

CONDITIONS

The FEDERAL REPUBLICAN is published every Saturday by S. HALL, at three Dollars per annum, payable half yearly in advance.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted conspicuously at 50 cents per square for the first insertion, and 25 for each insertion after.

All Advertisements will be continued, until otherwise ordered, & each continuance charged.

No Paper will be discontinued until all arrearages are paid.

Newbern Prices Current. CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Table with columns: MERCHANDIZE, From To, and prices for various goods like Bacon, Beef, Butter, etc.

THOMAS WATSON, NEWBERN.

HAS just received a large assortment of those justly esteemed and highly approved MEDICINES.

Prepared by W. T. Conway, No. 1 Hamilton Place, Common-street, Boston

The following respectable testimonials may serve to prove the surprising and singular efficacy of Dr. Relf's Botanical Drops. These drops are a radical cure for Scoury, Scrofula, St. Anthony's Fire, Leprosy, Pimpled Faces, Sore Legs, Ulcers, Venereal Taints when Mercury has failed, are the best Spring and Autumnal physic, and may be given to children with perfect safety.

Dr. Relf's Botanical Drops. Observe that none are genuine unless signed "W. T. Conway".

SETH BRADFORD!! Shipwright, of Medford, was 12 years afflicted with a severely painful ulcerated leg, had tried every Medicine in vain, was resigned as past relief, when to the surprise of every one, was cured by taking the Drops.

WILLIAM PAYSON!! Of Gooch Lane, Boston, was 4 years afflicted with 5 holes through his foot, (fever sores) had his foot opened twice and the bone scraped by an eminent surgeon: at length resigned as past relief, (his leg condemned to amputation) his death daily expected, when to the astonishment of every one, on taking these drops, in 10 days his health was restored, 48 pieces of bone came away, his foot healed, and after going 4 years on crutches is now running about free from lameness.

AFFIDAVIT. Solomon Butterfield, of Chesterfield, maketh oath and saith, that his son Oliver 3 years afflicted with eruptions in his legs and different parts of his body, when after trying all other medicines in vain, was cured by 3 bottles of Dr. Relf's Botanical Drops alone, without the assistance of any other medicine.

Signed SETH BRADFORD, Moses Warner, Witness.—Oct. 12, 1816.

CERTIFICATE! I Phylora Bliss, of Lebanon, County, Windham, Con. do hereby certify, that he was for a considerable time most horribly afflicted with an extreme scrofulous complaint, when after having tried almost every medicine in vain, and the advice of the most able physicians, had recourse to Dr. Relf's Botanical Drops, when to my utter astonishment, I was almost instantaneously relieved.

Signed PLYTHORA BLISS, Witness Dyer & Howes, Windham, con.

Dr. Relf's Asthmatic Pills!!

These Pills give instant ease in Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Wheezing, difficulty of breathing, tightness in the chest, pain in the side, spitting of blood, chilliness and shivering, the forerunners of fevers, &c. common colds are removed in a few hours. The aged will experience relief equally agreeable and instantaneous, even when the lungs are affected.

MR. STETSON! Of Hanover, was 9 years afflicted with violent pains in his right breast, attended at times with great difficulty of breathing, and wholly incapable of business, after having tried all other medicine in vain was cured and his health perfectly restored by 2 boxes of these pills.

A YOUNG LADY! Near Green-Street, Boston, was 3 years afflicted with Consumption, had tried almost every medicine and medical assistance without relief, when resigned as past relief, not able to sit up, much debilitated by want of sleep, perpetual palpitations and pain in the side, she had recourse to "Dr. Relf's Asthmatic Pills," when to the surprise of every one, she was restored to perfect health in 14 days.

A Gentleman of Charlestown, Was severely afflicted with an Asthma 4 years, and for the last six months his death was daily expected, when to the surprise of every one, on taking only 2 boxes of these pills his health was perfectly restored.

Dr. Jebb's Liniment! For Rheumatism, Bruises, Sprains, Chilblains, Numbness, stiffness in the joints, &c. The relief is immediate and cures frequently in 24 hours, although of years standing and thought incurable!

