TURN ON THE LIGHTS.

It costs the people of the state of North Carolina some thirty to forty thousand dollars a year to analyze a few packages of fertilizers—that is, the income of the McGee Lodging House (the Agricultural Department as now conducted) exclusive of that from the Lodgers, which should be considerable, is about the amount stated, for no public eye has ever yet fallen upon the accounts of the concern, and if anything else results from that huge expenditure we are not advised. We look with interest for the next issue of Hale & Saunders' circular. Turn on the light, gentlemen.

JARVIS VS. RANSOM.

In the Lenoir Prohibition-Democratic convention held at Kingston on the 9th inst., a resolution was introduced endorsing M. W. Ransom as United States Senator, and suggesting his re-election by the next Legislature. The Jarvis wing of the party jumped at it like a "duck after a June bug," and soon picked all the life out of it—Just so. The machine worked both ways on that occasion, but not as expected to either of these worthies.—The people would not endorse Ransom nor would they touch Jarvis. In the next Legislature neither of them will be heard of in connection with the Senatorship.

HON. CHARLES PRICE AT CLINTON.

We are informed by a gentleman who was present, that the speech of Hon. Chas. Price at Clinton was one of the most masterly efforts he had ever heard. We heard one Democrat remark that the Major was a dangerous man to turn loose in the canvass. The speech above alluded to, we are informed, was fact upon top of fact, carefully pointed and driven home at one blow and then safely clinched. It was more a political sermon than a stump speech. His reference to the Democracy picking up Horace Greeley, and then charging Liberals with being deserters brought down the house though it was composed largely of Democrats. We trust the Major will soon visit us, he is doing splendid service.

THE BEST THING THEY COULD DO.

The supplement issued by the State executive committee of the Democratic party and which has been distributed by the Democratic press of this city, is a very peculiar document. The Bourbon party, conscious that they have stolen the rights of the people in bringing about the county government system are trying to excuse their crime by attempting to show that they have made good use of their power they have exercised from the people, on the same principle of the robber when, caught, attempts to excuse himself by showing that he has made good use of the money of which he has forcibly deprived other people. We have heard of such an excuse being made in extenuation of a crime by robbers, but never before was a party guilty of an act for which it would have to make similar excuses.

A CONTEMPTIBLE SLUR.

General Leach was advertised to speak at Magnolia in company with W. H. Day, of Halifax, and E. H. King, but the orators, like the audience, were missing at both appointments. Such disregard of educational advantages by the ignorant sand-killers is greatly to be deplored.—Charlotte Journal.

To those acquainted with the inside of New Hanover county politics, it will be at once apparent which of the gentlemen named this mean fling is aimed at. Mr. E. H. King, evidently referred to, was a mechanic; his only educational advantages in early life were such as he, by dint of energy and perseverance could obtain whilst working at his trade; yet he flitted himself for a course of University Lectures, after coming out of the Confederate army, and worked at trade to pay his tuition; passed well in his class at his college, still followed his trade, read law, passed his examination at Raleigh, immediately commenced practice in Wilmington, and has made a living at it from the start. And there are gentlemen in North Carolina who will wager a good sum that he can work a problem in applied mathematics as fast as Col. A. M. Waddell can one in simple arithmetic.

But leaving all this out of the question, and considering the animus of this slur, it shows the working element of our young men that no matter how hard they apply themselves to get up in the world there is a class of people in North Carolina who will pull them down if they can, and of this class of people Col. A. M. Waddell is representative—a sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal in all the solid qualifications—an ephemeral bubble who could not stand in his profession the prick of the meanest legal novice—he to travel out of his way to slur a young mechanic whom he and his kind have learned to fear. Mr. King, under the non de plume of "Ex Reb," has hit the Waddell class of Bourbons some hard blows in the present canvass. As a young lawyer he has made a living without the aid of friends or family influence, where Col. A. M. Waddell, with all these advantages, has failed. As a writer for the press, judging Col. Waddell by his past and present performances, Mr. King has nothing to fear by comparison.

Let the go-ahead middle class of young men remember that when they like Mr. Darby and Mr. King, attempt to work their way up in the world, they have this class of people to fight—this intolerant proscriptionist—who look upon them as a power dangerous to their aristocratic rule in the land.—State Journal.

A FRAUD UPON THE PEOPLE

Judge Bennett told the people of the West, at Shelby, on the 8th inst., that the Democratic party was not wedded to any particular form of county government, and that if they did not like the present system they could instruct their members of the Legislature to vote to repeal it. We quote from the Raleigh Garbler.

Senator Vance told the people of the west, at Taylorville, on the 12th inst., that if they did not believe him or thought differently from him on the present system of county government, "you have only to instruct your representatives to vote for a change." We quote from the Stateville Landmark.

