Walter Raleigh was, by all odds, the first man of his day in England, bright as that day was. After the settlement of the colony of North Carolina, its inhabitants were remarkable for their love of independence and their capacity to govern themselves. As our character as a frank and candid, quiet and well ordered and industrious community is so fully established, we can, without any feelings of uneasiness.

or sensitiveness recur to such statements as these.

In the year 1731 the colonial governor Burnington, dustrious, but subtle and crafty; always behaved insolently to their Governors; some they have imprisoned, others they have drove out of the country, and at other times set up a Governor of their own pointed by the former State, William Byrd, in his and jealousy towards a State preferred to his own.

his words ought probably to be accepted with grains of allowance. We will therefore take only half the statement to be true, the latter half, for those who are readiest to resist the demands of an usurping despot, are the most likely to render the homage due to the Creator and the Governor of the Universe.

We should naturally expect such a people to be among the first and boldest to resist those aggres-sions of Great Britain which led to the Revolution.

Accordingly in the year 1765, on the passage of the stamp act, Col. John Ashe, Speaker of the House of Commons of North Carolina, informed Gov. Tryon that the law would be resisted to every extent. On the arrival of the British sloop-of war, Diligence, in the Cape Fear, he and Col. Waddell, at the head of a body of the citizens of the counties of New Hanover and Brunswick, marched down in a body, frightened the Captain of the ship so that he did not attempt to land the stamp paper, seized her boat, the whole town was illuminated that night. On the next day they marched to the Governor's House, and demanded that Gov. Tryon should desist from all attempts to execute the Stamp Act, and obliged him to deliver up Houston, the Stamp Master for North-Carolina. Having seized upon him, they car-red him to the public market house and compelled and threw overboard the tea imported in her. This guise, and was directed against a defenseless ship.

But the North-Carolina movement, ten years earlier in point of time, occurred in open day, and was made against the Governor himself, ensconced in his palace, and by men who scorned all disguise.

While both deeds were meritorious on account of their daring, and also the motives of the actors, that at Boston partook of the stealthy manner of the cautious fox, while the North-Carolina act resembled the lofty bearing of the lordly lion, whose defiant roar sends challenge loud to all that oppose his way. And yet the one occurrence has been lauded unsparingly, while the other is scarcely known out of the limits of our State. Historians, whose main object has been to elevate other States, have ignored it, because of its brilliancy. It has been suggested, however, by way of excuse for this, that the tea movement led immediately to a collision of arms.

But will any man pretend that a blow which merely irritates an adversary and causes him to make an attack, is more meritorious than one so decided as

The same spirit continued to animate our people, and led to the uprising of the Regulators to resist the oppressive taxation and exactions of the colonial government. It was on the 16th day of May, 1771, that the battle of the Alamance was fought, in which occurred the first collision of arms between Great Britain and her rebellious colonies, and here was shed the first blood of the American Revolution. Though superiority of arms and discipline enabled Governor

Tryon to win the victory, yet such was the terror inspired by the movement, that he required the people, in all the middle and upper parts of the State, to be drawn out in batallions, and to take an oath of allegiance to the British government, In addition to this, the prominent men were most suspected, were notified from time to time to appear at each court, and renew the oath to sustain the govern ment. As the contest waxed warmer and warmer

We need hardly in vite attention to the address of Hon. T. L. Clingman. It was delivered yesterday (Thursday) and was attentively listened to by the largest audience ever seen on the Fair grounds. STATESVILLE CELEBRATION. - The completion of the Western North-Carolina Railroad from Salisbury to Statesville, was celebrated in the latter place on Thursday last by speeches, public dinner, military parade, firing of cannon, &c. There was a very large number of persons present from Iredell and the surrounding counties. Five military compa were in attendance-two from Salisbury, one from Hillsboro', and the Hornets' Nest Riflemen from Charlotte, and the Iredell Blues. Ex-Gov. Morehead, of Greensboro', and Gen. J. A. Young, of Charlotte, addressed the audience; after which a bountiful dinner was partaken of by all who desired him to take an oath never to attempt to execute his to eat. PRIZE MONEY AND THE "ECHO."-The Washington 'States" refers to the entire misapprehension of the case in the statements made in reference to the disposition of the slaver "Echo," and the amount of the prize money accruing to those who were direct. ly instrumental in her capture. It points out the course which will be taken in the matter, upon information derived from the most authentic source :