Mr. Jacob Hildreth of Amherst, N. H. was many years afflicted with violent rheumatism, and as he advanced in years at times was wholly incapacitated for business, when through recommendation, after trying all other medicines in vain, was cured by using only one bottle of this Liniment, and has had no relapse; it is now three years since—he was considered incurable! This is published at his request.

Dr. Relf's Aromatic Pills. For Female obstructions, &c. and are equally conducive to the health of married ladies unless when pregnant, at which time they must not be taken.

Dr. Relf's Antibilious Pills. For Indigestion, loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Head Ache, Costiveness, Flatulence, Cholick, Bilious Affections, &c.

Dr. Relf's Vegetable peptic. A certain and expeditious cure for Sick Head Ache, Bilious Affections, &c.

Dumfries' Ointment. A certain, safe and expeditious cure for the Itch, however inveterate, in an hour's application, may be used by the most delicate pregnant female, or on children at the breast.

Dumfries Lotion. A cure for the Itch without smell.

British Antiseptic Dentifrice. The Tooth Ache is not only prevented by the Dentifrice but renders discoloured teeth beautifully white, removes the cause of fetor arising from decayed teeth imparts to the gums, the efflorescence of health, and to the breath the most delectable sweetness.

Albion Corn Plaster. This Plaster afford instant relief, at the same time it dissolves and draws the corn out by the root, without the least pain.

Cambrian Tooth-Ache Pills. These Pills afford immediate relief with out the least injury to the Teeth.

Dr. Hunter's Pills, Dr. Hunter's Injection Powders & Dr. Hunter's Cerate.

For the Prevention and Cure of the Venereal Disease, however inveterate, in all its various stages, and even when Mercury has failed—full directions, and description of symptoms, so that any one may cure themselves with secrecy.

The whole of the above Medicines are prepared and sold wholesale, by the sole proprietor, W. T. Conway, No. 1. Hamilton Place, Common street, Boston, and retailed by W. Peck, Raleigh, Hill, Warren, Baltimore, Jordan, Philadelphia, John Tiebout, No. 238, Water-street, N. York, Coffin, Post Master, Hudson and most of the Druggists, Booksellers and Post Masters throughout the U. States.

Pamphlets of many extraordinary cures may be had at the agent's gratis.

None of the above are genuine, unless signed "W. T. Conway," as you value health observe this.

A large discount to Country Traders, those who buy, to sell again.

Jan. 11, 1817.—12m

The Washington Monument Lottery.

THIRD CLASS, Will positively commence drawing in the City of Baltimore on Monday 28th next Month, (July) and will be completed in thirty five days Drawing.

The Scheme contains Three Prizes of 20,000 Dollars each Four Prizes of 10,000 Dollars each Five Prizes of 5,000 Dollars each Twenty Prizes of 1,000 Dollars each And a large proportion of 500's 200's &c. &c. and less than two blanks to a prize.

The first Drawn Number will be entitled to a prize of Five Thousand Dollars The first drawn five thousand Blanks, will each be entitled to a prize of twelve Dollars; thus the early purchasers will have the chance for drawing any of the great floating capital prizes with out any risk for that time.

Tickets (at the original price) $10 Halves 5 Quarters 2 50

For Sale at G. & R. WAITES

Old established and truly fortunate Lottery and Exchange Office, corner of St. Pauls Lane, and Market Street, Baltimore;

Where was sold in the late Lottery, the following Splendid Capital Prizes viz.

- No. 38,706 Drawn 35,000 Dollars in a half quarter and two eights; 20,655 Drawn 10,000 Dollars in a whole ticket; 857 Drawn 5,000 Dollars in four quarters; 1,128 Drawn 2,000 Dollars in a whole ticket; 12,513 Drawn 1,000 Dollars in a half and two quarters; 31,258 Drawn 1,000 Dollars in a whole number;

And in former Lotteries, G. & R. Waite have sold the following, viz.

- 1 Prize of 60,000 Dollars; 1 do. of 40,000 Dollars; 3 do. of 30,000 Dollars; 10 do. of 20,000 Dollars; 2 do. of 15,000 Dollars; 2 do. of 12,000 Dollars; 12 do. of 10,000 Dollars; and a very large proportion of Prizes of $ 8000 $7000 $6000 $5000 &c. &c.

