The legislature of Ohio met on Monday last.

Kirkwood, Hunt and Lincoln are all of Garfield's Cabinet that is left.

Secretary of the Navy, Hunt, has had four wives, and they do say he is not yet happy.

The citizens of Smithville have got up a very large petition for the removal of Mr. Henry Bacon.

The President has given his subordinates to understand that the Mormon question must be settled during his administration, and the guilty brought to justice.

Congress convened on the 5th instant; a quorum being present. The members all looking well, and as if they had enjoyed a merry Christmas and happy New Year.

It is now understood that the Garfield Memorial Service will take place some time in February, in the House of Representatives, at Washington.

The value of business in Chicago, Ill., was $550,000,000 in 1873, $765,000,000 in 1879, $900,000,000 in 1880, and $1,045,000 in 1881. There will be seen a gradual but very rapid increase in the business of our great western metropolis.

The Times of Baltimore, Md., we have just received, and it is a very handsomely gotten up sheet—the editorials are able and the news lively and fresh. We hope the Times will win great success from all appearances it is deserving of it.

Gov. Blackburn, of Kentucky, has called General Barbridge of that state a murderer, and the General has demanded a retraction and an apology. We may expect hot work or a break down soon, as General Barbridge is a fighting man. Blackburn's fame was made in Nassau during the late war, trying to send the smallpox into the Federal army.

The United States public debt statement shows a deduction for the month of December, 1881, of $13,703,623 56; for the past six months of $75,197,091 69; for the year of 1881, $126,790,559 30; cash in the Treasury, $253,376,380 76; gold certificates, $5,188,120 00; silver certificates, $68,665,230; refunding certificates, $75,230 00; certificates of deposit outstanding, $5,599,000. And this is Republican management.

Quincy received very extensively on New Year's ladies and gentlemen. What a bonanza they are making of him. It will encourage others to so distinguish themselves. Instead of taking him out and hanging him to a lamp post, they are making a big man of the rascal. The resort to such treatment we are afraid will be more serious than most of these fools now expect.

Gov. W. E. Cameron, of Virginia, Lieut. Gov. J. C. Lewis and Attorney General Blair were all sworn in last Monday in Richmond. The inaugural ceremonies were very simple and quiet. These officers are entitled to the gratitude of the working people of the state of Virginia for this new order of things. None of the royal extravagant display of the Democracy. They walked to the State House and were sworn in as all Americans elected or appointed to office should.

Telegrams from Shonesville, Ohio, bring the information that on Saturday night last, the Knights of Pythias gave a festival in a large hall, in that town; a very large crowd being present—upwards of two hundred—and the floor gave way and let the whole mass down. The building was soon in flames when a horrible scene took place. Two persons were burned to death, and upwards of one hundred severely and dangerously wounded. It would seem that the frequency of such accidents that learn people to be more cautious; but it is not the case, they go on just the same, caring nothing for their lives.

Office drinkers should read the advertisement in another column headed "Good Office."

Hon. George W. Brooks, Judge of the Eastern District U. S. Circuit Court of North Carolina, died at his home in Elizabeth City on Friday last, after a lingering illness.

The correspondent of the New York Times has interviewed Democrats, Independents and Republicans on the independent movement in South Carolina. For the information of our readers we publish extracts from Gen. Hagood, a leading Democrat, Col. Gaver, an Independent, and Gen. Taff, a leading Republican.

Col. James E. Hagood, a gentleman who has the confidence of the leading men of both political parties, said he was thoroughly convinced that there was a widespread dissatisfaction with the present state of affairs in the upper part of the state. In Pickens county, for instance, more than one-half of the white people are ready to join any movement to retire the bourbon regime. He had also observed great uneasiness in political circles at the state capital, and the state officers, he believed, were "the worst scared people he ever knew."

Col. W. J. Gaver, the counted-out independent candidate for Mayor of this city, said: "South Carolinians especially in the agricultural districts, are the least self-assertive people of any state in the Union. They want as few men as possible to do the thinking for them and to rule them. New movements have been very unpopular in this state, and it will require extraordinary efforts to build up a strong independent party in existence. A new party will require strong leaders, and I know of none in the up-country willing to undertake the task who are not beset by all over with the kuklux infamy, and in the low country nearly all were tainted with the fraudulent doings of the Hampton ring. Neither could receive the requisite Republican support to make success possible." He was of the opinion that the movement should start from the Republican side by putting up good men, which would carry the decent men in the Democratic party to their aid.

General W. N. Taff, Postmaster of Charleston, thought it was too early to come to any definite conclusion as to the result of the present Democratic muddle. He believes that the passage of the stock law will drive many colored people and also some white agriculturalists out of the state, and the present exodus from Edgefield and other counties is due to injurious legislation and to the ballot brigade practiced on the colored voters.

A splendid showing for the prosperity of the United States:

The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics, in his fifth monthly statement for the current fiscal year of the imports and exports of the United States, says:

The excess of exports of merchandise was as follows:

Month ended November 30, 1881, $13,399,439.

Five months ended November 30, 1881, $45,608,717.
Five months ended November 30, 1880, $110,198,223.
Eleven months ended November 30, 1881, $143,608,683.
Eleven months ended November 30, 1880, $141,361,717.
Twelve months ended November 30, 1881, $195,123,212.
Twelve months ended November 30, 1880, $162,688,759.

