THE MARRIAGE VOW.
A marriage ceremony was performed, years ago, in Bossier Parish, La., by a newly elected magistrate. He owned a magistrate's form book, and was in the habit of turning a leaf at important places. Having been called upon to marry a couple, he had recourse to this unfailling fountain of knowledge and information; but doubting his capacity to repeat the service from memory, down went a leaf. The eventful evening came. The trembling couple stood in the august presence of the magistrate, who, with book in hand, thought himself equal to an emergency. Opening the volume at a place where a leaf was turned, in solemn and impressive tones he began: "One day after date I promise"—confusion he had opened at the wrong page. Considerably staggered, but still resolved, he turned to another page—"Know all men by these present"—Here he broke down and stood utterly abashed. Rallying however, with a mighty effort, he shut the book and sternly demanded: "Do you promise to do unto this woman as other men do unto their wives, so help you God?"

STOPPING PLACES
—Joint education—gymnastics.
—To kill time—sleigh it.
—A wretched bachelor is responsible for the following proverbs:
A rich man is never ugly in the eyes of a girl.
A beautiful woman smiling bespeaks a purse weeping.
Every man had rather be handsome than good.
A house full of daughters is a cellar of sour beer.
A man of straw is worth a woman of gold.
A rich wife is a source of quarrel.
It is an ill house when the hen is a talking bird.
He who marries ill is very long in becoming widowed.
A rich widow weeps with one eye and laughs with the other.
—Some one calls Auber's "Revered Amour" an Auber Comique.

HOW TO KEEP COOL.
The Herald of Health for July gives some directions upon the pertinent problem of how to keep cool. We quote:
1. The diet should be composed largely or entirely of fruits, fresh vegetables, and wheat meal bread, and other preparations of wheat and oat meal. Corn meal bread and cakes should be seldom eaten, if at all, during hot weather. Avoid all stimulating or heating articles of food, as meats, especially fat or salted meats, butter, gravies, and greasy food of all kinds, sugar, mustard, spices, etc. Do not eat hot food, and especially avoid eating more than the system requires.
2. Drink nothing but water, and that only a small quantity at a time. Of course this precludes the use of tea, coffee and all alcoholic drinks.
3. The clothing should be light, light colored, loose fitting, and changed often.
4. The entire body should be bathed every day, either in the morning or at night. Farmers and others who perspire freely and are exposed to dust should bathe at night. They will rest and sleep better for doing so. The whole body can be effectually cooled in a short time by holding pieces of ice in the hands, or letting a stream of cold water run upon the wrists or ankles.
5. Avoid all undue mental or physical excitement.

Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of men with nothing in their pockets are rich. A man born with good sound sense, a good stomach, a good heart and good limbs, and a pretty good head-piece, is rich. Good bones are better than gold, tough muscles than silver, and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function, are better than houses and land. It is better than landed estate to have the right kind of mother and father. Good breeds and bad deeds exist among men, as herds and horses. Education may do much to check evil tendencies or to develop good ones, but it is a great thing to inherit the right proportion of faculties to begin with.

The man is rich who has a good disposition, who is kind, patient, cheerful, hopeful, and who has a flavor of wit and fun in his composition. The hardest thing to get along with in this world, is a man's own self. A cross, selfish fellow, and care-burdened man—these are all deformed on the inside. Their feet do not limp out their thoughts do. A man of fortune on the grave would gladly part with every dollar to obtain a longer lease of life.

DOMESTIC.
COOKING ASPARAGUS.—Cut it in very small pieces and boil twenty minutes in water pretty well salted; then skim it out, throw away the water, put the asparagus back, and pour over it some cream. Take a tablespoonful of flour and the same of butter, mix them well together and stir into the cream. Let it boil up, and it is done. Try this, and you will say it is the very best way to serve asparagus you ever read or heard of.