We have no doubt that the Prohibition congressional and legislative candidates in the west have been instructed to play this very game on the county government question, the object being to secure votes for the congressional candidates and to secure the legislature for the senatorial candidate, Matt Ransom. By the way that is Ransom's position on the county government question? We will bet a summer suit of clothes that he is of the opinion that there is not a man in the State fool enough to think he would answer if asked that question. Ransom is a honey—a patronizing kind of gentleman, who will pat the people of each section on the back and say, "Old fellow you 'know I am all right." But how does he stand on the county government question? It matters not to him what Bennett and Vance may say in the West, or what Green, Latham & Co. may say in the East—so long as they keep the party solid and secure the Legislature to re-elect him. Will the people be gulled in this way.

And then what have the people of the East to say of Bennett, Vance and Ransom? Do they understand that the only consideration was the election of Bennett and Ransom and the success of Vance some two years hence? Do they understand that the Democracy of the west were at liberty to come to Raleigh and vote down the present system of county government to save Bennett, Ransom and Vance, in violation of the pledge given in the Democratic platform that the East should be stood by? Or, are the people of the West to understand that a job has been put upon them in the centre and east, that when their representatives come to the Legislature instructed to vote for the repeal of the present county government system, they will find the game blocked against them and that they are nowhere? We tell the people of the East, the West, and the centre that the Prohibition-Democratic leaders are corrupt, unreliable and treacherous. All they aim at is their own advancement and the continuation of their lease of power. Where is the Eastern Prohibition press in the face of the declarations of Bennett and Ransom, quoted above? What becomes of their threats that if the present county system is meddled with there will be no more Democratic majorities in North Carolina? Has it conspired with Bennett, Vance, Ransom, & Co., to delude and deceive the people of the West. If Bennett and Vance mean what they say in the West, why do not the Prohibition-Democratic press of the East denounce them? If they mean only to deceive the western people by false promises and delusive advice, they ought to be kicked into obscurity. In either case, the people ought to watch the Bourbons, especially Ransom Vance and Jarvis.

When Will Wonders Cease.

Fellow citizens, will you be surprised when you are told that one hundred dollars was expended in the election of an alderman in a certain ward in the city of Wilmington, last election for the express design of getting a voter to saddle a thirty thousand dollar market on you, fellow citizens? Oh! will you ever purify and cleanse your ballot box where all parties loan their support to such impostors? Do you know, fellow citizens, another man was substituted for the express purpose of voting you a market you do not want, nor never will have located where it is and he, you will remember is run by the same incorporation as the New Market is run by. Will you never see until you are robbed of your last dollar in paying taxes for these moneyed Gods.

Stand up like freemen and say you will not submit any longer, and furnish a few dollars each and all to employ good and honest counsel and we will be once more free from this accursed New Market company.

LOCAL CHIPS.

—Full moon on Tuesday night.

—Our summer runaways are gradually returning home.

—The Sea-Side Park has been cleared out for this season.

—Mulletts are said to be more plentiful this season than for many years past.

—There will be no encampment of the State Guards at Raleigh during the State Fair.

—The Champion Concrete Company commenced the season's work on Wednesday last.

—Messrs. Kirkwood & Haver, steamboat inspectors, were in the city during the past week, looking well.

—What is that which never asks any questions but requires many answers? The street door.

—Reports received daily, leaving no doubt of Hon. William F. Coudery being elected to Congress from this district.

—The boys were on the free hunt for marbles at Otterberg's clothing store, on last Monday morning, bright and early.

—Messrs. E. P. Mitchell, G. J. Bowser and J. H. Pemberton are announced on the Grand Committee of the Prohibition Conference.

—The next annual meeting of the Sabbath School Association will be held in Winston, N. C.

—The Sovereigns Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, which has been in session at Beaufort, N. C., adjourned on Wednesday Sept. 20th.

—The sixty-third annual session of the Prohibition Society of North Carolina, will convene at Asheville, N. C., on the 23rd inst.

Those who are not for the Democratic candidates in this most important campaign are inevitably against them.—Wm. Star.

Right, Solomon, and there is a pile of the boys not for them. And how does this seem to our war Solomon? Those who were not against prohibition last year were for it. Still 40,000 Democrats voted for prohibition on that occasion, and were not against it, and were therefore for it. Not a single one of our Democratic Senators and representatives in congress were openly opposed to prohibition and they were therefore all in favor of it (some of them openly). Not a single state officer was openly opposed to prohibition, and they were therefore all in favor of it. Your role, Solomon, must be made to work both ways, and these conclusions have not been reached by "Document No. 1," nor by "Saunders' and Hale's Circular."—State Journal.

