AND HE CERTAINLY KNEW WHERE TO GO WHEN HE WAS SICK.

Some years ago the students of a certain college in the State of New York were in the habit of voting in the town, as they had a right to do, instead of at their homes. But one year the political party against which the students had usually voted secured control, and appointed two or three of their adherents guardians of the ballot-box. As one student after another presented his vote, one of these officials, a pompous, strutting man, challenged him. Several students had yielded rather than enter into a contest with the 'loud' man. But at last there came up a homely, awk ward student, gifted with large stock of mother wit.
