Wm. L. Palmer, Tuesday, June 11th. The immediate vicinity of the Mayor's Court Room this morning, was completely blocked up by an avalanche of human beings, drawn thither, by a case intrinsically frivolous, creating an excitement about the police office, entirely without precedent, collecting a crowd the portals of the Court Room, to listen to the details of a brawl between Gideon Eborn and Walter Bray. This quarrel was in the market and set on foot by a difference of opinion in regard to a combat between two chanticleers, in which a stick was brandished by Eborn, and a butcherknife by Bray, with an accompaniment of violent expletives and vulgar and obscene denunciations.

As no one was hurt, and no assault made, His Honor dismissed the case, but warned the parties arraigned not to appear before him again, or they would be fined.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12. Wade Kelly, a pugnacious boy, for capsizing a pale of milk on the head of Noah Willis. a diminutive youth, was fined $2 which his employer paid, who sent Wade home to work on the garden grounds.

"Her hair hung round her pallid cheeks

Like sea weed round a clam. Mrs. Stevenson was presented to His Honor this morning, on a charge of a breach of decorum and bad behaviour, enacted on the premises where she resides on Broad street. The charge was preferred by Lucy Brock, who accupies a room in the same tenement. Mrs. L., who could not brook the law's delay, and wait for a writ of ejectment, endeavored to annihilate Lucy by a broadside of verbose vulgarity.

"So vengeful in her frenzy Like the Hyrcanian tiger in an angry mood," As no one was hurt, and the disturbance occurred within the domicile, His Honor decided he had nothing to do with the matter, nor the right to put Lucy out on the street, as Mrs. Stevenson desired him to do; consequently the case was dismissed and the de fendant warned not to make her reappearance. in that audience hall again, or she would be fined. Thereupon she sailed out of the Court Room, like a clipper ship close hauled upon a wind, giving vent to her unrestrained disgust and malevolence against all "nigger protectors," and berating the Mayor in unmeasured terms

HALF STARVED DOGS -- A grand raid was attempted last evening on a legion of half starved dogs, who went down on the Middle street market. These dogs certainly had been fasting-dogs, no doubt, who had seen better days, but by freaks of fortune had lost the prestige of their former glory.

These dogs are faithful, they are kind-Their tails stick out behind-Beef cannot drive them away. They have no meat to est, And are lazy on their feet,

And each has had his day. When the City Council passes the ordinance taxing dogs, the immense revenue which will be derived from this class of canines will benefit the city coffers, if not the dogs them selves, or else the rabble will have good reason to sing out, "Oh, what a slaughter!"

REFRACTORY MARINERS.—The Police had their hands full on Tuesday night, restoring straggling tars to the U.S. vessels in the harbor. These sons of the sea, who had just received their monthly stipends, were at liber-ty on shore, but overstepped the bounds of moderation and were nabbed by the limbs of the law.

MANAGE OF STREET A WIVE IN PERIL.-A very narrow escape from serious injury, if not death, was experienced by a lady wno was riding yesterday with her husband in the outskirts of the city. The horse was frightened by the fluttering of a ATLANTIC & NORTH CAROLINA R. red dress on a clothes line, and ran at full speed into a tree, and overturned the vehicle, hurling the lady upon the ground. As she had apparently sustained but a slight injury, she was assisted into the buggy and conveyed

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—A meeting of the friends of Temperance was held at Odd Fellows' Hall on Monday evening last. A lecture was delivered by Mr. Wm. A. Kingsbury of this city, which was listened to by a large, respectable and attentive audience. After the lecture, Mr. J. H. Brinn made a few pertinent remarks. Then a Committee consisting Messrs, C. H Chadwick, Wm. G. Brinson, Jno. Richardson, Wm. Wallace and Wm. Stanly were appointed for the or

Newbern Journal of Commerce turned Radical We have for some time past believed that the Journal of Commerce Editor would turn from the Rule or Ruin party in North Carolina, and seek the old party-Republican party-of patriotism and national safety.

The Editor has found the most solid and sound plank in the platform of "North Carolina Radicals" and planted himself firmly and securely upon it. He has written like a true Republican and a patriot, as he was wont to write up to the time when military ambition took possession of him, and the evil spirit of doubt led him into the haunts of treason and disaffection to his country. Having flung away ambition and having been exorcised of his evil spirit, he writes in his issue of yesterday, as follows:

"The doubts as to what the people of North Carolina will do in regard to the matter of re-construction are settled. They will register, they will vote, they will attempt to control the Conventions which will be called to amend the Constitution, so as to make it dove-tail with the requirements of Congress and the demands of the times."

And now :-Farewell, a long farewell to brother Pell, To Graham, Worth and Davis :-Henceforth, I serve, and ne'er again rebel,-With Holden, Dick and Harris.

"Political Albinos." MR. EDITOR:-Allow me to say a word or two in reply to one point in the "aable letter" of H. R. Bryan, which appeared in this morning's Journal of Commerce. The whole communication is a mere rehash of the old storythe glorification of treason and the claiming of the full rights of American citizenship by conquered traitors-which has been drummed in our ears ever since Andrew Johnson "Tylerized," and calls for no refutation at our hands. Even the only point we wish to notice is not original with him. Weeks ago, when the defunct Commercial flung its dirt at us radicals, we rightly did not deign to reply, believing that it was digging its own grave. But when "one of our most substantiated and worthy citizens—a gentleman of fine mind; extensive attainments in law and literature; of very conservative principles, moderate in everything," picks up the dirt and gives it another fling at us, we may, perhaps, examine it, and see whence it comes, and whether our whited sepulchres" are soiled by it, The "gentleman" makes use of the phrase "political albinos" as an opprobrious epithet when applied to us; in other words, this boasted "best friend" of the negro would insult us by calling us "white negroes." O! consistency! thou art a jewel.

What is an albino? We answer, the white child of black parents; simply a full blooded negro with a white skin instead of a black one. To whom then could the term "albinos" justly be opprobriously applied? We think only to the child of white parents who has negro blood in his veins—drawn from the breasts of the Who are the "albinos of the present day we will leave to those acquainted with the customs of Southern society to decide.

The dirt at least does not stick to the skirts "RADICAL"
