ARTICLE VI.

VACATIONS.

There shall be two vacations—one during the month of September, and the other a short period before Christmas, at the discretion of the superintending committee.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

THE PRINCELY TRIUMPH.

George, Frederick & Wm. Guelph.—Prince Regent—commander in chief of the forces, and admiral of the fleet.

The Prince Regent of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, was born on the 12th of August, 1762, and is therefore in his 50th year. In early life he was married according to the ordinance of the Church of England, to a most interesting and accomplished lady, Mrs. Fitzherbert. This solemn engagement after some years continuance, was declared null and void, and he took for his second wife "a princess of the illustrious house of Brunswick," to use the language of the court. He soon treated this wife with the most disgusting coolness and contempt, and "cloped from her bed and board," and moreover accused her of incontinency, though he himself was known to every bawd in the metropolis as among the most profligate creatures "within the bills of mortality." An inquiry, known by the name of the "delicate investigation," was had, and the lady in due time honourably acquitted. George, however, acknowledges a female child, this woman had, born January 7th, 1786, within a year after he coupled with her. This girl, called Charlotte Caroline Augusta, is 16 years old, represented to have quite as much sense as belongs to the family, and reported to be designed as a wife to the young prince of Orange, son of the ex-stadtholder of Holland, as soon as the parties arrive at maturity. If this match is not speed upon, she may be unable to please her fancy among the few "legitimate princes" that yet reign in Europe; mount the throne as a maiden, and be the second "virgin queen" of England.

The support of the prince regent from the time of his birth to the present day (49 years) has cost the British nation, by direct annuities only, twenty millions of dollars; he has also received excessive "free gifts" from the parliament on several occasions. Besides, his debts, then amounting to more than two millions of dollars, were paid by the people in 1787.

In 8 years afterwards his promissory note for 3000, would not sell for 30 shillings in the money market, and government again interfered to support the "dignity of the heir apparent." His debts were paid from the publick purse a second time on which occasion, they amounted to 720,860l. 4s. 2d. (2,842,112 dolls.) Since then he was relieved, but we do not recollect what amount, and the London papers now state it as gratifying intelligence, that his debts proposed to be paid by a vote of parliament do not exceed 600,000l.—only 2,400,000 dollars! It is understood that Festival and Co. have agreed to discharge these demands at the price of their places in the ministry; and it is further intimated that the amount of the debts of 80 years the thing is probable enough) that they are further to procure for him a divorce from his wife, on the plea of want of chastity before marriage!

This limb of royalty has cost the British nation—that is his own personal or individual support, about 800,000 dollars on an average, for every year of his life, independent of his fixed annuities and public free gifts, receiving large portions of the "candle ends and cheese parings" of a profligate government. No wonder that "two fifths of the labouring poor are paupers"—no wonder that the spinner or weaver by toiling 16 hours in every 24, is hardly able to furnish a wife and two or three small children, with a sufficiency even of the coarsest bread. This man George Guelph, without doing any thing to compensate the least atom of the expenditure has consumed the whole proceeds of three thousand men for forty-nine years, admitting that each of them earned one dollar per day. There is no language that can paint his debaucheries in their true colours—all that French ingenuity could devise, and British strength perform, were concentrated, consolidated & systematized by him and his profligate colleagues. Nay the graces of the South Sea Islanders were impressed into his service, and more than Otaheitan could do was transacted in the brothels of the British prince! Such pursuits are yet continued. Public report said he was confined with a sprained ankle. Now how he met this disaster was not so generally known.

A caricature engraving, exposed to common view in the windows of the print shops of London, solves this mystery. He appears to have been trespassing on a delicate property belonging to lord Holland, who seized him in the fact, fell upon him and blacked his royal eye, slapped his royal jaws, and terminated the affair literally by kicking him down stairs, by which his royal ankle was sprained, &c.

The prince regent has not co-
