THE EVENING REVIEW.

VOL. 1.

WILMINGTON, N. C., MONDAY, JUNE 19, 1876:

NO. 234.

PLEASE NOTICE.
We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but:
The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editors.
Communications must be written only on one side of the paper.
Personalities must be avoided.
It is especially and particularly understood that the editors do not always endorse the views of correspondents, unless so stated in the editorial columns.

THE FIRST GUN:

Reception of Governor Vance at Home—Grand Demonstrations and speeches from Vance and Steele.

The Charlotte Observer of Friday gives a glowing account of the reception of Hon. Z. B. Vance, our nominee for Governor, at his home in Charlotte, Thursday evening.

A self-appointed committee having been appointed in response to a telegram from Raleigh, yesterday morning, that Gov.
Vance would be home last night on the 9.20 train, bills were printed and circulated upon the streets, calling for a ratification meeting in Independence Square upon his arrival. Long before the train came tar barrels were set on fire in the square, and a large and eager crowd gathered upon the wet streets and anxiously waited for the train to come in order that they might hear what their distinguished townsman had to say after the honor with which the people had just crowned him.

A delegation was in waiting at the depot when the train came with a six horse platoon, drawn by six grey horses, Gov.
Vance, Col. Steele, Capt. Waring and Sheriff R. S. Harris, of Cabarrus, were driven to the square, when, as soon as they appeared, the band struck up, and amid the music and in the light of the bonfires shout after shout of "hurrah for Vance" rent the air. When the vehicle came to a halt the enthusiastic multitude gathered around it as though they had never before seen the man whom they had assembled to honor. Amid continued applause the speakers were conducted to the stand which had been erected for the occasion on a street corner, and Capt. Waring rising upon this, introduced to the vast audience, in a few exceedingly tasteful remarks, "North Carolina's favorite son, the tribune of the people, Zebulon B. Vance." He rose, and for fifteen minutes spoke to their delight. He was too tired to make them a long speech. So continued had been the evidence of the partiality and kindness which his fellow-citizens felt for him that since he left home last Monday morning he had had almost no rest all. He had been the recipient of the most flattering demonstrations at Raleigh, and all along the way thence to Charlotte, and had been spoiled by popular applause to the extent that his clothes had become too small for him. At Durham, Greensboro, Salisbury and Concord, the people had turned out to greet him, and at the latter place they gathered at the depot with sky rockets, bottles of whiskey and things, and because the train would not stop long enough for him to make them a speech, some of them had gotten on the train and gone along with him. He had not expected this demonstration, for it had been said that a "prophet is not without honor save in his own country," and hitherto it had seemed to him that the farther he got from home the greater man he was.

As regards the convention which had placed him before the people it was the largest that had ever assembled in the state. Fully 1,000 delegates were present, and every county save one was represented. In point too, of intelligence and character, it was highly respectable, and the unanimity which had pervaded its deliberations was remarkable. Individual interests and local interests were discarded, and those who were believed to be the strongest men were placed on the ticket, regardless of any of these things.

Everything presages success. Caudin men, and men who were not extravagant; had told him that the ticket would sweep the state by 20,000 majority, and it remains with the people to verify this prediction. He thanked his fellow-citizens here and elsewhere for the handsome testimonials which they had offered of their confidence in and regard for them, and with this would introduce a fresh dog, our candidate for Congress, Col. Walter L. Steele, who was not so much exhausted as he. Col. Steele referred to what had been said about the workings of the convention, and told more than Gov. Vance's modesty would allow him to tell. The speaker had never seen such an assemblage or such a fixedness of purpose, and a ticket which would win had been put out. It was unnecessary here to speak of the head and front of that ticket, and almost unnecessary to speak of any of the other candidates, for nearly all were gentlemen who were well known throughout the state. Jarvis had been a member of the legislature during the progress of reconstruction, and standing on the floor of the House, backed by but a handful of men, he had battled with the cohorts of radicalism and for constitutional liberty. Engelhard, Kemm, Scarborough, Worth and Love, were all spoken of in terms of high praise, and it was remarked that this was Samuel L. and not Levi Love, as had been supposed elsewhere and no doubt here. While speaking of Dr. Worth, Col. Steele took occasion to say that this gentleman had told him that so far from there being any truth in the report that Gov. Vance could not carry the strength of Randolph, he was stronger than any twenty men in the State. Col. Steele told the people that they would hear of him during the campaign, and that for the present he would not detain them.