CITY ITEMS.

Death of Mr. W. B. Orr.

It is with pain that we are called upon to chronicle the death of the above named gentleman, who was formerly manager of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Agency of this city, at his home in Owickie, Russell county, Alabama. He left here some months ago, with the intention of recuperating his health in Western North Carolina, but he contracted malaria in health so fast that he was taken to his home, where he died of consumption. He was a member of Stoneval Lodge, K. of P., of this city, and was also a member of the endowment rank. He leaves his wife and children an endowment of $5,000. "God rest his soul."

Personal.

We had the pleasure of meeting Hon. Wm. A. Gurie, of Fayetteville, Liberal-Republican candidate, and ex-Judge of that district, in our city during the past week. He was looking well, and gave us good accounts from the county of Cumberland.

Ice Famine.

There has been almost an ice famine in this city for some days past; however it is not the fault of the ice dealers. Mr. Adams has a cargo now over due, and Messrs. Davis & son have one now due, both of which are daily expected. In the mean time the gentlemen operating our leads of ice from Norfolk, which has advanced the price from one and a half cents per pound, in consequence of the additional costs to them in getting it here.

A Big haul.

Messrs. W. R. Davis & Son, made a big haul on Friday last of their Fisheries on Federal Point. They caught about 100 large drum which would average three feet in length, besides an almost equal number of other large fish, among which was one of the strange fish similar to that caught by these gentlemen sometime ago, and pronounced by Prof. Baird, at Washington, D. C., to be a tarpon. These are the only two specimens of the tarpon ever captured in these waters.

Death of Mr. J. A. Beattie.

Again we are called upon to announce the death of a friend, Mr. J. A. Beattie, a postal clerk between this place and Charles City, N. C., died in the latter place on Monday last of consumption. Mr. B. has been employed on this route for some years, but was compelled a few months ago to resign on account of ill health, then failing health. He was a native of Pennsylvania and was in the 4th year of his age. His body passed through this city on Tuesday night last, on a special car for his funeral. He leaves a family to mourn his loss.

Capture of an Escaped Convict.

It will be remembered by some of our readers that a notice appeared in our paper some time back, of the escape of one Chas. King from the workhouse, where he was confined for larceny. At the time of his escape, Mr. George, the superintendent of the workhouse, reported $300 worth of larceny, but since discovered that the workhouse was not so secure as it was supposed to be. Mr. King was in the city, accordingly he followed up the trail until he reached the residence of Mrs. King, at the house of Henry King, Jr., and they were taken. Mr. King was then taken to the city and is now in the city jail.

COL. STAPLES' SPEECH.

The Republicans Annihilated. The Bloods' Ticket.

Col. Staples spoke Wednesday night from the stand on Third street, to an audience of about 250 white voters, 100 colored and 50 boys.

The Col. opened by paying a handsome tribute to old ocean, which he said he had seen for the first time, and which, from his short acquaintance, he was inclined to be very friendly with, (this shows that some of the Col. has never known the delights of sea sickness.)

The Col. then branched off on the short coming and failures of the Republican party, but did not, amongst the latter, charge any failure to carry elections on a fair count. He was necessarily severe on the Revenue officers, and said a poor man in the political category, he then contrasted it with the great, good, pure, and show while Democratic party, the party that built all the rail roads, issued all the money, gave the negroes a whole acre of land in Raleigh, paid all the taxes, and caused the plentiful crops that have blessed the land, and got money for tax bond money from Littlefield.

In an anecdote he likened the Democratic party to a corpse that would only awaken on election morning; this was probably caused by his canvassing experience, which we understand he says has not been enthusiastic or lively.

But the most interesting portion of his speech was the "tatty" part when he appealed to "ye men of the Cape Fear" by their blood and lineage to arise and go in to the good work. Your reporter saw several gentlemen on the stand straighten themselves up and look around at the crowd as much as to say, "ah, that is intended for me," and the smile of self-complacency that overspread their countenances, would have done credit to Lord Mansfield, when.

"I have looked him Lord of Justice," Of Lutherwald, and Scryveby, of Xanthor Tower, and Town."

But when he alluded to the generations of their ancestors, sleeping on the banks of the placid Cape Fear, it was as much as some of the Colonists and Majors could do to keep from sneezing. In the speech the Col. had evidently taken his cue from a knowing one, for there is one species of "tatty" the average Cape Fear "blood" takes kindly to, that species is his blood and extensive lineage, and when reference is made to their long life (100 years at greatest) and their "tatty" in the "revolution" or sold proceeds to the common herd, they feel far greater than one of the famous Howard family, when his titles are loudly announced by the Court clerk on his entrance into the presence of Royalty. A careful observer could notice the increased tension on the vest buttons, and the rigidity of the muscles of the neck, of about a dozen middle aged descendants of the long line of dead tradesmen whose ashes the Col. apostrophized.

