NON-RECEIPT OF PROVISIONS.

The members of this Journal will bear testimony to our uniform liberality in dealing with those whom held, whether of political or social privileges have made to differ from us in our views of the policy of the national government and the

While we regret the failure of the article, and direct particular attention to it, we trust and fully admit that the government comprised of various in this country is only to a very limited extent. And yet there are those here who yield with alacrity to a bad cause, to the very order of things.

As an instance there is one of our editors. The liberality of this spirit is one of the basis of our republicanism. The history of a nation that has been subjected to the three or four years past and
