It would appear to be a reason able inference, that the Administration was in possession of such facts as will fully justify its action in sanctioning the course of the Federal authorities in New Orleans, and it becomes all patriotic citizens to calmly await such further developments as will doubtless be made to Congress by the President, before indulging in criticisms which, after a full investigation, may turn out to be extremely unjust.

All good Republicans have only to call to mind the eminent services endered by Gen. Grant to the country in the time of its greatest need, to convince them of his patriotic devotion to the interests of the Nation, and that, if the action of his Administration may appear for the time to partake of severity, it will eventually be fully sustained by attendant circumstances. Already the letter of General Sheridan, published in another column, places the whole transaction in a very different light from the rumors, and ex parte statements of the Democratic press, who, for the most part, have seized upon this opportunity for another attempt to "fire the Southern heart."

There is one inconsistent feature which stands out in bold relief in the discussion of this matter by Democratic newspapers. Their affected indignation seems to be directed against President Grant and Lieutenant General Sheridan for alleged violations of the rights of the States and the liberties of the people, forgetting that these illustrious men for four long years risked their lives upon many a battle-field to uphold and defend the people of our whole country from the attempts of a Democratic slaveholding aristocracy to grind them under foot. The loyal people of the United States will be slow to forget that this cry of States' Rights and the attempt to exercise it to the extent of a total destruction of the Union, have entailed upon this country untold miseries, and we are much mistaken if before many weeks they do not have cause to thank the Government for its efficient action in checking what might otherwise have resulted in open insurrection and bloodshed in the Southwest.

We will take the earliest opportunity to lay before our readers such material information as may be placed before Congress by the President in regard to the matter, and we doubt not it will be of such a character as to entitle him to a renewa! of the Nation's gratitude.

Our Finances.

It would redound much more to the credit of the present Legislature if, instead of devoting the remaining portion of their time to concocting schemes for perpetuating party interests by constitutional alterations, it would address itself to the task of earnestly considering the best mode of compromising our State indebtedness. The Supreme Court will soon render its decision upon the constitutional amendments which have been submitted to and adopted by the people, and it is generally conceded that they will be declared constitutional.

If this be so, the Legislature of the State will not assemble again after the adjournment of the present session until November, 1876.

In the meantime, unless some action is taken to prevent it, the interest of the State in the North Carolina Railroad will, in all probability, be sold under the Swazey decision, and this great State work will forever pass out of the control of the people of North Carolina. But, as yet, we have heard of no serious effort to prevent this calamity, nor indeed has any very deep concern seemed to have manifested itself on the part of Democratic legislators in regard to the State's indebtedness of any kind. Year after year, since the present controlling party has had possession of the legislative branch of the government, rated, and the country forced into the question has been discussed in a war by the failure of the governa rambling way, and nothing beyond the appointment of committees to examine into the matter has resulted.

These committees meet, hold a conference with a few of the bondholders of the State, and generally die out without suggesting any plan of a substantial character whereby of either the interest or any portion of the principal of the huge debt

Heal Up the Breaches.

There may have been a small how of excuse at the period of our complete ascendency in North Carlina and the Nation, for Republi an leaders to entertain some feelings of bitterness towards each other as the contending factions sought to elevate men of their peculiar choice. There was then something to strive for in the way of political preferment. The patronage and offices of the country were for the most part at our disposal. But now, when Democracy seems for a time to be in the ascendant, and the enemies of the people are straining every nerve to reinstate the old order of things; when the great rights of the masses of the country are being seriously threatened, there can be no excuse offered why men of prominence in the Republican party should not discard all effort for self- road is only 136 miles, but it cost promotion and devote their entire | $37,350,000 in American gold coin. energy to the great work of rescuing us from threatened dangers. If we are to redeem the State of North Carolina from the hands of those who have proven themselves to be utterly unworthy to be trusted with the guidance of public affairs, it is high time that every vestige of past differences should be at once dispelled, and in the great fight before us every available man should be found at his post. Let disappointments be forgotten. Let not the be seen three lines of rails lying one thwarting of any man's ambitious projects be offered as a pretext for lukewarmness in the cause of Republicanism. Remember, Republicans of North Carolina, that men weigh as nothing in the balance when the great principles of Justice and Right are endangered. If personal feeling is allowed to govern you and cause a deviation from the strict paths of duty as good Republicans and lovers of your country, it may be that the rights now enjoyed will be wrested from you, never to be regained. We sincerely hope that every neighborhood in the State will consult together and heal all minor differences that may exist. Let the common good of our glorious old State receive paramount consideration, and all attempts to stir up strife at a time when we most need energetic unity, be frowned down. > Railroading in South America. The gigantic project of scaling the mighty Andes by rail was first projected and is now being carried out by Henry Meiggs, tunneling mountains of solid granite and spanning streams and passes at heights from 35 to 252 feet above their beds, almost irrespective of cost. Some idea may be formed of the cost of construction where operations were commenced on a level with the sea. and in a distance of 1041 miles, the bed of the road has attained the unparalleled height of 15,645 feet above the level of the sea, and in that distance passing through 58 tunnels measuring from 200 feet to 3,737 feet One of the bridges spans the Agua de Verruga. THE ALDINE. The Art Journal of America,

ISSUED MONTHLY.

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon 1875, a warrant in Bankruptcy was is- as a proper appreciation of the want and sued out of the District Court of the an ability to meet it were shown, the of North Carolina, against the estate of to its support, and the result was a description of -THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all Bankrupt on his own Petition: the regularity, has none of the temporary or TIMELY interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light, and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception-alone and unapproachedabsolutely without competition in price or character. The p ssessor of a complete volume can not duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST; AND THEN, THERE

IS THE CHROMO, BESIDES! The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not contine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicous interspersion of landscape, marine, figure, and animal subjects, sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment, worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work. PREMIUM FOR 1875. Every subscriber for 1875 will receive Greensboro, N. C., on