The excess of imports of gold and silver coin and bullion was as follows:

Month ended November 30, 1881, $2,426,763.
Month ended November 30, 1880, $9,374,863.
Five months ended November 30, 1881, $24,498,228.
Five months ended November 30, 1880, $52,593,842.
Eleven months ended November 30, 1881, $47,218,852.
Eleven months ended November 30, 1880, $58,465,678.
Twelve months ended November 30, 1881, $62,983,036.
Twelve months ended November 30, 1880, $59,342,990.

It appears that Gen. Grant has become convinced, after a careful reading of the testimony offered in the Fitz John Porter court-martial and the documents now accessible, that Porter has been unjustly condemned. The General, in an interview with a Times reporter, Monday, expressed himself as satisfied that he had been mistaken hitherto, and that an examination of the orders and reports of the Confederate officers engaged in the second battle of Bull Run had convinced him that Porter was well informed as to the whereabouts of the rebel army, and that his movements were made intelligently, and that he did his whole duty in that disastrous affair. Possibly, the general public, uninformed as it must be concerning military matters, has received a wrong impression of the real merits of this celebrated case. It has been generally supposed that Porter disobeyed orders, setting up his individual opinion against that of his commanding officer. Perhaps the general public is all wrong in this, but it will be necessary now to show that Porter was not only right in his individual judgment, as shown by the new lights on the subject, but that he did not disobey the orders of his commanding officer. —New York Times.

The alligator is usually a sleepy looking thing, but when awake for business it is found there in some shape or form.

The Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company with wise forecast have determined to build a branch of their road from Wilson via Fayetteville to Florence, South Carolina. It is claimed that this short cut will save about seventy miles in the distance traveled by through passengers between the north and south. The building of a road on or near this line, we have regarded only as a question of time, and since its construction, must interfere somewhat with the business of the coast line, the W. & W. R. R. Company, which constitutes a very important link in that line, may be anticipating what is probably inevitable, reap advantages from the ownership of this line, and prevent an injurious competition with the coast line. Whether this be their motive or not, we cannot but regard with a friendly feeling the construction of an important line, the great railroad system from north to south, running as it will by our doors, and placing this town at once on the great highway of travel.

Mr. Bridges, the President of the W. & W. Railroad and of the W. & A. Railroad was here last week taking note of the topography of this region, and we understand that a party of engineers will soon take the field for the purpose of surveying the route. —Fayetteville Examiner.

"David Monat, a respectable man of Philadelphia, who was indicted for changing the election returns in a ward of that city, after considerable delay in the trial, finding that he could not escape the clutches of the law officers, brought his case to a termination by a full confession of his crime, hoping no doubt, in that way to lighten the penalty. But his offense was a flagrant one, and was committed with deliberation. The Judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $1,000 and spend two years in prison." —Salem Watchman.

Monat being detected, was indicted and brought to trial, like all rascals should be, and the crime of which he was charged being both proven and acknowledged, he received from an upright Judge a scathing rebuke for his wrong doing, and fined and sent to prison to punish his wicked deed. This was Republican justice.

But how stands the case with similar offences here in North Carolina, with Democrats. At the late Presidential election, false returns in several eastern counties were made by Democratic "poll-holders" and judges of election, falsifying many townships and whole counties, largely Republican, and counting them for Hancock; and more or less practiced all over the state. These unlawful and dishonest acts are notorious and well known, but no Democratic Judge has been known to charge a grand jury to investigate such cases, to protect the sacredness of the ballot in the hands of any party. Could justice be done these offenders, the prisons of the state would contain many "Monats."

It was Gen. Cox, Congressman, who telegraphed, "Hold Robeson, and save the state!" Gen. Cox, instead of being sent to prison, is sent to Congress. He and Monat stand together, according to moral principles. —Stateville American.

The verdict of the world is that Guiltan is an international and intolerable nuisance as well as a cowardly murderer. The deliberations of the jury should not occupy more than three-quarters of a minute.

A RUNAWAY LOCOMOTIVE.—A very exciting scene occurred at the W. & W. R. R. depot a few days since. A yard engine was waiting on a side track for the local freight train to come in, and in the meantime some one inadvertently changed the switch. Soon afterwards the local freight came thundering in, and of course took the side track. The consequence was that the freight engine collided with the yard engine with sufficient force to send it bounding down the track and through the warehouse, running into two cars and damaging them to some extent, and causing a wild stampede on the part of the numerous employees and others along the line of the exciting runaway. The engine was slightly damaged, but as luck would have it, no serious injury resulted.

The action of the Committee on Streets and Wharves, in contracting for new plank on the upper end of North Water street, was approved.

The Committee on Hospital reported that the hospital is now in full operation, and that during the months of November and December four hundred and two days of relief have been afforded and eleven patients still remain under treatment. The expenses for the past two months have been $691.64, the larger part of which expense was for necessary fences and repairs to the building.

A COTTON FIRE.—The fire spread got loose among a lot of cotton on the wharf between the W. & W. Railroad and the Champion Company's buildings, on Wednesday afternoon last, and created a great deal of consternation for a few minutes, but fortunately it was brought under immediate subjection before much damage was done. About eighteen or twenty bales were more or less to the extent of about $200 or $250, which was fully covered by insurance. The cotton was the property of Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son, and just left the freight train on the W. & A. R. R. Cause of the fire unknown. The first stream of water upon the flames was from the water works, though the engine was promptly at the spot. The damaged cotton was removed to the corner of Fourth and Harrell streets, in an open lot.