IOWA TREE PLANTING.—In Iowa the planting of trees is encouraged by law. Every acre of trees planted releases taxation for ten years on $100 valuation; and for each acre of fruit trees planted, tax is exempted on $50 valuation for five years; the same shade trees and hedges along the highways. The result is an extensive cultivation of forest, fruit and shade trees.—Gardener's monthly.

TO NEUTRALIZE POISON.—The following says the New York Times, given on the authority of a druggist, is worth knowing, if true: "A poison of any conceivable degree of potency which has been swallowed, intentionally or by accident, may be rendered instantly harmless by swallowing two gills of sweet oil. An individual with a very strong constitution should take twice the quantity. This oil will neutralize every form of vegetable or mineral poison with which physicians or chemists are acquainted."

GRAHAM PUDDING.—We really wish all our readers liked Graham mush, or pudding, as well as we. Perhaps you will get some flour and try it, if we tell you how to make it:
Put three pints of water in a kettle; when it boils stir in flour enough to make mush as thick as hasty pudding. It requires rather more salt than Indian meal mush. If you have any left over cut in slices and try for breakfast. To be eaten with sugar and cream or molasses.

PERSIAN PUDDING.—Take the pulp of six baked apples, add to them one ounce of rice previously boiled in milk, and beaten smooth, one ounce of sifted sugar, the grated rind of a lemon, and a teaspoonful of lemon juice; mix these well together; then beat the whites of four eggs to a fine froth, put in the other ingredients, whisk it all up quickly, put into a warm mold, and place in a tolerable quick oven; when properly set, turn it out and pour round it a custard made with the yolks of the eggs remaining from the pudding.

GREASING WAGONS.—Few people fully appreciate the importance of thoroughly lubricating the axles, etc., of wagons and carriages, and still fewer know what are the best materials and the best method of applying them. A well made wheel will endure common wear from ten to twenty-five years, if care is taken to use the right kind and proper amount of grease; but if this matter is not attended to, they will be used up in five or six years. Lard should never be used on a wagon, for it will penetrate the hub, and works its way around the wheel. Tallow is the best lubricator for wooden axle trees, and castor oil for iron. Just grease enough should be applied to the spindle of a wagon to give it a light coating; this is better than more, for the surplus part on will work out at the ends, and be forced by the shoulder-bands and nut-washers into the hub around the outside of the boxes. To oil an axle tree first wipe the spindle clean with a cloth wet with spirits of turpentine, and then apply a few drops of castor oil near the shoulders and end. One teaspoonful is for the whole.—Exchange.

A churchyard in Ulster has a tombstone with the following epitaph: "Erected to the memory of John Phillips accidentally shot as a mark of affection by his brother."
—A country magistrate being called upon to marry a couple, said: "I pronounce you man and wife, and may God have mercy on your souls. Amen." Singing was omitted.

A song that is just now very popular in London has the following chorus. To get the meaning of the joke, if there is any, Esau must be pronounced in Cockney style, viz, HESAU:
I saw Esau kissing Kate,
And the fact is we all three saw,
For I saw Esau, he saw me,
And she saw I saw Esau.

EXPANDING THE LUNGS.
Step out into the purest air you can find; stand perfectly erect, with head and shoulders back, and then, fixing the lips as if you were going to whistle, draw the air through the lips into the lungs. When your chest is about half full, gradually raise the arms, keeping them extended, with the palms of the hands down, as you suck in the air, so as to bring them over the head just as the lungs are full. Then drop the thumbs inward, and after gently forcing the arms backward and the chest open, reverse the process by which you draw your breath till the lungs are empty. This process should be repeated immediately after bathing, and also several times during the day. It is impossible to describe to one who has never tried it, the glorious sense of vigor which follows this exercise. It is the best expectorant in the world. We know a gentleman, the measure of whose chest has been increased by this means some three or four inches during as many months.

A young lady once married a man by the name of Dust, against the wishes of her parents. After a short time they lived unhappily together, and she returned to her father's house; but he refused to receive her, saying, "Dust thou art and unto Dust thou shalt return." And she got up and said "dusted."