Last night was an appropriate opening of the campaign in Mecklenburg. Both of the speeches were stirring campaign addresses, and the happy tidings brought from Raleigh inspire the people here with high hopes. The political skies are bright, and a brighter prospect stretches out to us than ever before.

Hell on Scratching.

Returning home Gov. Vance was introduced to an entire camp meeting of people at Durham by C. E. Parish of Hillsboro. Vance explained that he was returning home from a funeral at Raleigh and felt completely exhausted from burying Radicals, that they were buried with face down, and if ever they attempted to scratch out they would go the other way.
He vouched for the delegates aboard that all were in good spirits and a few were sober.—Raleigh News.

Mayor Canaday arrived home from Cincinnati this morning.

A lovelier or more pleasant day than this can hardly be desired.

More rain yesterday, opening about day-break, with a perfect storm of rain, thunder and lightning.

Always pick out a bald headed barber to shave you, because he can't consistently ask you to buy a hair restorer.

We learn from a very reliable source that Mr. J. J. Cassidy has been reinstated in his position as U. S. Commissioner.

There were several cases up before Mayor Canaday this morning, but they were all continued over until to-morrow morning.

An English doctor says that a strong, passionate love will bring on heart-disease.
Remember this, young ladies, and love wisely and lazily.

And now comes a woman who, to outdo her fashionable sisters with their twenty lutton gloves, has invented and wears forty button stockings.

There have been three internments in Oakdale Cemetery during the present week, two adults and one child. Diseases, consumption and heart disease.

A certain young gent we know of wants a situation as a son-in-law in some wealthy family. Although he has no experience in this line, he is sanguine of giving satisfaction.

It's the ladies' turn now. Those who have had their trailing dresses damaged and torn by clumsy gentlemen can now take their revenge by stepping on the gentlemen's trailing pantaloons.

A machine has been invented, after a study of ten years, for making seamless paper boxes. It rolls them from the pulp and will make 600 an hour, no matter whether they are large or small, round or square.

The Davidson Record is to be a campaign newspaper of the usual campaign size, for Davidson county, published weekly, at Lexington, until after the returns of the election in November next.
We wish it much success.

We learn, just before going to press, that Mr. Foard has engaged several female servants to go on the excursion to-morrow, for the purpose of waiting on the ladies.
In this connection we would also say that the two parlor cars are provided with ladies' dressing-rooms.

An English writer says that in the case of fire in buildings containing horses, if the harness be merely put on, however loosely, the horses will quit the place without difficulty. A knowledge of this may be the means of saving many a valuable animal.

Let's All Go.

We have concluded to let the Review newspaper slip slide for a few days while we take a small dose of the late lamented H. G.'s advice and go West.
We expect to make, figuratively speaking, (two hearts with but a single thought, you know) one of the passengers on the excursion train which leaves here to-morrow morning for the mountains. We have closely inspected the arrangements and have studied the schedule carefully and have come to the conclusion that we shall (D. V.) crowd about one month's solid and comfortable enjoyment into the next three days. And we hope and believe that there will be a good many more along who will appreciate the opportunity as thoroughly as we are determined to do. Let's all go.

The Yankee Blade.

Harry Hazel's paper, the Yankee Blade, comes to us this week with the initial chapters of a new and intensely interesting story of a hundred years ago, entitled "Rebels and Tories; or, the Siege of Fort Moultrie. By Harry Hazel." It will prove both pleasant and seasonable reading matter in this Centennial year. Terms $2.50 a year. Address Jones & Co., 4 Liberty Square, Boston.