The United States Marshal for South-Carolina gave Lieut. Maffit a receipt for 396 Africans, for which number $25 per head, amounting in all to $7,600, will be awarded as prize-money to the flagofficer of the home squadron and the officers and crew of the Dolphin. This sum will be distributed as follows: The flag-officer receives one-twentieth, the commanding officer of the Dolphin two twentieths, and the balance is distributed to the other officers and the crew of the Dolphin according to rank and rate. It is doubted, however whether the flag-officer (Commodore McIntosh) is entitled to onetwentieth, as he was absent on leave, from his station at the time of the capture. This question will doubtless be determined by the Attorney General. After the prescribed legal forms have been gone through with and the Echo has been libelled, she will be sold at public auction. Half of the proceeds will be taken by the Government, according to a special provision of law, and devoted to the naval more than three thousand men were engaged. Here pension fund; the other half will be divided among the officers and crew of the Dolphin, according to the same rule by which the per capita prize money is distributed. Eighteen of the Africans died after their capture by Lieut. Massit. For these the per capita of twenty five dollars will not be paid, but only for those who were delivered alive into the hands of the United States Marshal.

> RE ELECTION OF MAYOR SWANN, OF BALTIMORE. On Wednesday last an election was held in Balti more for Mayor and Councilmen. Mayor Swan, the American candidate, received 24,000 votes, and Shtt, the Locofoes candidate received 4,859-Swann's majority, 19,149.

In the first Branch of the City Council, 19 Amercans were elected, and one Democrat and in the Second Branch, nine Americans and one Democart.

The only reply which it is necessary for us to make to the Register, will be found in the following article for the Baltimore Sun, a neutral paper:

BALTIMORE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—We subjoin the formal record of a vote taken yesterday, under the authority of a municipal election. The returns from the polls are the most faithful indication of the character of the whole affair. The text and cemmentary are there to be seen at a glance. The transactions of the day are already familiar to many of our citizens, and we have little disposition to recapitulate them here, or descant upon them. At a very early hour the fact was current throughout the city, that the polls were in possession of a class of men who could only be encountered upon equal terms by a resort to violence and the use of arms. Consequently all attempt to poll an opposition vote was abandoned. At about noon a handbill was issued by Col. Shutt, announcing his withdrawal, and from that time until the polls closed, the vote, we presume, was exclusively for Mr. Swann. This publication having been generally distributed about the several polls, and posted in various parts of the city, had the effect to retire what few of Mr. Shutt's friends were endeavoring to maintain their ground, and to leave the affair of the day uncontested to the close. The following is the result of the vote for Mayor in the twenty wards of the city: Swann, (America,) 24,008; Shutt. (Independent.) 4,859.

THE POTENCY OF A NEWSPAPER.—The London Times, in an able article on the power of the Press, says that the potency of a newspaper lies in the fact that it is a newspaper, and not a sheet of tales and essays like the French journals. "The public Press," says the Times, "has purchased the right of expressing its opinions by the facilities which it has given every man for forming his own." As to the favors which the Press can confer, the Times says: "What is the Red Eagle or the Legion of Honor to a paragraph of praise which is repeated in hundreds of daily, weekly and monthly sheets, and makes some humble name a household word from Cornwall to Shetland, in Toronto and Melbourne, in Calcutta and Hong Kong."

[Correspondence of the Livingston (Ala.) Democrat] CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 31, '58.

