MADE NO PROMISES.

Mr. Cleveland Said to Have Declined to Pledge Anything to Tammany.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Mr. Thomas G. Shearman, speaking at the dinner of the Single Tax Club to-night, took 400 people, including a number of women, into his confidence, and gave them what he solemnly declared an official account of what took place at the famous little dinner at the Victoria Hotel.

"At the dinner, as we all know," he said, "were Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Whitney, Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Richard Croker, Lieut. Gov. Sheehan and that distinguished gentleman, who, on account of his brains and eminent fitness, has been mentioned as our next Senator, Mr. Edward Murphy, Jr. You know our Lieutenant Governor has an ardent nature as well as an ardent head. He wanted certain matters settled at once. So, very shortly after they sat down, he began to speak to Mr. Cleveland with that impetuosity for which he is noted. He told Mr. Cleveland that he thought it was time for him to show his good feeling toward the regular party organization; that pledges should be given that the regular machine be recognized.

"Mr. Cleveland listened to him closely and with such a bland and agreeably smile that the Lieutenant Governor felt encouraged to go on. He did go on to map out a plan for Mr. Cleveland to pledge himself to the suppression of the Mugwump; to pledge himself to have no affiliations whatever with Anti-snappers, to pledge himself to give the offices to the machine. Mr. Cleveland looked so meek and so subdued that Mr. Sheehan said, 'I think we are entitled to distinct pledges,' and then stopped for breath.

"There was silence for a moment, during which all eyes were turned upon Mr. Cleveland; then Mr. Cleveland, still calm and composed, said, and you may rest assured that this reply is authentic:

"Mr. Sheehan, I have listened with the utmost attention. I have followed you very closely, and I think I understand you. In reply, I wish to say that I'll be damned if I will give any men any such pledges, and I'll be doubly damned if I'll give you the pledges you ask for.'

"That was what Mr. Cleveland said, and, as a Sunday-school superintendent, I must say I disapprove of the profanity, but I rather think it was excusable under the circumstances.

"After Mr. Cleveland had made this emphatic reply there was silence, a long silence. It was broken by Mr. Croker, who said: 'I most heartily approve of what Mr Cleveland has said.' "And now, ladies and gentlemen," continued Mr. Shearman, "I'll go on and give you another confidence. I'll tell you of an attempt that was made to commit Mr. Cleveland further on in the campaign. Some friends of his, some men who are very close to him, urged him to write a letter to the managers of the regular machine to pacify them, acknowledging that their aid was necessary to the success of the campaign. Mr. Cleveland said that he could not make these pledges and that if they insisted he would write a letter withdrawing as the Democratic nominee."

LATER.—Mr. Cleveland denies having used the word "damn" in speaking.

THE HOTEL ZINZENDORF.

Winston Receives Another Heavy Blow—Loss, $120,000; Insurance $100,000—A Gasoline Stove Exploded.

WINSTON, Nov. 24.—Winston was visited with another serious conflagration to-day. Her model Hotel Zinzendorf caught fire at 11 o'clock and in less than two hours it was in ashes. The fire originated in the rear of the building by the explosion of a gasoline stove in the steam laundry. A heavy breeze was stirring and the building being a wood-in structure the flames spread rapidly. The two fire companies were on hand but for lack of water were powerless. From sparks the wood and old fields for several hundred yards around ignited. It required hard work to save other buildings. Loss $120,000; insurance $100,000

Some of the furniture was saved but broken up. The trunks of several drummers and boarders were lost. The building was owned by the West End Hotel & Land company, of which W. A. Whitaker is president. The hotel management was preparing, when the fire broke out, a Thanksgiving dinner which would surpass anything of the kind ever given in the city. Business men here say to-night that to-day's is the heaviest blow Winston has ever received. It is not known whether the hotel will be rebuilt or not.

The great mass of mankind expect to succeed in life by luck. They do not look deep enough to perceive that they cannot prosper without work or work without strength, which is born of good health. They quietly stand by and permit a cough to waste their energies and sap their constitution when they can cure it at once with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Beware.

BROKEN OUT IN A NEW PLACE.

Mott And Eaves Not In It At All This Time.

A Vendetta Over a Department Sinecure—Messrs. Keogh and Boyd Saw Their Opportunity—Mr. Hoskins' Mortgage Not so Easily Collected—A Constant Feeder on Government Pap—Mr. Settle Must Have an "Organ."

Correspondence Charlotte Observer.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 24.—The vendetta in the Republican party in North Carolina has broken out afresh and in a new place. This time it is not Mott and Eaves.

Some time last year Messrs. T. B. Keogh and James E. Boyd, of Greensboro, were smart enough to dump the North State, published in that place, on the Federal officers of the eastern judicial district for a good round sum in order to have a personal organ for the office-holders.