TAKE NOTICE. Waite's Lottery Register and Weekly Messenger, will be published in Baltimore every saturday; it will contain the complete list of the drawing of the Blanks and Prizes in the Washington Monument Lottery, 3rd Class; and of such other Lotteries of Note, that may hereafter draw; the rates of exchange on the Bank Notes of the different States; the rates of exchange on Foreign and Inland Bills; together with such articles of Foreign and Domestic Intelligence, as may be deemed useful.

The price to Subscribers will be two dollars a year, payable in advance.—Companies and Individuals who purchase ten tickets, will have it forwarded gratis—It will be necessary that all, who wish a complete list of the drawing, should forward on their address by the day the lottery commences (28th next month).—Orders for tickets from any part of the Union (Post paid) addressed to G. & R. Waite, Baltimore, will be promptly attended to and the earliest information forwarded of the success of the tickets when drawn.

20 DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN-AWAY from the Subscriber on Sunday the 13th inst. a light Mulatto man, Named JOHN and sometimes calls himself JOHN MARSHALL, a carpenter by Trade, he formerly belonged to John R. Leigh and was sold to me by Thomas Guion of Tarborough.

I will give the above reward to any person who will secure the said fellow in jail so that I get him again, and I will also pay the above sum with any reasonable charges for his delivery to me at this place.

Thomas Marks, Tarborough, July 28.—5t

Image of a man running.

NOTICE.

ALL persons having any Claims against the Rope Walk in Newbern, are desired to bring the same in for payment, to JOHN HARVEY & SON of Newbern, & all those indebted to the said Walk, are desired to pay the same to John Harvey & Son, as the business in future will be carried on by them.

Jn'o. Harvey, Ew'd. C. King, July 26, 1817.—3t 48.

State of North-Carolina CRAVEN COUNTY.

In Equity. John B. Griffin & others the heirs at Law of Moses Griffin Dec'd. vs Major Griffin & others the Heirs of Moses Griffin Dec'd.

Decree for Sale and partition.

UNDER a decree made in the above cause at the late April term will be sold at 12 o'clock on Saturday the 23rd day of August next at the Court House in Newbern, a piece of Land or part of a Lot of ground situate in the Town of Newbern, at the South West intersection of Middle and Pollock Streets, extending on middle street one hundred and seven feet three inches and on Pollock Street seventy seven feet, being part of the lot known in the plan of the Town of Newbern, by No. 77.

TERMS OF SALE. Purchase money payable in three equal installments at 6, 12 and 18 months—interest from the time of purchase—secured by bond with at least two sureties.

EDW'D. GRAHAM—C. M. E. C. C. July 26. 1817.—5w.

FRANCIS L. DAWSON

INFORMS his friends and the Public, that he has commenced the SAILMAKING business, in that well known brick Building on Messrs. Devereux & Chesters Wharf, and is prepared to execute all kinds of work in the line of his profession. He hopes by strict attention to business, to merit a share of his friends and the public's support.

All orders will be thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Newbern, July 5 1817.

Domestic Slavery.

The following piece is published at the request of some of our friends in this State. It is extracted from the Christian Monitor, printed in Richmond, Va.—We are pleased to see the spirit of inquiry into this important subject extending itself in the southern section of the Union—a subject which, however delicate the investigation, involves questions of so much importance, and so highly affecting the vital interests of the white population, that we deem a public investigation highly necessary. We see no cause why the inquiry should be delayed—the subject must, ere long be more fully considered and understood by the great body of the people than it is now, and the present calm affords a fair opportunity, which, if suffered to pass, may not return for years—and in the mean time the increasing number of slaves is daily becoming more alarming.

If we consider man, in a state of nature, or as a solitary being, we find him in the possession of absolute liberty,—the world is his property, and his will is his law. But we may safely conclude that this condition could not have lasted long. Formed for society, his interest and his inclination, must very soon have suggested the formation of communities.

