

JAMES MADISON,
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
OF AMERICA.
To all and singular to whom these Presents come Greeting:

WHEREAS a Convention between the United States of America and His Britannic Majesty, to regulate the commerce between the Territories of the United States and of His Britannic Majesty, was signed at London on the third day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifteen, by the plenipotentiaries respectively appointed for that purpose, which convention is in the words following, to wit:

A CONVENTION.

To Regulate the Commerce between the Territories of the United States and of His Britannic Majesty.

The United States of America, & His Britannic Majesty being desirous by a convention to regulate the commerce and navigation between their respective Countries, Territories, and People, in such a manner as to render the same reciprocally beneficial and satisfactory, have respectively named plenipotentiaries and given them full powers to treat of and conclude such convention, that is to say, the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, hath appointed for their Plenipotentiaries John Quincy Adams, Henry Clay, and Albert Gallatin, citizens of the United States, and on behalf of His Majesty, has named for his plenipotentiaries the Right Honourable Frederick John Robinson, Vice President of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade & Plantations, Joint Paymaster of his Majesty's forces, and a Member of the Imperial Parliament, Henry Goulburn Esq; a Member of the Imperial Parliament, and the Under Secretary of State, and William Adams, Esq; Doctor of Civil Laws—and the said Plenipotentiaries having mutually produced and shown their said full powers and exchanged copies of the same, have agreed on and concluded the following articles, videlicet:

ART. FIRST.

There shall be between the territories of the United States of America, and all the territories of his Britannic Majesty in Europe, reciprocal liberty of commerce. The inhabitants of the two countries respectively, shall have liberty freely to come with their ships and cargoes to all such places, ports, and rivers, in the territories aforesaid, to which other foreigners are permitted to come, to enter into the same, and to remain and reside in any parts of the said territories respectively; also to hire and occupy houses and warehouses for the purposes of their commerce, and generally, the merchants and traders of each nation respectively, shall enjoy the most complete protection and security for their commerce—but subject always to the laws and statutes of the two countries respectively.

ART. SECOND.

No higher or other duties shall be imposed on the importation into the United States of any articles, the growth, produce or manufacture of his Britannic Majesty's territories of Europe, and no higher, or other duties shall be imposed on the importation of his Britannic Majesty in Europe of any articles, the growth, produce, or manufacture of the U. States; nor, or shall be payable on the exportation of any articles to the United States, or to his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe respectively than such as are payable on the exportation of the like articles to any other foreign country; nor shall any higher or other duties or charges be imposed by either of the two countries, on the exportation of any articles to the United States, or to his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe respectively than such as are payable on the exportation of the like articles to any other foreign country; nor shall any prohibition be imposed on the importation of any articles the growth, produce or manufacture of the U. States, or of his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe, to or from the said territories of his Britannic Majesty in Europe, or to or from the said U. States, which shall not equally extend to all other nations.

ART. FOURTH.

It shall be free, for each of the two contracting parties, respectively to appoint consuls, for the protection of trade, to reside in the dominions and territories of the other party, but before any consul shall act as such, he shall in the usual form be approved and admitted by the government to which he is sent, and it is hereby declared that in case of illegal or improper conduct towards the laws or government of the country to which he is sent, such consul may either be punished according to law, if the laws will reach the case, or be sent back, the offended government assigning to the other the reasons for the same.

The same duties shall be paid on the importation into the U. States of any articles, the growth, produce or manufacture of his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe, whether such importation shall be in vessels of the United States or in British vessels, and the same duties shall be paid on the importation into the ports of any of his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe, of any article, the growth, produce, or manufacture of the U. States, whether such importation shall be in British vessels, or in vessels of the U. S.

The same duties shall be paid, and the same bounties allowed, on the exportation of any articles, the growth, produce or manufacture of his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe to the United States, whether such exportation be made in vessels of the United States, or in British vessels; and the same duties shall be paid and the said bounties allowed, on the exportation of any articles, the growth, produce or manufacture of the U. States, to his Britannic Majesty's territories in Europe, whether such exportations shall be made in British vessels, or in vessels of the U. S.

It is further agreed that in all cases where drawbacks are or may be allowed, upon the re-exportation of any goods the growth, produce or manufacture of either countries respectively, the amount of the said drawbacks shall be the same, whether the said goods shall have been originally imported in a British or American vessel—but when such re-exportation shall take place from the United States in a British vessel, or from the territories of His Britannic Majesty in Europe in an American vessel, to any other foreign nation the two contracting parties reserve to themselves, respectively named plenipotentiaries and given them full powers to treat of and conclude such convention, that is to say, the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, accepted, ratified and confirmed the same, and every clause and article thereof, subject to the exception contained in a Declaration made by the authority of His Britannic Majesty on the 24th day of November last, a copy of which Declaration is hereunto annexed.

In testimony whereof, I have caused the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed, and have done this day of January,

ART. THIRD.

His Britannic Majesty agrees that the vessels of the United States of America shall be admitted, and hospitably received at the principal settlements of British dominions in the East Indies vide licet, Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Prince of Wales' Island, and that the citizens of the United States may freely carry on trade between the said principal settlements and the said United States, in all articles in which the importation and exportation respectively, to and from the said territories shall not be entirely prohibited; provided only, that it shall not be lawful for them in any time of war, between the British government and any state or power whatever, to export from the said territories, without the special permission of the British government any military or naval stores, or rice. The citizens of the U. States shall pay for their vessels, when admitted, no higher or other duty or charge than shall be payable on the vessels of the most favored European nations, and the shall pay no higher or other duties on the importation or exportation of the cargoes of the said vessels, than shall be payable on the same articles when imported or exported in the vessels of the most favored European nation.

But it is expressly agreed, that the vessels of the United States shall not carry any articles from the said principal settlements to any port or place, except to some port or place in the United States of America, where the same shall be unladen.

It is also understood, that the permission granted by this article, is not to extend to allow the vessels of the U. States to carry on any part of the coasting trade of the said British territories; but the vessels of U. States, having, in the first instance, proceeded to one of the said principal settlements of the British dominions in the East Indies, and then going with their original cargoes or part thereof, from one of the said principal settlements to another, shall not be considered as carrying on the coasting trade. The vessels of the U. States may also touch for refreshment, but not for commerce in the course of their voyage to or from the British territories in India, or to or from the dominions of the Emperor of China, at the Cape of Good Hope, the Island of St. Helena, or such other places as may be in the possession of G. Britain, in the African or Indian seas, it being well understood, that in all that regards this article, the citizens of the United States shall be subject, in all respects, to the laws and regulation of the British government from time to time established.

(Signed)