Pass It Along.

The Reidsville Times and Mercury takes us to task for a little inaccuracy in miscrediting an article taken from that paper.
We plead guilty to the soft impeachment, and in turn rap our friends of the Wadesboro Argus on the knuckles for the cool manner in which they appropriated one of our most labored editorials as a leader in their last issue, and that, too, without cracking a smile. Now, let the Argus men pass it along and let somebody else and see how long it will take to knock us all down.

Weather Report.

From the Signal Office in this city we obtain the following report of the state of the thermometer this morning at 7:35 o'clock, Washington mean time, at the various stations named below:

Augusta, Ga., 73, fair; Cairo, Ill., 61, clear; Charleston, 79, clear; Cape Henry, 77, fair; Cincinnati, 73, fair; Corsicana, 64, cloudy; Fort Gibson, 58, fair; Galveston, 77, cloudy; Indianola, 79, cloudy; Jacksonville, 81, fair; Key West, 83, fair; Knoxville, 59, clear; Lynchburg, Va., 68, clear; Memphis, 69, fair; Mobile, 72, cloudy; Montgomery, 67, cloudy; Nashville, 69, clear; New Orleans, 74, fair; New York, 69, cloudy; Norfolk, 82, Pittsburgh, 65, fair; Punta Rassa, 69, cloudy; Savannah, 84, clear; Shreveport, 66, cloudy; St. Louis, 60, cloudy; St.
Marks, Fla., 74, fair; Vicksburg, 70, cloudy; Washington, 73, fair; Wilmington, 75, fair.

The June Galaxy.

The Galaxy for July opens appropriately with a fine Centennial ode, after which comes Mr. Headley's sketch of "Washington's Headquarters at Newburgh," wherein we are introduced to the father of his country as he appeared in private life. Albert Rhodes conducts us to the East on a tour among the Belouin Arabs. "Archer and Prince" is the rather odd title of an article upon Science and Religion, and the modern conflict between them as affected by the teachings of Swe-denborg. Mr. John Burroughs is represented by a delightful article upon poetry as an art, and critically weighs the merits of some of the favorite poets of the modern school. Mr. Wirt Sikes presents a sketch of the cabinman, as he has known him in New York, London, and Paris.— Another article which will be appreciated by literary men and students is Mr. Hudson's sketch of the great Cyclopedias in the various languages of the world.— There are the usual number of short stories and poems. The departments of Science, Gossip, and Current Literature are as varied and attractive as usual.

Centennial Pencil.

In this Centennial year, of course every thing must be Centennial, i. e. to say, every new fashion or new invention must be preceded by the word Centennial; for instance, the latest style of a chapeau is called the Centennial hat, and the latest style of envelope which Postmaster Brink has for sale is called the Centennial envelope, and so on of the numerous articles and things that our merchants and shopkeepers have on hand which they would like to dispose of. But the cutest thing that we have heard of yet, in this one hundredth year of our independence, is what is known as the Centennial pencil.
The merits claimed for it by the owner of the one which we were shown is, that by writing almost any color you may desire—blue, red, green or black.

The gentleman who has this pencil in his possession and who, we presume, has the sole agency of it, has not advertised with us, otherwise we should have no hesitation in giving his name. But this much we will do for him inasmuch as he was kind enough to exhibit to us his little trinket: we will state that he is a large, portly gentleman, with a fine physique and handsome features. He is a returned Raleigh delegate, i. e., he has just returned from Raleigh, but is not a candidate for anything except, perhaps, matrimony. Any one wishing to provide themselves with one of the above-named pencils had best call on the agent as early as possible, or otherwise there will be no need of calling.

U. S. Commissioner's Court.

It will be remembered that a few months ago certain parties living in Brunswick county were arrested and held to bail for their appearance before U. S.
Commissioner J. J. Cassidy on a charge of plundering a vessel that had been stranded on the beach in Brunswick county.

This case, which has excited considerable interest, will come up for a hearing before Commissioner Cassidy, in this city, on Wednesday, the 21st inst., when and where the matter will be fully investigated.