After the institution of civil society, we must consider the condition of man as materially changed. In the former case, we behold independent beings, subject to no subordination or control, but, at the same time, destitute of protection or assistance from others. In the latter, we find rational creatures, associating together, to promote the happiness of all;—to secure the weak, from the aggressions of the powerful; to lessen the miseries, which are incident to their nature; and, for these purposes, dividing the common burdens, and forming themselves into grades, according to their respective capacities, and spheres of usefulness. These seem to have been the primary objects, which drew men into regular societies;—which gave rise to governments, to constitutions, &c. to laws. The independent being, on entering into the social compact, must put his happiness and interest into a common stock.—He must give up the liberty of injuring his fellows. He must not seek an interest altogether separate from that of the rest of mankind. And his services to the community must be in proportion to his means of being useful.—And the community is bound to regard and promote his interest & happiness in return. But avarice and ambition, very soon extended their influence over human actions; the fatal consequences of which have been, a disregard of these primary objects,—the perversion of talents and the abuse of power,—while the wealth and aggrandizement of a few, have been sufficient inducements to sacrifice the lives and liberties of communities at large. Thus the barriers of constitutional restraint, though self imposed, have been thrown down; and custom has sanctioned the dreadful innovation. Nor have these evils been confined to one age or nation: In all countries some individuals have obtained an excess of emolument and power; while other portions of the communities, have been depressed by unnatural and unreasonable privations. In these cases, redress has generally been slow, and often unattainable. Men, acting as judges in their own cause, have not always, possessed so large a portion of intrinsic virtue, as to examine with candor, and decide with impartiality.—These general observations seem naturally to bring into view, the condition of a certain portion of the population of our country. Renowned as the people of the United States are, for liberty and equal law, living under governments which recognize, as a first principle, this sacred precept of nature, that "all men are born free," it must still be admitted that these blessings are partially enjoyed. It is our duty to examine this subject, and prepare to rectify the abuses, which such a state of things must produce.—The single consideration, that thousands of our species, are drinking the dregs of the cup of suffering at our hands, is sufficient to strike alarm into every mind, that is not wholly destitute of virtuous sensibility.

We cannot be prepared, at present, to point out the ultimate mode of relief, so necessary to be afforded to this degraded part of the human family. It may be reserved for the united wisdom of the friends of humanity. But it would be laudable to awaken the public attention, and, to call into action the finer feelings of the mind.

The first view of the subject presents us with the inconsistency of our conduct, and the disgrace which attaches to the national character from this cause.

We represent tyrants, as proper objects for the hatred of mankind, and declare that all men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, among which are liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.—And, finally, we endeavor to make the rest of the world believe, that liberty and equality, are the characteristics of our country. Let us compare these professions with the real state of things.—The population of a great proportion of the United States, may be hold independent beings, subject to no subordination or control, but, at the same time, destitute of protection or assistance from others. In the latter, we find rational creatures, associating together, to promote the happiness of all;—to secure the weak, from the aggressions of the powerful; to lessen the miseries, which are incident to their nature; and, for these purposes, dividing the common burdens, and forming themselves into grades, according to their respective capacities, and spheres of usefulness. These seem to have been the primary objects, which drew men into regular societies;—which gave rise to governments, to constitutions, &c. to laws. The independent being, on entering into the social compact, must put his happiness and interest into a common stock.—He must give up the liberty of injuring his fellows. He must not seek an interest altogether separate from that of the rest of mankind. And his services to the community must be in proportion to his means of being useful.—And the community is bound to regard and promote his interest & happiness in return. But avarice and ambition, very soon extended their influence over human actions; the fatal consequences of which have been, a disregard of these primary objects,—the perversion of talents and the abuse of power,—while the wealth and aggrandizement of a few, have been sufficient inducements to sacrifice the lives and liberties of communities at large. Thus the barriers of constitutional restraint, though self imposed, have been thrown down; and custom has sanctioned the dreadful innovation. Nor have these evils been confined to one age or nation: In all countries some individuals have obtained an excess of emolument and power; while other portions of the communities, have been depressed by unnatural and unreasonable privations. In these cases, redress has generally been slow, and often unattainable. Men, acting as judges in their own cause, have not always, possessed so large a portion of intrinsic virtue, as to examine with candor, and decide with impartiality.—These general observations seem naturally to bring into view, the condition of a certain portion of the population of our country. Renowned as the people of the United States are, for liberty and equal law, living under governments which recognize, as a first principle, this sacred precept of nature, that "all men are born free," it must still be admitted that these blessings are partially enjoyed. It is our duty to examine this subject, and prepare to rectify the abuses, which such a state of things must produce.—The single consideration, that thousands of our species, are drinking the dregs of the cup of suffering at our hands, is sufficient to strike alarm into every mind, that is not wholly destitute of virtuous sensibility.