For many years a sinecure under the Department of Agriculture, which pays sixty dollars per month for a service that does not require one day during each month to perform the work exacted by the department, has been one of the perquisites of this paper. Mr. Thomas B. Keogh was keen enough to find this place and he secured it for a Greensboro man who was employed on the North State. When the sale was made to the office-holders it was understood that this sinecure was sold with the paper and Secretary Rusk confirmed this bargain and trade by appointing Mr. Thomas Purnell, who has been the editor of the officeholders' organ. When the sale was made it was understood that Mr. J. F. Hoskins held a mortgage for one thousand dollars on the paper. Mr. Hoskins desired to get his money and about a month before the electior he had the paper put up for sale, thinking that he would force the officeholders to buy and pay off his mortgage. The paper had not paid since it became the organ of the officeholders and Collector White, Marshal Hill and others of like ilk did not bite and Mr. Hoskins sold, and Marshal Tyre Glenn became the purchaser. Mr. Glenn has not been in good humor with Collector White and other revenue officers since they supported Mr. Henry C. Cowles, of Statesville, for national committeeman and defeated Mr. Glenn.

It was at the Minneapolis convention that Dr. J. O. Wilcox, who went there as the avowed friend of Dr. Mott, changed sides so quickly from Blaine to Harrison that the rear of his trousers were found in front.

The defection and treachery of Wilcox defeated Glenn, and Eaves and White were responsible for the action of Wilcox. The argument used to secure the support of Wilcox for Cowles was that Cowles as national committeeman "would see" to it that any money sent down by the committee should be spent in the districts of Settle and Pritchard, each of these four last named gentlemen being Republican candidates for Congress.

Mr. Glenn has been nursing and coddling his wrath—biding his time. It came when he bought the paper, and he immediately notified his office-holding brethren that the North State was now his personal property and was under his sole management. At the same time he wrote Mr. Purnell and asked his resignation of the sinecure which he holds under Mr. Secretary Rusk in order that Mr. V. B. Ball, which first two letters, according to James Madison Leach, of sainted memory, being translated, mean Vinegar Bitters, who has been employed as editor by Mr. Glenn, may be appointed and thus have the United States government pay his salary as editor as has been done in the case of Mr. Purnell.

The latter gentleman came into the Republican party by means of the office of State Librarian and he has been able to hold on to some public teat ever since. To hold office is second nature with him and it is more painful than pulling eye teeth for him to surrender his monthly stipend, and he has peremptorily refused to resign at the request of Marshal Glenn. Mr. Thomas Settle, nephew of Glenn, having been elected to Congress, he and his uncle are determined to have an organ in the fifth district for the purpose of taking care of Mr. Settle, who is the only nest egg the Republicans have in the State.

In the meantime Harrison having been defeated, the occupation of office-holding and office-getting of Cowles, Eaves, White & company has played out, and they are not so much interested in their personal newspaper organ as they "used to was." They are content to sink all the money they put into the concern and let Mr. Glenn have the pleasure, as they say, of the white elephant which he now has on his hands.

Nothing could be more positive and to the point than the testimony of Mrs. Wm. F. Whittington, of Waterbury, Md., who writes as follows: "I have found Salvation Oil a most useful remedy; for neuralgia it is unequaled, for sprains execelled. I cheerfully recommend it as a valuable household article."

THE APPROACHING CONFERENCE.

To Be Held in Winston This Week—Only Six Preachers to Be Moved Under the Law of Limitation.

At the approaching Conference of the Methodist Chuch, South, to be held in Winston this week, there will be only six preachers who will have to be moved on account of the law of limitation. These will be Rev. W. R Barnett, D. D., presiding elder of Franklin district; Rev. Ira Erwin, of Burkhead church, Winston; Rev. M. A. Smith, of Mt. Zion Station, Rev. T. N. Stephenson, of Wadesboro circuit; Rev. M.T. Steele of South Fork circuit. Five presiding elders have served only two years in their present fields; Revs. J. R. Brooks, D. D., P.J. Carraway, J. R. Scroggs, A. P. Tyer and T. W. Guthrie. Those who have served three years are Revs. J.J. Renn, R. M. Hoyle and J. H. Weaver.

Eighty-six preachers have been in their present charges only one year. This is the second year with 32 and the third with 9. This takes no account of supplies, supernumeraries, nor those appointed as second men on any work, nor of those appointed to teach in colleges.

These figures show that a little less than 60 per cent. of the Conference were moved last year. A similar study of the minutes for three other years reveals that 58 per cent. were moved in one year, 48 per cent. another and 45 another, or a small fraction over 50 per cent., for the three years taken together.

J. W. Yates, Tullahoma, Tenn, writes: "It does me good to praise Botanic Blood Balm. It cured me of an abscess on the lungs and asthma that troubled me two years and that other remedies failed to benefit."

GROVER, DAVID B. AND HARRISON.

Mr. Struempfler Will Name His Triplets—His Story of Their Births.