What a Kerosene Can Can and Did Do.

In front of this Office, about 3 o'clock this afternoon, a small son of Africa was observed with a kerosene can in his hand, wending his way, no doubt, to some neighboring store to have it replenished, when he was seen to suddenly stop, and striking a match, deliberately inserted it into the mouth of the can when, to his astonishment, the can kicked against the fiery ordeal in the form of a sharp report.
It is unnecessary to remark in this connection that the boy now wears a much-burnt hand. Moral—Let everybody remember that a kerosene can is dangerous, without "lock, stock or barrel."

Corpus Christi.

On last Thursday, the Catholic Church celebrated what is known in the Roman Calendar as Corpus Christi, or the Festival of the body of Christ, and yesterday being within the octave of that feast, there was a procession of the sacred Host, immediately after Vesper hour. The officiating clergyman, Rev. Father White, holding the Host, and preceded by a number of young ladies in white, with flowers in hand, and crowns on their heads, moved round the three aisles of the Church, and then went into the sanctuary and deposited the Host in its receptacle on the altar, when it was left for the adoration of the faithful.

Father White also preached a very fine sermon on the "Institution of the Blessed Sacrament."

The Excursion to the Mountains.

To-morrow is the day set down for the great excursion from Wilmington to the Mountains, under the management of Mr.
Robert O. Foard.

At that gentleman's request, we paid a visit to the Carolina Central Depot this morning, for the purpose of looking at the train of cars fitted out for this "Centennial Excursion" and we must say that when that train leaves Wilmington to-morrow, it will be the finest one that has yet passed over this road. There are in all six coaches, one for the refreshments, three other life cars and two very handsome pilot-cars. The front coach will be the one in which refreshments will be served out by Mr. Reuben Jones and his assistants and the others will be for the use of passengers. All means have been employed to prevent accident, and that no one may fall in passing from one car to another, there will be a platform extending from one end of the train to the other, with a rope on either side. The train was undergoing a thorough cleansing this morning, and will be all neat and comfortable for those who embark on the excursion to-morrow, under the care of the gentlemanly conductor, Capt. F. M.
Wooten.

Lightning Freaks.

Early Sunday morning, during the time that the storm was passing over this city, the residence of Mr. John McLaurin, on the corner of Seventh and Orange streets, was struck by lightning. The shock awoke Mr. and Mrs. McLaurin, and not knowing what it was, Mrs. McLaurin went to see if her children, who were sleeping in an adjoining room, were all right; upon going into the room she found it full of smoke and impregnated with a sulphurous odor; she called her husband, who looked around to see if anything had caught fire but finding no light, the two went into the kitchen which adjoins the house, and discovered that lightning had struck the chimney oblique-ly, and then ran down a stove pipe to the stove, scattering the utensils, and separating the stove in several parts; it then passed on to a cupboard about three feet distant, breaking several articles and then went out at the side of the house, breaking the plastering in several places. The damage, we understand, can be covered by a few dollars.

He Just Wrapped the Sheet and the Spread around him this morning in multi-tudinous folds and lay there shivering with one eye open, inditing a new ode to "Hail! Gentle Spring."

Riddles.

- For the Review.
1. Why is a vain young lady like a drunkard?
 2. Why is a lady unlike a mirror?
 3. What is a deceitful part of a lady's dress?
 4. Why are dumb lovers like the most ardent of lovers?
 5. Which is the most modest piece of furniture?
 6. Where may happiness be found?
 7. Why is a washerwoman inconsistent in bad weather?
 8. Why is a thief in a garret like an honest man?
 9. Why is a clergyman's horse like the Queen?
 10. Why is "Blindman's Buff" like sympathy?

Syllables.

11. Under my first my second stands; My whole is applied to a lord's commands.
12. My first is wild, my second tame; My whole it has an evil name.
13. The place where students burn the midnight oil.
14. My first and last are ever green;
My whole throughout the year is seen.