We cannot be prepared, at present, to point out the ultimate mode of relief, so necessary to be afforded to this degraded part of the human family. It may be reserved for the united wisdom of the friends of humanity. But it would be laudable to awaken the public attention, and, to call into action the finer feelings of the mind.

The first view of the subject presents us with the inconsistency of our conduct, and the disgrace which attaches to the national character from this cause.

We represent tyrants, as proper objects for the hatred of mankind, and declare that all men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, among which are liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.—And, finally, we endeavor to make the rest of the world believe, that liberty and equality, are the characteristics of our country. Let us compare these professions with the real state of things.—The population of a great proportion of the United States, may be hold independent beings, subject to no subordination or control, but, at the same time, destitute of protection or assistance from others. In the latter, we find rational creatures, associating together, to promote the happiness of all;—to secure the weak, from the aggressions of the powerful; to lessen the miseries, which are incident to their nature; and, for these purposes, dividing the common burdens, and forming themselves into grades, according to their respective capacities, and spheres of usefulness. These seem to have been the primary objects, which drew men into regular societies;—which gave rise to governments, to constitutions, &c. to laws. The independent being, on entering into the social compact, must put his happiness and interest into a common stock.—He must give up the liberty of injuring his fellows. He must not seek an interest altogether separate from that of the rest of mankind. And his services to the community must be in proportion to his means of being useful.—And the community is bound to regard and promote his interest & happiness in return. But avarice and ambition, very soon extended their influence over human actions; the fatal consequences of which have been, a disregard of these primary objects,—the perversion of talents and the abuse of power,—while the wealth and aggrandizement of a few, have been sufficient inducements to sacrifice the lives and liberties of communities at large. Thus the barriers of constitutional restraint, though self imposed, have been thrown down; and custom has sanctioned the dreadful innovation. Nor have these evils been confined to one age or nation: In all countries some individuals have obtained an excess of emolument and power; while other portions of the communities, have been depressed by unnatural and unreasonable privations. In these cases, redress has generally been slow, and often unattainable. Men, acting as judges in their own cause, have not always, possessed so large a portion of intrinsic virtue, as to examine with candor, and decide with impartiality.—These general observations seem naturally to bring into view, the condition of a certain portion of the population of our country. Renowned as the people of the United States are, for liberty and equal law, living under governments which recognize, as a first principle, this sacred precept of nature, that "all men are born free," it must still be admitted that these blessings are partially enjoyed. It is our duty to examine this subject, and prepare to rectify the abuses, which such a state of things must produce.—The single consideration, that thousands of our species, are drinking the dregs of the cup of suffering at our hands, is sufficient to strike alarm into every mind, that is not wholly destitute of virtuous sensibility.

We cannot be prepared, at present, to point out the ultimate mode of relief, so necessary to be afforded to this degraded part of the human family. It may be reserved for the united wisdom of the friends of humanity. But it would be laudable to awaken the public attention, and, to call into action the finer feelings of the mind.

The first view of the subject presents us with the inconsistency of our conduct, and the disgrace which attaches to the national character from this cause.