Dear Democrat:-The country from Raleigh to Charlotte is beautifully undulating, dotted with flourishing viliages and tasteful private residences, and in a high state of cultivation. It is conceded on all hands, to be the finest portion of North-Carolina, both in variety of scenery and fertility of soil. It well deserves this commendation. The signs of improvement are visible at every step on this route. You feel that you are in the midst of a people who are fully imbued with the spirit of the age and determined not to lag behind their neighbors. Tasteful and comfortable mansions peep out from their leafy nests upon you—trees bending under large, luscious apples invite you to pause and partake of the tempting fruit-the mountain brook and hillside spring look cooling; the men wear that indescribable air which always betokens those who are getting along in the world. It is a treat to travel through this portion of the State.

I came on to North-Carolina with no notion that I would like the State; from boyhood I had heard her sneered at and ridiculed without measure or stint, as old Rip Van Winkle, locked in the embrace of sleep and ignorance. But I found she had wakened from her slumbers, and set about the development of her agricultural and mineral resources with the liveliest vigor. Her people are excellent specimens of the human race—brawney and stout, with broad and open countenances, that put you at your ease about your throat and your purse. There are poverty, boorishness and ignorance here, as well as everywhere on this globe, but they are the exceptions to the rule—not the rule itself. Laugh at and deride her as much as you may, the "old North State," with the persimmons, huckle-berries, tar, pitch and turpentine, which usually form appurtenances to the picture drawn of her, is bound to be a great State.

The soil from Raleigh to Charlotte is a deep red clay. In places the surface of the ground is almost covered with boulders, some of these are quite large and others are small. The principal growth is redoak, post-oak and hickory, on the hills, and on swampy land, the same growth with a sprinkling of sweet gum. I do not think I saw a dozen pines. The crops looked very well indeed on this entire route. I was informed by several well informed gentlemen that much greater breadth of land was planted in cotton in North Carolina this year than ever has been known before. This increase of the breadth of land planted in cotton, is imputable to the improved means of transportation and the present price of cotton-both of them being powerful stimulants of production.

The North Carolina Railroad Company has erected some splendid machine and work shops between Raleigh and Salisbury, and built up a village that may compare with any village in the South, in general loveliness. The workshops are large brick buildings, and the houses in which the workmen live, are neat and tasteful brick cottages. I counted some ten of these cottages, all erected by the Company for the use of their employees. They are situated in the midst of a most beautiful grove of oaks and looked the very picture of cleanliness and contentment.

Greensborough is noted as the seat of several literary institutions of rising importance. The air is pure and bracing, and students might reasonably count upon an exemption from fevers while at these schools. Salem is not more than a dozen miles from Greensborough, and despite all the efforts that have been made to supplant it in the public confidence, it is still a full match for its more youthful and showy rivals. There is something indeed remarkable about the school at Salem. It was a prosperous and flourishing Female School, more than a quarter of a century before its mushroom competitors were ever thought of. Many of the most accomplished (thoroughly and practically educated) women whom I have ever met, received their education at this timehonored institution, and their "daily walk and conversation" was the most eloquent testimony of the efficiency of their "nursing mother." I like Salem because it does not immolate whatever is practical on the altar of show and pretension, and because the principals keep on hand no lazy and dissipated sons to hunt up rich wives from amongst the pupils.

