WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPT. 28, 1879.

The recent affairs in Yazoo and Kemper counties, Mississippi, must cerfainly induce northern capital and people to settle in the south. It is so desirable for persons who have a little regard to personal rights, that they will undoubtedly settle south so that they can enjoy the society of the Barksdales and Gullys.

Gen. Chalmers of Mississippi is out indecent as they were injudicious. with a letter to the effect that it was not proved that Gully killed Miss Corcesses, such as will forever leave its nelia Chisholm. His reasoning is of a black stain apon this region, by outpiece with that sophistry common rages, by violations of law, and by foul among the Bourbons, by which they murders, they acquired the power which constantly attempt to prove impossithey now hold in these states. Americans need a little of the French conceit to make their own goods fashonable. The French refuse everything that is not French, except raw materials, and a few articles which they do not produce and must have. The French refuse to learn foreign languages and refuse to cook a meal in foreign style. Hence all the world studies French, and, in Paris must eat French dishes and use French goods; and French industries, being encouraged by French people and Paris s cosmopolitan in only one respect, and hat is in its population: but in taste and habit, speech, food. diet, and dress, it is intensely French. In this great city, supported almost entirely by foreigners, one cannot find an Ameir can, English, German, Italian, or Spanish restaurant, notwithstanding the names Cafe Americain, Cafe Anglais, etc. It is this protection of French industries, protected by French pride that improves and maintains them and makes them fashionable. The French Government bestows the decoration of the Legion of Honor upon the Americans, assuming that it will be considered a great honor: and now it has become fashionable to scramble for uch marks of approval. When the United States assumes the