The Col. has made friends here, they will never forget him for interjecting that sweet morsel to his speech. Had he been a Republican they could have forgiven him for that. It was so appropriate and showed such an appreciation of their presence by distinguishing them from the rest of the citizens of the state. Your reporter heard one gentleman, whose father made a small fortune selling "dry salt" to the negroes, but who is now first class, packed against leakage and breakage, we heard this gushing youth remark that the Col. was evidently a gentleman of culture and eloquence. We knew at once that he had been charged with the Col's speech, and some of it had stuck to his teeth, for to convince us that he was a judge of the necessary qualifications of a gentleman, he, though with hearing of two ladies, was not over choice in the selection of his epithets.

Had it all passed to the satisfaction of the bloods and the delight of the colored boys around the fire, and as it did not lose the Liberals or Republicans any votes everybody is pleased.

Breaking of Ground by a Mass of Beanties.

A high tide is expected at Point Caswell on Tuesday next, when the breaking of ground for the Point Caswell and Clinton Railroad, will take place. Good numbers have been invited for the occasion, and it is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance to witness the young ladies commence the work.

The following ladies from Sampson, Hatteras, Currituck and New Hanover counties have been chosen for the purpose of breaking ground:

Sampson county—Misses Con Murphy, Mattie Corbett, Katie Boykin, Fannie Boykin, Sue Herring, Mattie Herring, Mattie Shaw, Minnie Dewitt, Ellen Funnell, Rosa Funnell, Anna Lee, H. S. Johnson, Anna Moseley, Dettish Funnell.

Hatteras county—Misses Sue Williams, Helen Fallow, Nellie Fallow, Minnie Newberry.

Currituck county—Misses Maggie Cramer, Katie Cramer, Emma Cramer, Mollie Cramer, Mollie Cramer, Mattie Thompson, Mary J. Andrews, Mattie Henry.

New Hanover county—Misses Mattie Henry, Mattie Alderman, Mollie Hall, Della Moore, Katie Tate, Annie Durbine, Helen Smith, Emily Williams, Cora Moore, Mary Murphy, Lillian Moore, Cora Moore, Mollie Moore, Maggie Murphy, Louisa Murphy, Chas. Murphy, Mattie Thompson, Ollie Simpson, Ada Corbin, Helen Murphy, Maggie Funnell, Katie Funnell, Fannie Cramer, Emma Cramer, Mattie Thompson.

Army Matters.

Gen. McDowell, now in command of the military service of the Post, will be relieved by Major-General in October under the compulsory provision of the army appropriation bill. Gen. Stedman will be assigned as his successor, and recently appointed General Devens will be assigned as his successor. Gen. Stedman will be relieved when it is determined that he is to be relieved of his command. McDowell will remain at his post until relieved.

Baltimore's Ordeal.

The three day's festival of the mystic order of "Oziris" closed on the night of the 14th with a grand spectacular procession, witnessed by many thousands of visitors, and an immense throng of citizens. All along the route, a distance of four miles, hundreds of stands and platforms, which had been erected for the occasion, the streets were filled for some hours of the march. The streets were brilliantly illuminated with electric lights, and the display of flags and gaudy banners in the flash of electric light, presented a most beautiful display. Only a few bands of music, and other newspaper buildings, attracted general attention and admiration.

John D. Stoljes.

Our young friend of the "North Carolina House," whose advertisement will be found by reference to our advertisement columns, wishes to inform his friends that he has reopened his restaurant—where everything in his line can be had. He further desires us to state that if he is not always on hand himself, he has a "Foggy" who is only too willing to make everything comfortable for his guests. Give a call.

New Firm.

A new firm has been formed in this city by Messrs. S. Dryden and H. Sternberger for the purpose of carrying on the shoe business. These gentlemen have both gone North for the purpose of selecting their stock. They say their stock will consist of everything in the latest styles, and that they will offer them at the very lowest prices. In fact, they intend to suit every body in both style and price. They are both old hands at the business, and we wish them success.

After All Else Failed.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23, 1881.

H. H. WARNER & Co.: Sir—I exhausted all other remedies for kidney and liver disease, only to find complete cure in your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. S. CHAMBERLAIN.

NOTICE.

I would respectfully ask my city subscribers to be ready in the future to pay up when I call to see them, and thereby save me the trouble. The Post is only $3.00 per year, payable in advance. We cannot carry DEAD HEADS. W. M. N. SMITH, City Agent.
