INFLUENCE OF NEWSPAPERS

INFLUENCE OF NEWSPAPERS

A school teacher, who had been a long time engaged in his profession, and witnessed the influence of a newspaper upon the minds of a family of children, writers as follows:

I have found it to be a universal fact without exception, that those scholars of both seves, and of all agree, who have access to to awapapers at home, when compared with those who have not, are 1. Better readers, excellent in pronunciation, and consequently read more understandingly.

2. They are better spellers, and define worsh with ease and accuracy.

3. They obtain a practical know edge of geography in almost half the tank it requires for, others, as the newspapers have made them sequents and doings on the gloic.

4. They are better grammarisms, for, having become as famillar with every variety of style in the newspapers, from the commonplice advertisement to the finished and classical cratino of the statesman, they more readily comprehent the meaning of the text, and consequently analyze its construction with securacy.

5. They write better compositions, more quently analyze its construction was accuracy.

5. They write better compositions, using better language, containing more thoughts, more clearly and more correctly expressed.

6. These young men who have for years been readers of newgrapers, are always taking the leal in debating societies, exhibiting a more extensive knowledge upon a greader variety of subjects, and expressing their yiews with greater themes, clearness and correctness.
