. But he still persisted. His practice began to fall off, and many looked upon him as on the sure road to ruin. He was advised to get married, with a view of correct- ture orders for all articles in their fine of business. ing his habits. This he consented to do, if the right person offered. He accordingly paid his addresses to a Miss Gamble. After some months' attentions, he asked her hand in marriage. She replied: your intentions for some time back, and should have given you to understand that your visits and attentions were not acceptable, had I not reciprocated the affection which you evinced for me. But I cannot yield my assent until you make a pledge

This reply to Mr. Wirt was as unexpected as it was novel. His reply was, that he regarded the proposition as a bar to all further consideration on the subject, and left pril Term, 1845. her. Her course to him ever-his, resentment and neglect: In the again solicited her hand. But her reply was ber mind was made up. He became indigneat and regarded the terms proposed as inthe fast meeting they should ever have.—
He took to drinking worse and worse, and seemed to run headlong into ruin.

Our day, while lying in the outskirts of the city, near a little grocery or grog-shop, dead drunk, a young lady, who it is not necrassry to made, in passing that way to her lume, not far off, heheld from with his face upturned to the rays of a scorebing sun. She took her handkerchief, with her own name marked upon it, and placed it over his face. After he had remained in that way for some hours, he was awakened, and his thirst being so great, he went into the little grocery or grog-shop to get a drink, when he discovered the handkerchief, which he looked at, and the name that was on it. After pausing a few minutes, he exclaimed :-

Who placed it on my face?" No one knew. He dropped his glass, exclaiming : " Enough! enough!" He retired instantly from the grocery, forgelting his thirst, but not the debauch, the handkerchief or the lady-vowing, if God gave him strength, never to touch, taste or handle intoxicating drinks.

To meet Miss G. was the hardest effort of his life. If he met her in her carriage or on foot, he would dodge the nearest corner She at last addressed him a note under her own hand, inviting him to the house, which he finally gathered courage enough to accept. He told her if she bore affection for him, he would agree to her own terms. Her reply was:-

" My conditions now are what they ever bate been."

"Then," said the disenthralled Wirt," "1 accept them."

They were soon married, and from that day he kept his word, and his affairs brightened, while honors and glory gathered thick upon his brow. His name has been enrolled high in the temple of fame, while his deeds, his patriotism and renown, live after him with imperishable lastre. How many noble minds might the young ladies save, if they would follow the example of the heroinehearted Miss G., the friend of humanity, of her country, and the relative of La Fayette.

Save your Corn Cobs & Shucks. TO THE PLANTERS AND MIL-

LERS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

THE undersigned has obtained Letters Patent to enable common Mill stones (or rocks) now n use, to grind CORN, COB and SHUCK. into meal, for Horses, Mules, Cattle Hogs, &c. thereby saving more than one third of a crop, which is an important item with planters. The machinery used for the above purpose is simple and durable, and cannot, with fair means, get out of order. It will last as long as the Stones last, with an expense of 50 cents every five years. To enable the common Mill Stones to grind ear corn into meal, requires no new buildinge or extra power. It can also be applied to Horse Mills, Treshing Machines, Gins or any given power known. The same Mill will grind one-third more of Corn meal by the introduction of this Machinery, and can be changed from grinding Corn and Cob, to grinding Corn Meal in the space of thirty seconds .-Corn alone, when fed to stock, is said to be by the most practical and scientific Planters, constipating in its effects, producing founders, cholics and various other maladies which are incident to stock. Grinding cons with the Corn, makes a food congenial with their nature, and cannot produce any of the serious results above mentioned. Stock, when fed on Corn exclusively, are deprived of the benefits of distension (so necessary to the proper health of animals,) by their being unable to eat a sufficient bulk to produce distension before the animal becomes gorged. Cobs ground with the corn, produce this necessary distension, without any danger of diseases arising from overeating. Corn and cob meal is improved by scalding, and still more by boiling, and yet more by a partial fermentation. All the preparations facilitate eat fermented food, consequently they will require it dry or partially wet with cold water Horses, Mules and Oxen, when fed with unground food, void much in an undigested state, which is of course lost for all beneficia purposes.—() Read the subjoined cerand all calls will be attended to punctually and with despatch by himself or Agent

CERTIFICATE. Having been solicized by Maj Collins to have my Mitt adjusted to grind Corn in the Ear and Sheck, I consented that he should do so as an experiment; and am able to say that it grinds Corn in the Shuck at the rate of 80 bushels per hour; and the dressing of the stones is so improved, that it grinds shelled Corn more than twice as fast as before, and by my waich, at the rate of 15 bushels per hour, and the meal finer than usual. I deem it a valuable improvement, and shell purchase the right to use it, at it will afford me a speedy way of feeding my horses and cattle, and save much thereby. WM. BOYLAN.

MORE PLOUGHS. UST received a new supply of Richmond Self Sharpening, (having sold the first lot entirely out.) All we ask, is that our Farmers would try them, as in every instance heard from, they are highly approved of, and must come into general use, if either time or money is worth saving JAMES M.
