LOGAN H. ROBINSON.—After the death of the subject of this, which took place on Wednesday night last, (after he had been in our office for only one week.)

The following resolutions were adopted by the Sunday School of the M. E. Church in Murfreesboro, on the death of him, one of its scholars:

"Since it has seemed best to our Heavenly Father to remove from our number one little friend and fellow-pupil, Logan H. Robinson, Resolved, that we acknowledge the hand of God in this affliction, which has so suddenly smitten in the very outset of his life this cheerful, useful child and now bow ourselves to His holy will, being sure that our little friend has passed into a brighter and happier life. We deeply sympathize with his stricken mother and sister, and commend them to Him who alone can give comfort to the bereaved and bring joy out of their grief, praying that they may ever realize unto them that earnest promise of the Master: 'I will not leave you comfortless.'"

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be handed to the Enquirer, with a request of publication.

A WONDERFUL DREAM—ENCOURAGEMENT FOR SPIRITUALISTS.
 The following are the words (verbatim) of a letter written to Mrs. Eli Carter, of our town, from her brother, H. C. Traler, Esq., of Memphis, Tenn., in regard to burning the Wesleyan Female College:

"I was sleeping in the third story of a building locked in and no other person was known to be in the building, and certainly no one else was in my room, when sound asleep and not dreaming, about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, a loud and distinct voice was heard close to my head, exclaiming, 'Wesleyan Female College Burned!'

I related the occurrence at the breakfast table that morning to fifteen or twenty boarders, and stated that the voice was so peculiar and different from anything that had occurred to me, that I expected really to hear in a few days that the College was burned. Some weeks passed and nothing of the kind having taken place, I had forgotten it. Imagine my astonishment yesterday, when opening a letter from your son, Tom I discovered an extra from the Enquirer and almost the first thing that met my eye was 'Wesleyan Female College Burned!—the exact words that rang in my ears for nearly a week.'"

FROM A LETTER.—Written by Poulaski Cowper, Esq., from this place, to the Raleigh Observer giving an account of his recent visit to our town, to that sterling daily, we call the following, which may be of interest to our readers:

This is the home of Major yeates, the representative in Congress. He is popular and influential in his district, and in Congress. Some opposition is manifested—he should be renominated. 'He fills the bill.' 'Praise the bridge that crosses you safely.' 'We may go further and fare worse.'

Hertford county is the mother of two as accomplished, intelligent, and naturally gifted ladies as I ever saw. I refer to the wife of Dr. Howard, formerly of Warrenton, now of Baltimore, and to the wife of Maj. John W. Moore, Hertford county can well take pride in claiming their maternity.

The Enquirer, a very readable paper, is published weekly by Mr. Ward, a rising young lawyer, and receives a merited share of patronage. I was very much entertained by reading some county historical sketches, written by Major J. W. Moore, and published in the Enquirer. They exhibit much care, labor and research. Major Moore writes with ease, fluency and facility. His capability and general information eminently benefit him to illustrate with accuracy these historical incidents.

THE PICNIC AT WORRELL'S STORE.—A GENERAL GOOD TIME.—According to announcement, the picnic came off on Thursday last at C. W. Worrell's store, and was an affair enjoyed by all present. The place is a beautiful cool shady one, and is calculated to invite attendance. At 10 o'clock, A. M., people were found gathered from all parts of Hertford, Northampton and Southampton (Va.) counties.

The managers of the affair were J. J. Deyer, E. L. C. Ward, E. C. Worrell, J. W. Beaton, Don Spiers, Dr. L. J. Pickett, B. J. Harrell, L. F. Lee, W. H. Parker, J. D. Riddick, B. J. Bryant, C. C. Ferguson, Jr.

Music dancing and croquet were the amusements of the day. Good eatables and drinkables flowed in profusion.