Charlotte is one among the oldest towns in the State, and is quite pleasantly situated. It contains some very nice stores and tasteful private residences. The produce of the section of country around Charlotte has heretofore gone to swell the trade and commerce of Charleston, S. C, but as a direct railway communication has been auspiciously opened to Beaufort, on the Atlantic, a much better harbor than Charleston, there can be but little doubt that much the largest portion of this produce will in future find its way to Carolina City. The harbor of Beaufort has heretofore been so much isolated from the producing portion of the State, as never to have attracted the attention due to the important advantages of its location, safety and depth of water. The rivers of North-Carolina are full of shoals near the sea, and as they receded, they become still more unfit for purposes of navigation by reason of falls. The consequence of this lack of natural channels of trade. was long felt to be a serious clog upon the prosperity of the State. Norfolk and Charleston sought to draw the products of the State to their own ports, and to a great extent were successful. Nearly all of the exports of North Carolina were shipped to Charleston or Norfolk, and thence consigned to coastwise ports or to foreign markets, so that persons living out of the State and drawing their information from commercial statistics, possessed no adequate conception either of the amount or value of her exports -The opening of a communication with Beaufort Harbor will produce a marked change in this respect. The shipment of produce to Charleston will decline and finally cease. The State will soon be reticulated with railways, and these will all converge to Beaufort as to a common centre. The superiority of Beaufort Harbor over Charleston is too vast and undisputed to be much longer ignored .-A railroad is nearly completed from Carolina City to Knoxville, Tennessee, and when completed produce may he shipped to the former without any breaking of bulk or loss from rehandling. Charlotte is situated in Mecklenburg county where the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, which in point of time, preceded our own immortal "magna charta," was adopted and published to the world. The consecrated ground where the battles of Alamance and the Cowpens were fought, is in the same section of the State. There our forefathers poured out their life-blood as a free libation upon the altars of liberty. North Carolina has a past .-She was among the foremost in resistance to the usurpations of the parliament and bore herself right gallantly through all the trying scenes of the revolution, when patriotism was something more than a string of rounded periods. It may not be generally known, that in 1788, when the present federal Constitution was submitted to the States for ratification. North Carolina refused to lend it her sanction .-This refusal was in the main occasioned by the aprehension that the rights of the States were not adequately secured and guarded, and that the tenden cy of the Constitution was towards consolidation .-She proposed several amendments, intended to explain doubtful phrazes, to define the powers vested in the General Government with more precision and to throw greater safeguards around the sovereignty of the States, which was thought to be endangered by such an accumulation of power in the General Government. Other States had felt a similar apprehension, but they wanted the courage to isolate themselves from the Union. North Carolina deemed it the safest policy to demand that the desired amendments be incorporated in the Constitution before she acceded to the Union. She remained out of the Union in honorable isolation for some eight or ten months, nor did she accede to it until the most important amendendments suggested by her were substantially incorporated in the Constitution. She deserves hones for her stern devotion to State sovereignty at that early period, when consolidation was a deduction of reason, and not as now, a demonstrated and painful fact. Their fears are fulfilled.

ist bei beite beite . I. Cant af Trunkten.

The Federal Government has swallowed up every vestage of State sovereighty. The Federal Govern-ment is all in all—the Alpha and Omega of powers and honors, whilst the States are mere corporations -so "poor that none do them reverence."

I like to dwell upon these revolutionary reminisences—to recall the labors of our forefathers to establish the principals of free government-and to catch if possible, the inspiration of pure patriotism that animated their hearts. We can never be enslaved so long as we go back to our revolutionary struggles for expositions of the principles of enlightenod freedom and examples of unselfish patriotism.

May it be many years before we cease to revere these old landmarks. The convention which refused to ratify the Federal Constitution in 1788, assembled in Hillsboro.

North Carolina is also alive to the importance of education, and her system of Public Schools is in the "full tide of successful experiment." The Report of her State Superintendent, shows in a nutshell what immense benefits are to be expected from her system of Public Schools. I venture the assertion, that in this respect, North Carolina is doing fully as much to elevate her people as any of her sister States. She could not have chosen a more effectual mode of elevating and refining her citizens than that of placing before them the means of education free of charge. It is beyond all question the best investment of her funds that she could have made, and one that will yield a larger dividend than all others. Many a poor boy thus educated by the splendid munificence of his State, will shine in the council halls of the nation with resplendent lustre, and by the brightness of his same shed lustre untarnished upon his affectionate "nursing mother." The Public Schools which she has endowed will do more to enlighten, elevate and dignify her children than all her magnicent lines of railway. Human works will perish, but the stamp of intellect once impressed upon a nation will survive even the fall of the nation itself. The literature of Greece and Rome is still the pride of the world.

