The New Berne Republican. NEW BERNE, OCTOBER 13, 1868. GRANT.

A RHYME FOR THE CAMPAIGN. BY WM. H. BURLEIGH.

An honest man--a man without pretense, Modest, but brave--though silent, full of sense; His lightest fancies are substantial facts, And his best thoughts translate themselves in acts;

No fogs of doubt obstruct his steady gaze, No vague, dim shadow looms through the haze, But all stands out clear, sharp, and well-defined Before the earnest challenge of his mind--

A mind that, in beginnings, sees the ends, Explores, compares, weighs, gauges, comprehends, And with a force resistless as the tides Shapes to results whatever it decides:

A clear, cool brain, well-balanced and compact, That in to-day's discerns to-morrow's act, And, fruitful in resource, to all its needs Measures the succor that must come in deeds:

A calm and lofty courage, that can cope With direst perils, hoping against hope; Patience that tires not, and an iron will, Tenacious, stubborn, and persistent still,

That naught can swerve from its one grand design To fight it out and conquer--"on this line." From even disaster wresting full success, As in the conflicts of "The wilderness," And making all things to his purpose bend "Till 'Appomattox' brings the glorious end:

Such are the traits that mark our CHOSEN MAN-- Note him, oh, world! and "match him, if you can!" Where'er the thunders of his cannon pealed Rebellion to its fortress centre reeled;

Where'er his banners blazed along the war They marked the path of Victory's bloody car, 'Till, one by one, before his legions, fell Treason's strongholds, though deemed impregnable;

Its proudest chiefs his mastery confessed, And bowed, submissive, every haughty crest, And the rent Union was again restored, By Lincoln's faith and Grant's victorious sword.

Now--when the Hate that struck at Freedom's life Like a leashed hound stands panting for the strife, And perjured zealots of the bad "lost cat" seep Trample on justice and defy the laws, Kill, torture, ravage, till the very skies Reek with their burnings and their batcheries;

Now--when the Nation needs, her course to guide, The same strong Hand that broke Rebellion's pride, The strenuous Will that never swerved nor bent, But held its purpose to its first intent;

The loyal Heart, to Duty ever true, That by just means doth noble ends pursue-- They are all ready--Heart, and Will, and Hand-- To do the work her patriots may demand;

To shield the weak, the lawless to restrain, The Treason crush that lifts its head again, Back to their kennels scourge the "Kuklux Klan," And the law's axis throw o'er every man, Till right prevail and wrong and outrage cease,

And, to his prayer responsive, "Give us peace!" The land shall cry, GRANT--VICTORY--AND PEACE!

OUR PLATFORM.

I. We congratulate the country on the assured success of the reconstruction policy of Congress, as evinced by the adoption, in the majority of the States lately in rebellion, of constitutions securing equal civil and political rights to all, and it is the duty of the Government to sustain those institutions and to prevent the people of such States from being readmitted to the status of anarchy.

who has refused to execute the laws; who has used his high office to induce other officers to ignore and violate the laws; who has employed his executive powers to render insecure the property, the peace, liberty and life of the citizen; who has abused the pardoning power; who has denounced the National Legislature as unconstitutional; who has persistently and corruptly resisted, by every means in his power, every proper attempt at the reconstruction of the States lately in rebellion; who has perverted the public patronage into an engine of wholesale corruption; and who has been justly impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors, and properly pronounced guilty thereof by the votes of thirty-five Senators.

IX. The Doctrine of Great Britain and other European powers, that because a man is once a subject he is always so, must be resisted at every hazard by the United States, by the laws of nations, and at war with our national honor and independence. Naturalized citizens are entitled to protection in all their rights of citizenship, as though they were native-born; and no citizen of the United States, native or naturalized, must be liable to arrest and imprisonment by any foreign power for acts done or words spoken in this country; and if so arrested and imprisoned, it is the duty of the Government to interfere in his behalf.

X. Of all who were faithful in the trials of the late war, there were none entitled to more especial honor than the brave soldiers and seamen who endured the hardships of campaign and cruise, and imperilled their lives in the service of the country; the bounties and pensions provided by the laws for these brave warriors of the nation are obligations never to be forgotten; the widows and orphans of the gallant dead are the wards of the people--a sacred legacy, bequeathed to the nation's protecting care.

XI. Foreign immigration, which in the past has added so much to the wealth, development, and resources and increase of power to this Republic, the asylum of the oppressed of all nations, should be fostered and encouraged by a liberal and just policy.

XII. This convention declares itself in sympathy with all oppressed peoples struggling for their rights.

On motion of Carl Shurz, the following two planks were added by a unanimous vote: Resolved, that we highly commend the spirit of magnanimity and forbearance with which men who have served in the rebellion, but who have frankly and honestly co-operated with us in restoring the peace of the country and reconstructing the Southern States governments upon the basis of Imperial Justice and Equal Rights, are received back into the communion of the loyal people; and we favor the removal of the disqualifications and restrictions imposed upon the late rebels in the same measure as their spirit of loyalty will direct, and as may be consistent with the safety of the loyal people.

Resolved, that we recognize the great principles laid down in the immortal Declaration of Independence as the true foundation of democratic government; and we hail with gladness every effort toward making these principles a living reality on every inch of American soil.