We represent tyrants, as proper objects for the hatred of mankind, and declare that all men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, among which are liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.—And, finally, we endeavor to make the rest of the world believe, that liberty and equality, are the characteristics of our country. Let us compare these professions with the real state of things.—The population of a great proportion of the United States, may be hold independent beings, subject to no subordination or control, but, at the same time, destitute of protection or assistance from others. In the latter, we find rational creatures, associating together, to promote the happiness of all;—to secure the weak, from the aggressions of the powerful; to lessen the miseries, which are incident to their nature; and, for these purposes, dividing the common burdens, and forming themselves into grades, according to their respective capacities, and spheres of usefulness. These seem to have been the primary objects, which drew men into regular societies;—which gave rise to governments, to constitutions, &c. to laws. The independent being, on entering into the social compact, must put his happiness and interest into a common stock.—He must give up the liberty of injuring his fellows. He must not seek an interest altogether separate from that of the rest of mankind. And his services to the community must be in proportion to his means of being useful.—And the community is bound to regard and promote his interest & happiness in return. But avarice and ambition, very soon extended their influence over human actions; the fatal consequences of which have been, a disregard of these primary objects,—the perversion of talents and the abuse of power,—while the wealth and aggrandizement of a few, have been sufficient inducements to sacrifice the lives and liberties of communities at large. Thus the barriers of constitutional restraint, though self imposed, have been thrown down; and custom has sanctioned the dreadful innovation. Nor have these evils been confined to one age or nation: In all countries some individuals have obtained an excess of emolument and power; while other portions of the communities, have been depressed by unnatural and unreasonable privations. In these cases, redress has generally been slow, and often unattainable. Men, acting as judges in their own cause, have not always, possessed so large a portion of intrinsic virtue, as to examine with candor, and decide with impartiality.—These general observations seem naturally to bring into view, the condition of a certain portion of the population of our country. Renowned as the people of the United States are, for liberty and equal law, living under governments which recognize, as a first principle, this sacred precept of nature, that "all men are born free," it must still be admitted that these blessings are partially enjoyed. It is our duty to examine this subject, and prepare to rectify the abuses, which such a state of things must produce.—The single consideration, that thousands of our species, are drinking the dregs of the cup of suffering at our hands, is sufficient to strike alarm into every mind, that is not wholly destitute of virtuous sensibility.

We cannot be prepared, at present, to point out the ultimate mode of relief, so necessary to be afforded to this degraded part of the human family. It may be reserved for the united wisdom of the friends of humanity. But it would be laudable to awaken the public attention, and, to call into action the finer feelings of the mind.

The first view of the subject presents us with the inconsistency of our conduct, and the disgrace which attaches to the national character from this cause.

We represent tyrants, as proper objects for the hatred of mankind, and declare that all men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, among which are liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.—And, finally, we endeavor to make the rest of the world believe, that liberty and equality, are the characteristics of our country. Let us compare these professions with the real state of things.—The population of a great proportion of the United States, may be hold independent beings, subject to no subordination or control, but, at the same time, destitute of protection or assistance from others. In the latter, we find rational creatures, associating together, to promote the happiness of all;—to secure the weak, from the aggressions of the powerful; to lessen the miseries, which are incident to their nature; and, for these purposes, dividing the common burdens, and forming themselves into grades, according to their respective capacities, and spheres of usefulness. These seem to have been the primary objects, which drew men into regular societies;—which gave rise to governments, to constitutions, &c. to laws. The independent being, on entering into the social compact, must put his happiness and interest into a common stock.—He must give up the liberty of injuring his fellows. He must not seek an interest altogether separate from that of the rest of mankind. And his services to the community must be in proportion to his means of being useful.—And the community is bound to regard and promote his interest & happiness in return. But avarice and ambition, very soon extended their influence over human actions; the fatal consequences of which have been, a disregard of these primary objects,—the perversion of talents and the abuse of power,—while the wealth and aggrandizement of a few, have been sufficient inducements to sacrifice the lives and liberties of communities at large. Thus the barriers of constitutional restraint, though self imposed, have been thrown down; and custom has sanctioned the dreadful innovation. Nor have these evils been confined to one age or nation: In all countries some individuals have obtained an excess of emolument and power; while other portions of the communities, have been depressed by unnatural and unreasonable privations. In these cases, redress has generally been slow, and often unattainable. Men, acting as judges in their own cause, have not always, possessed so large a portion of intrinsic virtue, as to examine with candor, and decide with impartiality.—These general observations seem naturally to bring into view, the condition of a certain portion of the population of our country. Renowned as the people of the United States are, for liberty and equal law, living under governments which recognize, as a first principle, this sacred precept of nature, that "all men are born free," it must still be admitted that these blessings are partially enjoyed. It is our duty to examine this subject, and prepare to rectify the abuses, which such a state of things must produce.—The single consideration, that thousands of our species, are drinking the dregs of the cup of suffering at our hands, is sufficient to strike alarm into every mind, that is not wholly destitute of virtuous sensibility.