JUST AND TRUE.

The New England Journal of Education says: "One of the wisest benefactors in the north is Mrs. Mary Hem menway, of Boston. Mrs. Hemmenway is well known in her own city by her munificent gifts in various directions for industrial, charitable, and ed ucational purposes. A large number of the public school teachers of the city enjoy the excellent course of scientific becauses at the Institute of Technology through her bounty. Fifteen years ago Mrs. Hemmenway built the beautiful Tileston school house, at Wilmington, N.C. in which Miss Amy Bradley has wrought her wonderful success smong the poor white people of that locality. Two years ago she established a little school on an estate of her own at Brambleton, a suburb of Norfolk, Va. Under the management of Miss Newton, of Greenfield, Mass., assisted by Miss Sawyer and Mass Bush, this school of 100 children, has become a model for the whole region. Its benevolent foun der hasset apart a beautiful pine grove on the edge of Norfolk as the site of a great school building in which Miss Newton's seminary uny be developed, with the most approved industrial surroundings."

THE CONFEDERACY LIVETH

The Republican National Committee should pay the expenses of Father Ryan and, if necessary, a good bonus to him, to have his fecture delivered all over the country. By doing this, not only would the cause of liberalism and nationality be advanced, but the canse of truth as well. Father Ryan as a political propagandist is no fraud. And herein is the radical difference between him and the other bourbon leaders. He talks out, with his mouth wide open, what they choke down, or express with muddy explanation or hypocritical apology.

His recent lecture in this city was a model of genuine bourbon simplicity. his youngest surviving son is at the He says she "south" is what he calls "our country," and the "north" is "their country;" that the two represent two conflicting, irrepressible, and adversary civilizations; that the south is all that is good and pure; the north all that is mercenary, selfish, mean, cowardly and brutal; that the so-called lost cause was right, and is right to day, and that its so-called."principles" must ultimately succeed. Utterances like these are received with applause by crowded houses in southern cities. Yet there are people in the north who preand to be fools enough to believe that wuthern bourbons are true to the country the constitution and the flag.
