IMMENSE STRAWBERRIES.

Pleasure and Profit in the Garden

A number of the newer varieties have already been described, but there are still others that form such a marked contrast to the common varieties, as also to render them deserving of mention. Many persons are probably not aware of the vast difference that there is between the different varieties of this fruit. The contrast is almost as decided as in the case of apples or pearsranging from a very light pink or bright scarlet color to a very dark red, or almost black. Then, in the matter of size, there are some varieties that never turnish berries any larger than half or three-fourths of an inch in diameter; while some of the newer kinds have vielded specimens with a measurement of nine and even twelve inches in circumference. There are other points that might be noted, such as richness of flavor of the fruit, early or late ripening, or productiveness of the plants, so that one who makes the strawberry, a study ever finds something new to occupy and interest his attention Those who have hitherto limited themselves to only one or two varieties, would be surprised to find how much pleasure and recreation can be obtained from a larger assortment. GREAT PROLIFIC-This beautiful new berry gives promise of becoming a very general favorite, as it possesses a combination of qualities that few varieties can boast of. Its unusual productiveness is, perhaps, as noticeable as any of these, as it has been more than once remarked by visitors, that the berries look as if they had been heaped up around the plants from baskets, in grown. The fruit averages quite large in size, is of a fine red color, and among the best in quality. As the plants thrive finely here on warm sandy soils, I am led to believe that it will also prove a desirable variety at the South. CRESCENT SEEDLING-This variety though not yielding as large berries as the previous one, yet also lays claim to being a very productive variety. The M Payne, pastor. Service at 11 a m, unusual number of quarts of fruit that Meeting for prayer at the pastor's study, the plants have produced, has already been noted in the press of the country, but it may be again stated, that it has been at the rate of over 14,000 quarts to the acre. The plants have the merit of yielding abundantly, even when growing thickly in matted rows, which is the case with very few varieties. A number of my correspondents, in different parts of the South, to whom I sent plants, by mail, last fall, also report that the Crescent Seedling succeeds finely with them, so that it promises to give satisfaction, both at the North and

PRESIDENT LINCOLN-Is a variety that stands in the very foremost rank, in point of size. The berries are very distinct in appearance from the others, being of a rich dark color, and frequently of a flattened shape. Some specimens have measured seven or eight inches around, and fully eleven inches in circumference. It does not require many of such berries to make quite a delightful feast. The plants are vigorous and produce quite abund-

CAPTAIN JACK AND MONABUL OF THE WEST-Seem to give good satisfaction at the South, and a number of my correspondents have planted them out very extensively-especially in the States of Florida, Mississippi and Texa as. The Captain Jack is excellent for shipping to distant markets, while the other seems better adapted to local fruit stands. ESSEX BEAUTY, CUM-BERLAND, TRIUMPH, BOYDEN, No. 30 and DUCHESSE are also giving good satisfaction, while SENECA QUEEN, PI-ONEER, SHARPLESS and CENTRANIAL FAVORITE, it is thought, will also prove adapted to the southern soil.

In making plantations of Strawberries, it is well to have the ground deepiy spaded or ploughed, and well en-riched. If the plants are set out in November, they will give quite a crop of fruit by the following spring, and will frequently yield berries of the lar-gest size within four or five months from the time of planting. Frequent cultivation or stirring of the soil, within six inches of the plants, is quite an assistance in obtaining these large R. H. Haines. Saugerties on-Hudson, N. Y. ..
