THE CANVASS IN CRAVEN COUNTY.

While the Republicans of Craven county put forward no claims of recognition in advance of those of their meritorious friends in other counties, it surely cannot be a matter of surprise that they should feel quite exultant as well as proud over the final result...

While some went to different localities and made speeches, others were equally earnest in pushing forward the cause by other legitimate ways and means. It would hardly be just to undertake to discriminate. It is sufficient to say that good, efficient and thorough work was done, and hence the complete rout of the enemy...

GRATITUDE AND SATISFACTION.

We now see from all sections of the country unmistakable indications of deep satisfaction at the election of GRANT and COLEMAN. Along with the entire mass of Republicans, tens of thousands of Democrats seem to be really pleased at the grand termination of the prolonged contest...

American Women as Described by a Scotchman.

David McRae, Esq., who has commenced the publication in the Glasgow (Scotland) Herald of a series of articles, descriptive of the habits, customs, scenery, &c., of America, as appeared to him during his recent visit, says: "The American ladies agreeably disappointed me. They are by no means the dry, hard, angular, disagreeable, independent, strong-minded women they are described. Here and there, no doubt, you find a few of this stamp. Traveling over the country you occasionally encounter a lady who lectures, or preaches, or edits a newspaper, or fills a professional chair, or has a regular practice as a physician. But these cases are very few and far between—rari mantes in gurgite vasto. And even they are very often, as a Scotch doctor, in Massachusetts described them, 'mild' women. But American females, as a rule, are just as gentle and kind, as lovely, as agreeable and as affectionate as our own. Their loveliness is of a different type—paler and more ethereal. A beautiful Canadian or American girl comes nearer the popular idea of angel than any being I have ever beheld out of dream land. Pale features, of a delicate symmetry. On delicate and pure complexion, eyes radiant with intelligence—a light, graceful, often fragile form—this is the vision of loveliness that meets the eye in almost every drawing room. I never saw during all my life before so many fair forms, which it would have surprised me less to see shooting out wings and flying up into the empyrean."

LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, Nov. 8. Gen. Rousseau repudiates the phraseology of offensive terms and a portion of the substance of the late conversation reported as having occurred between him and the Herald's correspondent in a letter dated the 28th ult. Up to three or four days previous to the election, it was his opinion as well as that of every one else, that trouble would occur on election day, but upon a pledge from the Democratic clubs that they would exert themselves actively for the preservation of order and protection of all voters. No apprehension was then felt, and the sequel has proved his confidence well founded.

NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 8. The Gen. Meade collided with the Marmion from Savannah, near the Scotland light ship cutting the Marmion below her water line. The Gen. Meade brought off the passengers and part of the crew of the Marmion, but the Meade ran on the Jersey flats to prevent her sinking. The Lackawanna has gone to the Marmion's assistance. The Marmion sank to her decks, but has plenty of assistance.

State Department advices indicate little real progress in the Alabama claims. Secretary Seward says conditions to administer Johnston's proposed settlement and there is a dead lock.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Nov. 8, 1868. The Democratic newspapers in this city, now that the election is over and the result beyond question, are renewing the cry, so popular before the Chicago Convention, that Gen. Grant is only a seeming Republican, that all his sympathies and opinions are conservative, and that in his administration he will take such a course as will disappoint the Republicans who have been his warmest friends from the start. Such opinions are not only advanced in the newspapers here, but many of the leading Democrats are profuse in their assurances that Gen. Grant will disappoint the Republicans, and the subject is becoming one of general comment in Democratic circles. The President's evening organ in this city has already taken the cue, and cries: "Let us have peace." In its issue of to-day, it recommends the Democracy to bury the hatchet, and urges the old Jackson Democratic Association to prepare to receive the new President and assure him of their support and good wishes. Another Democratic newspaper recommends certain Cabinet appointments for Gen. Grant's administration, and the feeling among the Copperheads seems to be that they have achieved a victory in the election of the Republican candidates. It is also noticed that the Cabinet-makers that through the city have already begun to ply their vocations, and the Congressional directory has been published and clipped until there is little left of it to furnish material for this industrious class of persons. Probably during the past few days enough proposals have been made for Gen. Grant's acceptance to supply all administrations for a half-century to come. It is not uncommon to hear of one Democrat naming a dozen persons for the position of Secretary of the Treasury, that being apparently the office which most excites their solicitude. The number of original Grant men here is really astonishing. The Departments through with those who declare that Grant was their first and only choice for President, and hundreds insist that they would have resigned had Gov. Seymour been elected. The class thus embraced does not include alone the overpaid clerks who so vigorously press their 30 per cent claims at each session of Congress, but several heads of Bureaus and Departments, Superintendents, Chiefs, and other high officials. Altogether the political situation here since the election is very interesting.

Crawford's statue of Washington, in Richmond, is likely to fall and be ruined unless immediate measures are taken to prevent the destruction. The weather has corroded the iron bolts which fasten the statue to the pedestal, and the bands which hold together the pedestal (assumed from the same cause) are liable to be destroyed from the same cause. The requisite measures to preserve the statue from destruction are to be taken at once.

How to Treat a Watch.

First—Wind your watch as nearly as possible at the same time every day. Secondly—Be careful that your key is in good condition, as there is much danger in injuring the machine when the key is worn or cracked. There are more main springs and chains broken through a jerk in winding than from any other cause, which injury will sooner or later be the result if the key is in bad order. Thirdly—As all metals contract by cold and expand by heat, it must be manifest that to keep the watch as nearly as possible at one temperature, is a necessary piece of attention. Fourthly—Keep the watch as constantly as possible in one position, that is, if it hangs by day let it hang by night against something that is soft. Fifthly—The hands of a pocket chronometer, or duplex watch, should never be set backwards; in other watches this is a matter of no consequence. Sixthly—The glass should never be opened in watches that set and regulate at the back. Seventhly—On regulating a watch, should it be going too fast, move the regulator a trifle towards the slow, and if going too slow, do the reverse; you cannot move the regulator too gently at a time, and the only inconvenience that can arise is, that you may have to perform that duty more than once.