There were numbers of young ladies present. Among whom we are pleased to mention Misses Boone, Brynm, Worrell, Woodward, Sears, Bryant, Hart, Freeman, Ferguson, Bridgers, Brett, Weston, Stringfield, Sanford, Jenkins, Dunstan, Day, Campbell, Hill, Moore, and many others.

Among the older people who graced the occasion we noted Dr. C. F. Campbell and lady, H. C. Williams and lady, (of Norfolk) G. A. Brett, F. E. Vann, J. B. Barnes and lady, J. W. Worrell, Capt. J. H. Pico, Dr. L. J. Pico and many others, all of whom seemed to have a good day's enjoyment and were apparently as young and buoyant as in days gone by.

THE CLOSING OF OUR COLORED SCHOOL.—Unusual interest was manifested in the closing exercises of our colored school, conducted by Prof. L. S. Smith, which took place on Friday and Saturday last at the colored Methodist church. There were many white as well as colored citizens present on Friday night last to hear the address of the Editor of this paper, on the subject of "The obligations of the Colored Race." The speaker treated of his subject under the following heads: 1st. The duty of the colored people to themselves. 2nd. Their duty to their children. (the mutual obligations between the white and colored races) and 3rd. Their duty and obligations to God.

On Saturday, a dinner was given to the school children, and the evening was spent in the children's making little speeches, reciting poetry and singing. Among the speeches made by various scholars, we must especially mention those made by Frank Vann, on the subject of Colored Education, and Willie Caphart whose subject was Our Flag. They were indeed well written and full of sound sense and good advice.

Prof. Smith also made a highly sensible speech to those present, urging the importance of more interest in education, and spoke in the highest terms of the willingness of the white people to aid them in their efforts.

We note with special pleasure, the great improvement among the colored people, their schools have brought about, and think much credit is due Prof. Smith for the success in our town. We trust the good work may continue to go on in their midst, and that they may have all necessary encouragement.

GOING TO OLD POINT!
 I vow it is a pity
 That we followers of Ghitty,
 Or of Blackstone, or of Kent, as the case may be,
 Should be cooped up in the town or city,
 When our friends and all the pretty
 Girls are flirting at the springs and bathing in the sea.

This morning, from my office, I saw Bob Luckey doff his hat to Miss Carrie Kjekerbocker, and speak to her maunna,
 Who is going with her daughters,
 To drink the mineral waters
 And find a husband for the elder
 At the sea.

And Bob will go to-morrow;
 He's already been to borrow
 The necessary funds with which to pay his way;
 And, ten to one, the sinner
 Will be the man to win her;
 Though none but the tailor will rejoice at that, they say.

So, you see my friends are leaving
 And I am left here grieving
 In my dingy little office, with my eyes cast on the floor.
 My life, thus far, seems wasted;
 My sandwich lies uncasted,
 And my printer's devil, unclashed, spins his top outside the door.

It's certainly but mean sport
 To sit in the magistrate's court—
 Or in that of the mayor, as the case may be—
 And wonder whether Blanch
 Is waltzing at the Branch
 With that odious Filz Williams, oblivious of me.

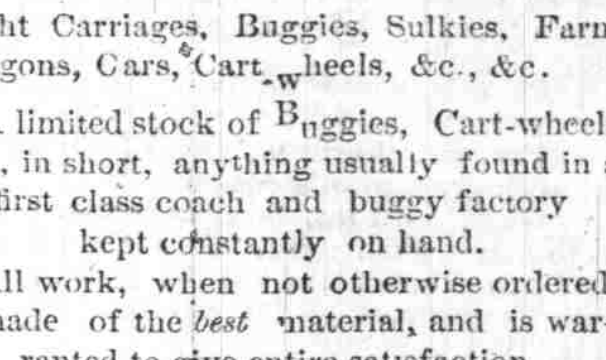

I can't endure this longer!
 My love for Blanch is stronger
 Than love of clients or papers, if I had them by the score!
 So I've written a brief ticket—
 On the office door I'll stick it;
 It is worded thus: "Gone to Old Point,
 will remain a week or more!"