Mrs. Christina Struempfler, the wife of saloon keeper at 645 Central avenue, Williamsburgh, presented her husband with triplets on Monday. They are all boys, and a happier man than "Jake" Struempfler could not be found anywhere in Brooklyn yesterday. All day long he received the congratulations of his friends, and his story of the arrival of the little Struempfler amused many people.

Mr. Struempfler is 37 years old and about 5 feet, 2 inches in height. He weighs about 130 pounds. Mrs. Struempfler is two years younger than her husband and about five inches taller. She weighs nearly 200 pounds. The couple have been married seventeen years, and previous to the birth of the triplets had four children. The eldest is a pretty brunette, 16 years old, and the others are respectively 14, 11, and 8 years old. The last is a boy.

At 10:45 o'clock on Monday morning Mr. Struempfler was called up stairs and told that he was the father of another boy. The saloon keeper celebrated the event by inviting all the neighbors to his saloon and treating them to a keg of beer.

"You ought to see what a tiny little fellow he is," he said. "I don't hink he weighs more than five pounds.

Then the conversation was suspended until the glasses had been drained.

"Now I have a family that any man can be proud of," Struempfler began again, but before he could finish the sentence a hall door behind the ice pox was opened and a feminine voice called out:

"Jake, go right up stairs. Somebody wants you."

At the head of the stairs Strumpfler's sister-in-law met him and told him that another boy had been born to his wife.

"By golly, who would have thought that!" exclaimed Struempfler. He returned to the saloon a few minutes afterwards with a smiling countenance.

"Boys, have another beer on me. Instead of one boy there are two," said Struempfler as he seated himself and folded his arms. "To think that my wife would have twins. By golly, it beats everything."

While he was still receiving the congratulations of his friends half an hour later he was again called up stairs.

"What do you want?" asked Struempfler.

"Your wife has just given birth to another boy."

"By golly," exclaimed the saloon keeper, "how many more are coming?"

Strumepfler ran up the stairs to his wife's room, and, sure enough, there lay three babies in a row at the foot of the bed.

"Well, this beats all I ever heard!" he exclaimed. The father of four children yesterday; the father of seven up to now. I wonder when it's going to end."

When Struempfler returned to the saloon his smile was broader than ever. In answer to questions of his friends he ejaculated:

"Just think of it. My wife has triplets!"

Until late on Monday night Struempfler celebrated the event. From an early hour yesterday morning people called at his saloon to congratulate him. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Struempfler was resting easy. The triplets lay together at the foot of the bed.

"This one," said Struempfler, pointing to the boy in the middle, "will be baptized Grover Cleveland." "This one," pointing to the boy on the the right, "is going to be David B., and this one," pointing to third, "is going to be called Harrison. I can't leave Harrison out in in cold, even after I helped to defeat him."

Just then little Harrison Strumpfler seemed to be disturbed. "Don't cry, 'Harri,' old boy, you may get there yet," said Struempfler, as he patted the baby on the cheek. Little Grover also grew restless, and Mrs. Strumpfler suggested that the room be again darkened.

"They each weigh eight pounds," said Struempfler, "and I hope they will grow up and become as great men as the men after whom they are named."—New York Sun.

A Gideonite Gets Out.

Charlotte News.

Mr. W. K. White, a strong Third party man, who has been a member of the Kehukee Primitive Baptist Church down at Scotland Neck, for many years, Saturday withdrew from the church without any charges against him. His church will not receive or keep in fellowship any member of any secret order, and Mr. White has been conspicuous as a Third party man and has rather favored in his position the work of Gideon's Band. He withdrew from the church on his own accord. Members of the church think that he rather hoped some one would prefer charges against him and then he would withdraw on the plea of persecution for his political opinions, but the church kept still and let him do his own kicking.

Mrs. Joe. Person's GREAT REMEDY
FOR ILLS OF THE FLESH.
It will cure Scrofula, Cancer and many other skin and blood diseases, and is AN EXCELLENT NERVINE
The News recommends it as a great blood purifier.
Mrs. Person gives an idea of it in a few words:
When I first made a cure in my own family, I recognized in the Remedy a specific whose power for good was unlimited. It was impossible that I should know it was good for anything else than scrofula. Every one who used it pronounced it the finest TONIC they ever used; as an ALTERATIVE it is unequalled, and as a
PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD
it is endorsed by all who have used it. It will cure Cancer in its early stages, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Muscular Rheumatism, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from impurity of the blood. A good dose will give instant relief in cases of Colic, and its continued use will cure the worst cases of Chronic Bilious Colic. For ulceration of the womb it is excellent, when used with the Wash. I have never known it to fail in Syphilitic troubles, when the Wash was used in connection with the Bitters. I have never known it to fail to cure indigestion; in such cases the dose may be taken as follows, if preferable, half hour after breakfast, half hour after dinner, and just before retiring. It is a fine Nervine, and will give good natured sleep to those who are restless. It is a very valuable remedy. Call at Taylor & Banner's Drug Store, Mt. Airy.