We have heretofore neglected to notice the industry manifested at the Wachovia Mills in this place, during the past summer. For a greater portion of the season, the puffing and clanking of the engine and machinery have saluted our ears at all hours of the day and night, and it is with no little degree of town pride that we chronicle the extensive business which has been done at this establishment, surpassing all others of the kind in the State, for the twelve months past. We have been informed by Mr. R. L. Patterson, the proprietor, that he has sent off on an average two hundred barrels of flour per week, for the last seven weeks, making in all fourteen hundred barrels of flour in less than two months. - Sa-

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 .- By private advices receivhere from Arazona, dated Sept. 28th, it is ascertained that the Sonora silver mining company has began shipping silver from Hac to San Francisco at the rate of about 1,000 ounces per week. . This will be largely increased when the amalgamation works are finished. Several other mines are well opened, and smelting has been commenced with large returns .-The Apaches were about making a great expedition into Sonora, and the Mexicans were preparing a large army to resist. Peschicra's power is fully established in Sonora, Gundarn, the leader of the late rebellion, being entirely deserted by his friends. Another of the overland mail party, named Laing, attacked at Dragoon Spring, is dead. The proceedings of the Rio Grande Convention, asking for the separate territorial organization of Arizona, have been unanimously endorsed by the Southern portion of the territory at a mass meeting held at Tescan.

No Representative or Senator was voted for in Arizona for the New Mexico Legislature. On the 20th of September Lieut. Maury was re-elected a delegate to Congress by about 3,000 votes. The American vote is largely increased since last year. There is no change, as has been stated, in the regulation concerning letters to the East Indies. The American postage only may be prepaid. The franking privilege of the new members of Congress commences on the 4th of March next, and the retiring members will retain it till the first Monday of December following.

All the Departments of the government are busy preparing their respective reports for Congress. Thirteen post masters in Illinois have been removed from office. There is the best authority for saying that Gen.

Jerez has not been formerly dismissed.

Later from Europe. HALIFAX, Oct. 20 .- The steamship Europa arrived

The chess match, between Morphy and Harwitz, has been closed by the illness of the latter. The game stood Morphy 5. Harwitz 2, drawn one. The Admiral of the French fleet of the Gulf of Mexico, has left Paris with energetic orders to protect French citizens. The King of Prussia is alarmingly ill. The English Government is moving towards the abolition of the Stade dues in Hanover. LIVERPOOL MARKETS, Oct. 9 .- Cotton is queit .-The sales of the week amount to 45,000 bales, of which speculators took 25,000 and exporters 3,000 spirit of our people continued to rise. And on the 20th of May, 1775, the citizens of Mecklenburg. more than a year in advance of the general Declaration, proclaimed Independence, and, at a subsequent meeting, perfected their system of government .-The conduct of her sons throughout the whole struggle, vindicated the opinion expressed by Lord Cornwallis and Col. Tarlton, that Mecklenburg was the most rebellious county in America. Such a county was a fitting birth place for Andrew Jack-As the first blood of the Revolutionary contest on the 27th of February, 1776. Nor were the exertions of our citizens confined to their own territory. Gen. Francis Nash and Col. Edward Buncombe gave up their lives on the soil of Pennsylvania, and at the battle of Eutaw the North Carolina militia maintained the fight, in the open field, against a greatly superior force of British regulars, so long, and so obstinately refused to retire, when ordered by their officers, that the commander-in-chief declared that their conduct would have done honor to Prussian veterans. And when the gloomy cloud of British domination was moving steadily on from the north-east like the dark shadow of an eclipse, it paused before it reached our western border. The tide of our enemies' success recoiled from the base of those "unknown mountains," and became refluent when Ferguson fell. Soon after, in the bloody battle of Guilford, the power of Cornwallis, the ablest and Having profited by her own experience, she was slow to part with the right of absolute self-government, and finally, only adopted the Federal Constitution, after important amendments had been made. And should it, from any cause, fail to afford her that protection to which she is entitled, the spirit which animated her early colonists, which resisted the Stamp Act and other British aggressions, and rose still higher at Mecklenburg and King's Mountain, will again be ready to vindicate the great principles of civil lib-erty. That she may be spared the necessity of new exertions to that end, ought to be the wish of all her sons. The whole human race is largely interested
